ERWIN AND DEAL DISAGREE WITH WILEY ON AKRON

NOISE "LIKE STEPPING ON BOX OF MATCHES"

Lakehurst, N. J., April 11 (A.P.).—A picture of the mammoth dirigible Akron dropping through darkness with its bow up at an angle of 35 degrees and hitting the water with a crash "like stepping on a penny box of matches" was given the naval court of inquiry today.

With the picturesque words of a sailor, Moody Erwin, aviation metalsmith second class, told the story of the flight that cost 73 lives, and they broke at times the tenseness of the dignified courtroom.

The slender Erwin was one of three survivors of the disaster in the Atlantic off New Jersey a week ago last Monday night. He followed the two other survivors in the witness chair.

Say Ship Broke Aloft.

Erwin joined Richard E. Deal, boatswain, in telling of the breaking of longitudinal girders and the steep incline of the ill-fated airship following what both described as a terrific "gust of wind." Both said they had to grab girders to pull themselves up the catwalk toward the bow and Erwin estimated the angle was about 35 degrees.

Both, too, testified the first break in the structure of the ship occurred in the air following the gust they described, whereas Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Wiley, the third survivor, changing his opinion, said the ship's framework did not break until the Akron struck the water.

Wiley, sole surviving officer, preceded Deal and Erwin on the witness stand today, concluding this morning the testimony he started as the first witness in the investigation yesterday.

"More Mature Thought."

As the result of "more mature thought and consultation," he changed several parts of his previous testimony, most important of which was the declaration he believed the "severe gust" he had pictured was in reality the shock caused by the stern's hitting the water.

He asserted that explained the reason for his failing to feel the gust through the windows of the control car.

Asked by the judge advocate why the captain (Commander F. C. McCord) decided to make the flight when weather making it impossible to calibrate radio directions as planned was forecast, Wiley testified other operating problems could be carried out, thus justifying, in his opinion, the take-off in the face of adverse conditions.

ROOSEVELT OPPOSES DEPOSIT GUARANTEE

Desires Measure Be Split Up and Voted as Series; Revision Possible.

(Associated Press.)

The banking reform legislation struck a snag yesterday as the word was passed on Capitol Hill that President Roosevelt is opposed to the provisions for blanket insurance or guarantee of bank deposits already agreed to in subcommittee.

It was the understanding in congressional circles after a White House conference of the President, Secretary Woodin and Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, that the Chief Executive desired that the all-inclusive measure be split into parts and enacted as a series of measures.

In the resulting confusion it was stated authoritatively by aids of the President that he has taken no final action on the insurance of deposits proposal and does not expect to for two or three weeks, pending study.

As outlined at the Capitol, however, President Roosevelt's objections to the deposit insurance provision and other sections of the revised Glass bill foreshadowed possible redrafting of the tentative measure that had been agreed to by a Senate banking subcommittee.

The President was reported also to have dissented from the branch banking provisions of the Glass bill and proposed restricting branch banking to county limits, while his Treasury Secretary was reported in senatorial circles to have objected to certain features of the proposed requirement that national banks divorce their security affiliates.

Great confusion followed the White House conference, with all of its participants refusing to discuss what had happened.

The conflict of reports was heightened when Gilbert M. Hitchcock, former Nebraska senator, emerged from the White House after a conference

Break Crash Cause, Eckener's Opinion

Storm Did Not Bring Down Akron, German Air Expert Feels.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, April 11 (U.P.).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, dirigible expert, today discarded the theory that a storm had caused the Akron tragedy and said in his opinion, from reading the reports of the inquiry, the crash was caused by a break of the big ship in the airplane carrier room.

Dr. Eckener said he always had considered the room in which fighting planes were stored, a weak point in the Akron's framework.

Indiana Bank Robbed Second Time in Year

Burlington, Ind., April 11 (A.P.).—The Burlington State Bank was robbed of $2,000 today by three men who entered soon after the bank had opened for business. They escaped in an automobile.

It was the bank's second robbery this year. Last February $1,800 was taken.

Debts Not on Agenda Of Conferences Here

Hull Also Makes it Clear Far Eastern Problems Will Not Be Discussed; Topics Will Be Confined to London Subjects.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull yesterday clarified the scope of the forthcoming White House conversations yesterday by correcting certain views emanating from Paris and Tokyo incidental to the arrival here of the French and Japanese delegations.

These statements were:

First—The United States will not enter into any round table conversations with more than one nation at a time.

Second—The subjects of the talks between the President and the representatives of the eleven nations invited will be rigorously confined to the agenda of the world economic conference.

Cabled advices from Paris had revealed the intention of the French delegate, former Premier Edouard Herriot, to come to Washington prepared to talk debts with the President and the Secretary of State.

Debts, it was announced yesterday, are outside the scope of the President's intentions, just as he will not be prepared to discuss the Far Eastern problem with the Japanese delegation. The main object of the White House meeting is a preliminary understanding with the leading powers, which will afterward go to London, on the main points at issue in the world economic conference. Inasmuch, then, as the Far Eastern and debt problems are not included in the agenda already devised for the London meeting, the President will not be able to entertain such discussions.

Secretary Hull vigorously defended his tariff policy yesterday and declared that arguments to the contrary

ITALY'S PEACE PLAN BACKED IN PRINCIPLE

Air of Optimism Is Manifest After Duce Says He Won't Insist on Wording.

Rome, April 11 (U.P.).—Italy's four-power peace pact has been accepted in principle by the nations involved—Germany, France and Great Britain—it was learned authoritatively today.

An undisguised air of optimism prevailed in government circles with the meeting of French, German and Italian diplomats in Rome, and after it was learned that Premier Benito Mussolini will not insist on the actual wording of the pact, but intends simply to let the spirit of peace rule over Europe.

Mussolini has not, since discussions of the four-power pact started, leaned on technicalities, but has contended throughout that peace agreement on broad terms is necessary.

Added significance was given to the conference here with the arrival of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria. Dollfuss is on a pilgrimage to the Vatican, but at the same time is anxious to contribute his nation's share toward the peace negotiations.

On the surface, the visits of Dollfuss, Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany, and Capt. Hermann Goering have been undertaken for different missions. The coincidence of their being in Rome at the same time as the French Ambassador, Henri de Jouvenal, who was delivering the French memorandum on the peace pact, was considered of deep significance, however.

2 Fishermen Rescued From Lake Ice Floe

GOERING APPOINTED PRUSSIAN PREMIER

Von Papen Quits Temporary Post to Give All Time to Vice Chancellorship.

Berlin, April 11 (U.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler further consolidated his position of power in Germany today when he named Capt. Wilhelm Hermann Goering, his chief aid, as premier of Prussia.

The appointment came following President Paul von Hindenburg's acceptance of the resignation of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen as Reich's commissioner in Prussia and acting premier.

The president wrote Von Papen a letter, praising his services in effecting the centralization of the Reich, and expressing satisfaction that he now can fully devote himself to his duties as vice chancellor.

Von Hindenburg suggested that

OH, SHAW!

George Bernard Shaw can do many things with impunity, but when he encroaches upon the Postilion time, as he did last night, the protests are loud, vehement and vociferous.

The Postilion went on the air 33 minutes late last night owing to the extension of Shaw's remarks in his first address over the radio in America. The large radio audience which depends on the Postilion for its nightly resume of The Post's news, did not like it at all.

From 10 o'clock when the Postilion regularly goes on the air, until the voice of the Postilion was finally heard at 10:33 both The Post and the National Broadcasting Co. were besieged with calls of aroused listeners protesting against the leeway given Shaw.

Dozens of calls came in, angrily demanding an explanation and protesting against allowing Shaw to usurp the Postilion time.

"Cut that man off," the angered listeners demanded. "Get that long-winded guy out." Some also embellished their protests with expletives concerning Shaw himself as well as the persons thought to be to blame for his extended remarks.

RUSS EMBARGO PUT UP TO KING GEORGE

Bill Is Enacted as Sabotage Trial Nears; U. S. Police Scored in Debate.

London, April 11 (U.P.).—The House of Lords tonight, on the eve of the trial in Moscow of six British electrical engineers on charges of espionage and sabotage, passed a bill granting the government full authority to declare a total embargo on imports from the Soviet Union.

The bill becomes a law on royal approval. It already had been rushed through the House of Commons.

The debate in the House of Lords was brief, and included discussion of the methods by which the Soviet authorities obtained purported confessions from the six representatives in Moscow of Metropolitan-Vickers, Ltd.

The methods of the G. P. U., or secret police in Russia, are "not to be compared with the horrible tales of what we hear takes place in the United States," however, Lord Passfield commented during the discussion.

Lord Hailsham introduced the goods bill, and Sir Esmond Ovey, British Ambassador to the Soviet Union, and Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, listened to the proceedings.

Royal approval was expected immediately, but the government remained hopeful it would not need to use the embargo weapon, hoping the six men would be released.

Despite the increasing Anglo-Soviet tension, it was learned that Moscow has instructed its trade commission to remain in London after April 17.

Chicago City Council Picks Mayor Tomorrow

Hot Springs, Ark., April 11 (A.P.).—The Chicago city council will meet at 2 p. m. Thursday to consider the election of a new mayor, J. M. Arvey, chairman of the steering committee of the council, said here late today after being advised that Pat Nash, chairman of the Cook County Democratic central committee, probably would accept the mayoralty if elected by the council.

Mr. Arvey said the election of Mr. Nash would lead to a solution of the controversy over salaries due Chicago school teachers.

Stage Is Set Today For Baseball's Start

President Roosevelt and 30,000 Await Weather Man's Decision on Clash of Nats and Athletics; Crowder to Twirl.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Big league baseball catches up with the American public again today and wraps a mighty arm around the Nation's proceedings with sixteen big league clubs poised in eight major league cities for the take-off on the 154-game journey to Pennantville and sundry points South in the major league standings.

And here in Washington, where Old Man Weather is moving ominously behind the setting of Griffith Stadium's 1933 premier that presents the revival of the ever-popular skit, The Nats vs. The Athletics, the opening game will probably be staged to the tune of "Button Up Your Overcoat" before 30,000 of the curious.

HOTEL PLUNGE KILLS SENATOR KING'S SON

Plunging from a window of his seventh floor room in the Blackstone Hotel, 1016 Seventeenth street northwest, Capt. Paul B. King, son of Senator William H. King, of Utah, was instantly killed last night. His crumpled body was found by passers-by in a rear alley.

Whether Capt. King jumped or fell to his death had not been determined early today. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald indicated he would not issue a death certificate until all circumstances had been investigated.

Shortly after the body was found, James C. McCeney, secretary to Senator King, appeared at the hotel and took complete charge of the situation. A search of Capt. King's room failed to reveal anything of a nature which would indicate suicide.

That Capt. King had prepared to retire was evident by his attire. He was clad in pajamas and was barefoot. The body hurtled several feet from the hotel building, struck an

White House Aids Deny Meyer Quit

Calls to Home of Reserve Head Fail to Bring Any Response.

(Associated Press.)

Reports that Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, had resigned his post but was remaining at his job until a successor was named, last night failed to bring any response from Meyer himself while White House aids asserted the reports were unfounded.

When the report was telephoned to Meyer's home, and apparently relayed to either the governor in person or some one authorized to speak for him, the answer was given repeatedly that he was not at home.

Many of those closely informed of Treasury and Reserve Board matters have felt that Meyer would leave his post to return to private affairs when he felt that conditions justified such a step. In the event that Meyer resigned, these same sources suggested that Angus McLean, of North Carolina, would be among those considered as a successor.

LONG AND INDIANIAN ATTACK ROOSEVELT

Joe Robinson Answers Hot Criticism of "Kingfish" and Arthur Robinson.

(Associated Press.)

In the nearest thing to an old-fashioned political debate the Senate has seen this session, Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, yesterday, characterized President Roosevelt's record of accomplishment as the greatest in the history of the Nation.

Aroused by what he denounced as "unfair" criticism of the President by Senators Long (Democrat), Louisiana, and Robinson (Republican), Indiana, the Arkansas senator took the floor to uphold the administration.

His speech drew from the Indiana Robinson a warm attack on the President for sponsoring the economy bill, and an assertion from Long that he was "advising" rather than "criticizing" the Chief Executive.

Long's remarks, to which Robinson took exception, were chiefly directed at President Roosevelt's forest conservation bill which he called "a sapling bill—a sapsucker's bill."

"There are more people out of work than when he went into the White House," Long said of Roosevelt, "and more banks are closed."

The Democratic leader vigorously defended the administration's handling of the banking situation and asserted that President Hoover had refrained from closing the banks only because he could not reach an agreement with the incoming administration on the length of time they should remain closed.

"It is grossly unfair," Robinson declared, "to charge the President with responsibility for the existing banking situation. The former President contemplated issuing an order closing down the banks and only re-

Prince Nicholas Splits With Morganatic Wife

Bucharest, Roumania, April 11 (A.P.).—Prince Nicholas and his morganatic wife, Jana Lucia Deleti, have separated, it has been learned from usually well-informed sources, and the prince shortly will return to Roumania to resume all his royal rights and prerogatives.

Coincidentally, the newspaper Adeverul said that Queen Marie was instrumental in bringing about a reconciliation between Prince Nicholas and his brother, King Carol.

DISTRICT HEADS ASK LUMP SUM OF $6,000,000

SENATE UNIT SCANS NIGHT SCHOOL CURB

King Urges Study of Other Cities' Tax Rate to Arrive at Fair D. C. Levy.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

While hope dimmed for increasing the District's Federal lump-sum contribution substantially above the $5,700,000 voted by the House, the Commissioners yesterday made an effort to boost the figure to at least $6,000,000 on the basis of the Budget Bureau's own calculations.

The $1,675,000 appropriations increase allowed by the House upsets the ratio on which the Budget Bureau worked out its $5,700,000 lump sum allowance, the Commissioners and Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, advised the Senate District Appropriations subcommittee.

Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou, who yesterday made a plea for the right to shift individual school appropriations to meet the sharply curtailed school budget, will conclude his testimony before the subcommittee this morning, and Dr. George F. Bowerman, District librarian, will take the stand.

Would Affect Branches.

Three branch libraries, the Woodridge, Tenley and Chevy Chase, may have to be abandoned if the subcommittee approves the library appropriation cuts, Dr. Bowerman will inform the subcommittee.

The proposal to substitute $6,000,000 for the Budget Bureau's $5,700,000 lump-sum recommendation developed yesterday during cross-examination of District officials by members of the Senate subcommittee.

As 1934 estimates were cut 26.8 per cent under current appropriations, the Budget Bureau made a proportionate slash under the $7,775,000 1933 lump sum in estimates submitted to the House last week.

More Funds Voted.

But the House decreased this ratio by voting $1,040,000 additional for road construction and $835,000 for water-plant improvements. The District's fiscal experts yesterday declared the revised ratio calls for a lump sum of at least $6,000,000, which is still $1,775,000 below the current allowance.

Some hope for a more generous lump-sum allowance is still held by individual members of the subcommittee, but the preponderance of

Found Guilty on Charge of Conspiring to Defraud Depositors.

Baltimore, April 11 (A.P.).—Webster Bell, president of the closed Park Bank here, today was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the depositors of the bank.

He was tried with Clinton O. Richardson, chairman of the board of the bank, who committed suicide last Friday, one day after the trial ended. Richardson was not mentioned in the verdict, which was handed down by Judges Robert F. Stanton, Samuel K. Dennis and Eli Frank.

Bell was found guilty on four counts of conspiracy, but was acquitted on the fifth charge of conspiring to borrow in excess of the legal limit. Sentence will be announced later.

MONEY EXPANSION URGED AS FARM AID

House Limits Debate and Is to Vote on Bill Today; Smith Renews Fire.

(Associated Press.)

Clarion demands for currency expansion to float the farmer out of the bog of his low-price troubles sounded in both House and Senate yesterday as the administration agricultural relief program stumbled along its path through Congress.

Evidence of a widening breach between the White House and some Democratic senators appeared on the Senate floor in reiteration by Chairman Smith of the Agriculture Committee of hostility toward some sections of the Roosevelt farm-aid plan.

While the Senate roared to vigorous debate—attack and counterattack that embraced the entire Roosevelt program—the House, by a vote of 254 to 130, limited debate on the $2,000,000,000 administration mortgage refinancing program to eight hours and excluded amendments other than those from its Agriculture Committee.

House Passage Near.

This presaged passage this afternoon, but the chances of Senate approval by the end of the week dimmed. The Senate is considering the mortgage bill as part of a general bill, seeking to lift farm prices to 1909-1914 levels by giving Secretary Wallace broad powers.

Representative Boileau (Republican), Wisconsin, urging expansion of the currency in the House, told members that unless the so-called Frazier currency-mortgage aid proposal were passed, 3,000,000 farmers would lay down their tools on May 1 and strike.

Under the Frazier plan, advocated by Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, and backed by the National Farmers Union, it is proposed to issue currency to refinance farm debts at 1½ per cent interest and 1½ per cent on the principal yearly.

Offered As Substitute.

Frazier is offering it as a substitute for the administration plan to refinance farm debts at 4½ per cent through a $2,000,000,000 bond issue and $400,000,000 from the Treasury and Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A "liberal" currency policy was recommended in the House by Representative Jones (Democrat), Texas, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, while in the Senate Smith termed inflation necessary and said the administration bill dealt only with "symptoms."

Several senatorial groups now are working on inflationary proposals in line with the Agriculture Committee's recommendation that currency expansion was the only hope for permanent and "substantial" farm relief.

Marriage License Clerk Is Convicted

Held Guilty of Failure to Include $69,000 Tips on Income Return.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Deputy City Clerk James J. McCormick, in charge of the marriage license bureau, was found guilty in a sealed verdict opened in Federal court today of failing to file Federal income tax returns showing the receipt in 1929 and 1930 of $69,000 in tips from bridegrooms.

The verdict, however, acquitted McCormick on two felony counts charging attempts to evade and defeat the income tax laws in the same years.

The verdict of guilty was on two counts, both misdemeanors, which carry a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $10,000 fine each.

iron fence and fell almost to the center of the alley.

A clerk in the hotel was apparently the last person to talk to Capt. King. Shortly after 8 p. m., the clerk went to his room and the two conversed for several minutes. It was learned that the clerk later attempted to reach members of his family.

It was reported that Capt. King registered at the hotel a week ago and had left his room only twice. McCeney said he came here from New York only three days ago.

Headquarters detectives searched the room for clews which might shed light on the plunge, but declined to reveal results of their investigation. They said, however, that Capt. King was alone at the time.

Mrs. Decima King, the victim's widow, was prostrated after hearing of the tragedy at her home in Cathedral Mansions. The couple have a small daughter, Patricia.

Capt. King, a World War aviator, was 38 years old. When notified of his son's death, Senator King ordered the body taken to Tabler's undertaking establishment rather than to the District Morgue.

The coroner released the body and said that if his investigation warranted, an autopsy would be performed and an inquest held.

It was understood that Capt King was once a test pilot at Langley Field. He was said to have had friends aboard the ill-fated Akron and during the last few days appeared depressed.

House Speedily Begins Quiz Of President's Shoals Bill

Similar Measure Is Introduced in Senate by Norris; McSwain Proposes 1933 Fund of $10,000,000 for Fertilizer and Building Auxiliary Dam.

(Associated Press.)

The compelling force of administration approval yesterday sped forward legislation to translate into law President Roosevelt's vision of a vast Tennessee River Basin development encompassing the Government's valuable Muscle Shoals property.

Swiftly, closely allied bills were introduced in both the House and Senate. Then, before the day was done the House Military Committee had held the first of brief hearings designed to send the plan to the floor by the week-end.

The veteran Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, whose name long years of effort have linked inseparably with the principle of Government operation of Muscle Shoals, sponsored the Senate bill to accomplish this end. It went to the Agriculture Committee for early consideration.

In the House, Chairman McSwain (Democrat), South Carolina, of the Military Committee, introduced a very similar bill, which immediately was made the subject of the late afternoon hearing.

Both measures embodied the principles for Tennessee Valley development outlined Monday by President Roosevelt. Also they heeded the Chief Executive's advice that "it is time to extend planning" and would authorize him to make surveys and recommendations for "fostering an orderly and proper physical, economic and social development" of the basin and adjoining territory.

Briefly, the bills would:

Create a "Tennessee River Authority of the United States" administered by three directors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Entrust this authority with the Muscle Shoals property and clothe it with tremendous powers to operate and enlarge the plant including the use, if necessary, of the Government's right to condemn land.

Directs the board to operate the nitrate and power plants, to sell surplus power, giving preference to governmental units, and to build power transmission lines.

Directs the construction of the Cove Creek dam on the Clinch River in Tennessee, a project Army engineers have estimated would cost $34,000,000.

Directs payment to Tennessee and Alabama of 5 per cent of the gross proceeds from sales of surplus power generated in the respective States.

The differences between the Norris and McSwain bill were not of a major character.

Whereas both would direct the experimental production of new fertilizers at the nitrate plants and the cooperation with farm organizations for their large scale use, the McSwain bill further would direct the quantity production of commercial fertilizers.

The McSwain bill would authorize an immediate $10,000,000 appropriation, $2,000,000 for beginning Cove Creek dam in the 1933 fiscal year and starting fertilizer production. The Norris bill would authorize such appropriations as necessary to carry out the act.

The McSwain bill would authorize the board to sell $50,000,000 of 40-year 3-per cent bonds to defray construction costs. The Norris plan placed no limit on the bond issue.

ROOSEVELT OPPOSED TO PLAN OF INSURING BANK DEPOSITS

and said the President favored the insurance clause, but authoritative word to the contrary came from congressional sources.

Glass hurried back to Capitol Hill and told his associates of the President's attitude, but refused even to discuss the conference with newspapermen. When told of Hitchcock's statement, however, he made made this illuminating comment:

"He (the President) told him more than he told me."

The Virginian, who Roosevelt sought to make Secretary of the Treasury, conferred during the day also with Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee. Later Glass said his subcommittee, which has been framing the bill, probably would meet today, but he refused to forecast its action.

Under the tentative draft of the banking legislation to which the Glass subcommittee had agreed, a $2,000,000,000 fund would have been created to insure deposits in Federal Reserve member banks.

The measure was drafted on the basis of the Glass bank reform bill which caused such controversy in the last session of Congress and was finally blocked by Stegall in the House.

Steagall was one of the chief sponsors of the insurance provision, though he and Glass differed on the manner in which State banks should be allowed to participate.

The suggestion was reported to have been made at the White House yesterday that the bill be split up into parts and enacted as a series of measures dealing with the different phases of the question.

DEBTS NOT TO BE DISCUSSED AT PARLEYS IN WASHINGTON

were "antiquated, obsolete and be-whiskered." An editorial in The Washington Post of April 11 had pointed out to the Secretary the dangers of throwing open the American market to a flood of cheaply made foreign goods, as a policy of tariff revision downward would entail. Secretary Hull declared he would like to refer persons using this argument to the 13,000,000 American wage earners who were thrown out of work by the highest tariff in history.

Healthier Basis Aim.

The whole basis of trade between nations, he declared, is a mutually profitable interchange of commodities. Such trade, he pointed out, does not contemplate the destruction of any industry. Rather, it contemplates the placing of industries, mining, manufacturing and agriculture on a healthier and a more prosperous basis.

The United States surplus of manufactures might profitably be exchanged for commodities that America does not produce at all, or produces in insufficient quantities for specialties and for hand made products. For every dollar's worth of foreign goods shut out by high tariffs, he argued, from three to five dollars' worth of exports are shut in.

At present the Secretary is drafting the resolution by which President Roosevelt will be empowered to make special reciprocal tariff agreements separately with any nation. This is intended to equip the President with the necessary powers to treat with all the nations on the quid pro quo basis of tariff reciprocity. However, it was learned that the President does not intend to sign any treaty in advance of the conference.

The date of the London conference expected to be definitely set at a meeting of the preparatory commission April 22 is June 15. However, this may be advanced or retarded as conditions develop. Former Secretary Stimson yesterday called at the State Department. His visit gave credence to the report that he was to be named by the President as one of the American members to the conference.

British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay called at the State Department twice as the rapid acceleration of the preparatory work to date has brought several important problems for final agreement between the two governments. Between now and the arrival of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, the ambassador and the Secretary will work out the details of the White House conversations.

Laboulaye Arrives Here; Denies Orders on Debts

(Associated Press.)

Andre Lefebvre de Laboulaye, new French Ambassador to the United States, arrived here last night from New York, accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

He was met at the station by Brig. Gen. Francois Pillon, military attache; Capt. Camille Husson, naval attache, and others of the embassy staff.

"I am just a plain ambassador and have no special mission," said M. de Laboulaye. Reiterating what he said to reporters in New York, the ambassador explained that he had no instructions about debts and that he did not come as an envoy extraordinary.

The ambassador explained that no arrangement so far as he knew as yet had been made for his presenting his credentials to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull. The ambassador said he was glad to be back in Washington, where he was counselor prior to 1925.

Japanese Select Ishii For Conference Here

Tokyo (Wednesday), April 12 (A.P.).—Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, former Ambassador to Washington and one time Japanese foreign minister, today accepted the mission to talk over economic problems with the new administration in Washington.

A foreign office spokesman said the selection of Viscount Ishii indicated that Japan is attaching more importance to the prospect of a thorough and frank review of Japanese-American political relations than to economic issues.

The intention of sending a special envoy to Washington, one who will not go also to the world economic conference in London later, further indicates that the Washington conversations loom larger in the eyes of the Japanese government than do the London discussions.

Use of Jobless to Run Idle Factories Urged

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The commandeering of idle plants, mines and farms by the Government to be operated by the unemployed was proposed at a meeting of the New York Chapter of the Society of Industrial Engineers tonight.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the appointment of a committee to further the plan.

Arlington Kiwanis to Entertain.

The Kiwanis Club of Arlington County will be host to 20 members of the Kiwanis Club of Newport News, Va., at its luncheon today at 12:30 p. m., at Windsor Arms. Lyman M. Kelley will welcome the visitors on behalf of Arlington County. The program will be in charge of Samuel Gordon Green and Harold A. Whittle.

MACDONALD PLANS CABINET MEETINGS

Premier Anxious to Clear Decks Before Sailing for America.

London, April 11 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will preside at cabinet sessions tomorrow and Thursday to clear the decks for his trip to Washington, on which he starts Saturday.

In talking to President Roosevelt the prime minister will be prepared to range over the following broad subjects:

1. The world economic conference.
2. The war debts problem.
3. The tariff policies.
4. International exchange problems.
5. Methods of cooperation on such questions as the Geneva Disarmament Conference.
6. The general situation in Europe.

Besides these, Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Roosevelt will be free, it was explained here, to raise any other subject.

The prime minister considers the purpose of the talks to be simply to exchange views with no attempt to make agreements, but to lay a sound foundation of common understanding for the world economic conference.

He will take with him to Washington Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent head of the foreign office; Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, chief economic adviser to the government; A. E. Overton, of the board of trade, and J. A. Barlow, the prime minister's principal private secretary.

The Press Association learned that Mr. Roosevelt, in inviting the prime minister to go to Washington, sent this message:

"Do come and spend a week-end with me. I am sure that in a week-end we can do more for God than has been done for a long time."

Man Just Out of Lorton Shoots Wife, Kills Self

Baltimore, April 11 (A.P.).—Harold Blucher, 24, who, police said, was released from the Lorton, Va., reformatory Saturday, wounded his wife, Elizabeth, 21, tonight and then killed himself.

Police said they learned from the woman, who was taken to a hospital with wounds in the back of her neck and in the left hand, that she proposed earlier in the day that they separate. The shooting occurred at the home of his mother, Mrs. Florence Blucher.

First Lady Favors Sweatshop Drive

Women's Trade League Is Advised to Use Publicity to Remedy Problem.

New York April 12 (A.P.).—Advising better organization among workers and employers, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt gave her active support today to the campaign of the Women's Trade Union League against sweatshop conditions in the dress industry.

Mrs. Roosevelt emphasized that her activity was "as an individual and not as the wife of the President."

The league is one in which Mrs. Roosevelt has interested herself for several years.

"I would plan a campaign of publicity," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "I would organize workers and employers and then call in the newspaperwomen and present this so clearly that the interest of women buyers would be enlisted."

Irish Free State Rail Strike Comes to End

Dublin, Irish Free State (Wednesday), April 12 (A.P.).—The unofficial strike of about 4,000 Irish Free State railroad workers for higher wages was settled early today.

Termination of the strike, which seriously curtailed Dublin's milk supply and had a grave effect on general trade, came a few hours after 200 locomotive engineers and firemen on the Great Southern Line decided to return to work after a three-day layoff.

New York Police Lack Head; Mulrooney Quits

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—New York City was without a police head tonight as Edward P. Mulrooney, who resigned as commissioner at noon, prepared to leave for Albany tomorrow to begin his duties as chief of the new State beer and wine control board.

Mayor John P. O'Brien meanwhile said he would give immediate attention to the task of selecting a new police commissioner, but asserted he "had no word" yet on who it would be.

Delicatessen Robbery Nets Holdup Man $400

A lone robber who forced four persons to lie on the floor late last night held up a delicatessen at 1782 Columbia road, and looted the cash register of between $400 and $500.

With gun in hand, the robber shouted to the proprietor, a clerk and to customers to "Stick 'em up or I'll drill you," as he entered. He then ordered them to lie on the floor. After scooping the money from the register, he ran from the store and escaped down an alley.

Iron Rule

Of 10 Years in Portugal Is Ended as Constitution Is Approved.

Lisbon, Portugal, April 11 (U.P.).—The 10-year dictatorship of President Antonio Oscar de Fragosa Carmona was considered ended today with the coming into effect of the new constitution, recently approved by the voters.

Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar and his cabinet offered their resignations, but the president showed his confidence in the government by commissioning Salazar to form a new ministry with only two changes.

The new members will be Maj. Luis Alberto Oliveira as minister of war, and Dr. Queiro Mata, director of the Bank of Portugal, as foreign minister.

Air Rivalry

Between Army and Navy Arises in Prospect of Piloting President.

Another friendly outbreak of rivalry between the Army and Navy was seen here last night when word was received from Dayton, Ohio, that the Army Air Corps has outfitted a special trimotored airplane to be used exclusively by the President. The Navy has already equipped a twin-engined flying boat, which awaits the President's use at the Naval Air Station at Anacostia.

Speculation was also rife among service men just who might be selected as the Presidential pilot. A considerable number of veteran flying officers of the Army are on duty here at Bolling Field and in the office of the chief of the Air Corps, while the Navy boasts almost as many in the Bureau of Aeronautics and at the Anacostia station.

President Roosevelt is expected to be the Nation's first flying Chief Executive. Having flown to Chicago to accept the Democratic nomination he already has demonstrated his enthusiasm about aviation, which is shared by Mrs. Roosevelt, who is a regular passenger on commercial air lines.

Close observers here last night predicted that the President would eventually fly in both planes of the Army and the Navy, but that he would use the Navy plane more frequently because of his long association with this department as Assistant Secretary.

LOUDERBACK TRIAL IS SET FOR MAY 15

Judge Pleads Not Guilty in Senate Appearance; Gives 36-Page Denial.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday sat for the eleventh time in history as a trial jury—listening to a plea of not guilty from Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of San Francisco, to five articles of impeachment brought by the House.

It then set May 15 for the trial and gave the six House prosecutors until May 1 to reply to Louderback's answer.

Louderback, dressed in a dark blue suit and a light blue tie, appeared before the bar of the Senate. He was accompanied by two attorneys—Walter H. Linforth and James M. Hanley. These three sat to the left of the Vice President's dais with the House managers on the right.

Louderback's denial of the House charges that he mishandled equity receivership cases and conducted himself to the "scandal and disrepute" of his court was contained in a 36-page document which was read alternately by two clerks.

Louderback not only denied all the specific charges in the first four articles of impeachment, but also moved immediate dismissal of the general fifth article unless it were made more definite. He contended in addition that the facts set forth in all articles "do not, if true, constitute an impeachable high crime and misdemeanor as defined in the Constitution."

Therefore, he held, the Senate, sitting as a court, should not entertain any of the charges.

After his request that the House be required to make the fifth article "more definite and certain," the House managers replied they would comply with this motion. They were given until next Tuesday to do so.

The first four articles deal with receiverships in the cases of the Russell-Colvin Co., a San Francisco brokerage house; the Lumberman's Reciprocal Association, the Fageol Motor Co. and the Prudential Holding Co.

The fifth general charge declares Judge Louderback "at divers times and places" so conducted himself as to bring "scandal and disrepute" to his court and "the administration of justice therein."

Family of 8 Burns; Father Is Missing

Minnesota Farm Blaze Is Fatal to Mother and Seven Children.

Harris, Minn., April 11 (A.P.).—Eight persons, a mother and her seven children, were burned to death, and the father was missing tonight, as fire destroyed their farm home 4 miles northeast of here early today.

The dead are Mrs. Albin Johnson and her seven children, Harold, 10; Clifford, 9; Kenneth, 7; Dorothy, 5; Bernice, 4; Lester, 2, and James, 4 months old.

The bodies of Mrs. Johnson and the children were found late today in the ruins, but no trace could be found of the father's body.

Macon's Home in West To Be Dedicated Today

Sunnyvale, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—The $5,000,000 naval air base here, future home of the dirigible Macon, will be formally commissioned tomorrow. The Macon will make her maiden flight Thursday.

Gov. James Rolph, jr., and Rear Admiral George W. Laws, commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, will speak at the air base dedication. The new station is about 80 per cent complete and pronounced ready to operate after the ceremony.

Baltimore Police Find Estranged Couple Dead

Baltimore, April 11 (A.P.).—Five pistol shots and a woman's screams today sent police to a downtown apartment to find Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jontiff shot to death.

Police said Jontiff apparently had shot his wife and then committed suicide. The couple had been separated for two weeks.

Eight Are Dead in Two French Plane Crashes

Bordeaux, France, April 11 (A.P.).—Eight persons were killed today in two airplane accidents.

Five naval petty officers died when a navy seaplane fell into a lake near Berre during a night flight. Three civilians were killed when a plane crashed and burned in the forest near Seignosse. The pilot landed safely with a parachute.

$125,000,000 POSTAL SLASH, FARLEY'S AIM

Message to Go to Congress Soon Asking for Cut in Local Rates.

Through a slash of $125,000,000 in Postoffice expenditures in the next fiscal year Postmaster General Farley has hopes of almost wiping out an estimated deficit, he said yesterday, when he also revealed that recommendations on a postage cut proposal would go to Congress shortly.

A message will be sent to Congress within 48 hours on a suggestion that local postage rates be cut from 3 to 2 cents, he said. This would mean that letters mailed in a city for delivery in the city could go for 2 cents. The lower rate would apply to all the territory served by the postoffice collecting the letters, including any rural free deliveries made out of the postoffice.

Original estimates showed that the Postoffice would cost $713,000,000 to run during the next fiscal year. Receipts in this period were estimated at $581,000,000, leaving an estimated deficit of $132,000,000. The $125,000,000 saving would leave a deficit of only $7,000,000, and this could be wiped out by a 10 per cent increase in Postoffice business, Mr. Farley said. A large part of the saving will be made by elimination of unneeded jobs, he explained.

It also was learned yesterday that examinations for first and second class postmasters may be discontinued, although no decision has been made in the matter. Candidates for the 1,122 postmasterships in the first class and the 3,424 in the second class would be affected by the change. No change is contemplated in the manner of appointing third and fourth class postmasters.

Members of Congress from the Southern States are said to favor leaving the examination system unchanged, while those from Northern States would like to have it eliminated, it was said. The Southerners feel that out of the crowds of applicants they will offend only two out of the three men qualified by the examination. In the North, where there will not be so many applicants, the members think their power will be greater if they are given sole charge of handing out the jobs.

DISTRICT HEADS ASK LUMP SUM INCREASE

support for the budget recommendations made this a faint hope.

Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, has a report from the Bureau of Efficiency, which would throw some light on the situation, but he has not made it public. It proposes a formula for working out a fair Federal contribution.

A unique proposal was made yesterday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, who is attending the appropriation hearings.

Study of Other Cities.

He thinks the subcommittee should first determine what is a fair tax rate for the District by comparison with other comparable cities. When this rate is computed, and the revenues estimated, he thinks the Federal Government should them be called on to contribute whatever additional funds are necessary to carry the District through the year.

The subcommittee expects to conclude its hearings tomorrow, when representative citizens will be called in. The District bill is expected to be reported out immediately following. Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson anticipates action possibly by the close of the week.

In connection with yesterday's testimony of Superintendent Ballou, it was brought out that curtailment of night and summer school instruction and elimination of certain special classes are being considered by the group.

Right for Transfers.

School officials themselves asked that they be given the right to transfer funds within their total appropriation so they can administer available money to the best possible advantage.

In authoritative quarters it was stated that the District's gasoline tax fund may be made so flexible that construction of Calvert street bridge over Rock Creek and the widening of Constitution avenue between North Capitol street northwest and Second street may be made to come within its scope.

A further effort will be made to permit the District to continue operation of the two high-temperature incinerators which the House seeks to abandon.

Warden Today to Ask Judd Sanity Hearing

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., April 11 (A.P.).—Warden A. G. Walker, of the Arizona State Prison, announced tonight he will go before the Pinal County attorney tomorrow to ask a sanity hearing for Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to die April 21 for the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi.

TRANSPORT MERGER PLAN TO ROOSEVELT

New Bureau Under Commerce Would Include Radio and Ship Boards.

(Associated Press.)

Closely coordinated regulation of the Nation's transportation system on land, sea and in the air is to be sought by the Roosevelt administration as a key to many of the economic difficulties of the carriers.

After weeks of study, Secretary Roper and Lewis W. Douglas, Director of the Budget, have laid before President Roosevelt the full outline of a new transportation division to be created in the Commerce Department.

As described yesterday in Democratic circles it would take over the administrative functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, leaving the commission its quasi-judicial duties.

The bureau, which would be headed by an Assistant Secretary of Commerce, would absorb in addition the Shipping Board, the Weather Bureau, which is now devoting much of its efforts to aviation, the Bureau of Public Roads, Radio Commission, the Commerce Department's Bureau of Aeronautics, Geodetic Survey, Lighthouse and Navigation-Steamboat Inspection Service, the War Department's Inland Waterways Corporation, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Unless the President disapproves—and it is understood he has been kept advised of the plan's development—the program is expected to go to Congress shortly as the first of a series of reorganization steps being undertaken to promote economy and efficiency.

In other departments of the Government similar, if not so sweeping, reorganizations are near completion, and will go to the White House soon.

These realignments of functions, with abolition of those considered unnecessary, are counted upon heavily by Mr. Roosevelt to help meet his campaign pledges of cutting expenses 25 per cent. This involves plans for a flat billion-dollar retrenchment, $450,000,000 of which is to come from veterans' costs, another $120,000,000 from salary cuts and the remainder from bureau shifts and deletions.

At a conference Monday night with Roper, Douglas, Secretary Woodin, Joseph B. Eastman, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and others, the railroad plan was explored fully, along with the subject of reorganization.

Immediate difficulties of the railroads, it is understood, are to be met by further loans, but the President also wants definite action by the carriers to effect economies.

General agreement has been reached for appointment of a coordinator to guide the railroads toward elimination of duplicating service and other changes. Commissioner Eastman is regarded as the likely choice of the President for this post.

EMBARGO ON SOVIET UP TO KING GEORGE

when the Anglo-Russian commercial treaty expires.

Previously, it had been understood the delegation would quit London after the lapse of the treaty which would deprive the delegation of diplomatic privileges. The decision to remain indicated Moscow's desire to do its utmost to mend the commercial rift, officials said.

Meanwhile, disinterested diplomats believe the British government outwitted the Soviets by publication of the "white paper" conveying the British defendants' version of their imprisonment and examination before Moscow had disclosed details of the indictments against the men.

Moscow, April 11 (U.P.).—The Soviet press today printed not a word about the opening tomorrow of the trial of six British representatives of Metropolitan-Vickers, Ltd., on charges of espionage and sabotage.

Many residents of the capital, in fact, probably are not even aware the trial starts tomorrow. It was apparent the Soviet authorities are avoiding "spectacular" proceedings.

BANKHEAD STRICKEN AFTER HOUSE TALK

Indigestion Affects Heart of Stage Star's Father and Farm Bill Sponsor.

Stricken suddenly with what attending physicians first reported as a heart attack and finally as acute indigestion, Representative William B. Bankhead, of Alabama, an outstanding Democratic leader in the House, collapsed at the Capitol yesterday after completing a vigorous speech for the administration's farm mortgage refinancing bill.

Following an unusually energetic address on the floor of the House, Representative Bankhead, father of Tallulah Bankhead, screen and stage star, left the chamber for lunch with Representative John McDuffie (Democrat), of Alabama. Hardly had he left the floor when he complained of severe pains in his left chest.

Hurried to the Capitol first aid room, the Alabaman's condition was described as improved a few hours later by Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician.

"Representative Bankhead suffered an attack of acute indigestion," Dr. Calver told newspapermen, "but I do not consider his condition as alarming. After a few days of rest he will be ready to resume duties."

Representative William Sirovich (Democrat), of New York, a physician, who first reached his stricken colleague's side, reported Bankhead as "a very sick man, suffering from a severe heart attack."

Notified in the Senate chamber, Senator John Bankhead (Democrat), of Alabama, a brother of the representative, hurried to the Capitol hospital room. Mrs. Bankhead also came to her husband's side.

Miss Bankhead, appearing on the stage in New York, learned of her father's illness and immediately telephoned Dr. Calver. The physician told Miss Bankhead her father had suffered "quite a shock," but would recover after a few days of rest.

Representative Bankhead has served sixteen years as a member of the House. He has led many of his party's battles and is ranking Democrat of the powerful Rules Committee. He had charge of the resolution of procedure under which the farm mortgage bill was to be considered.

After several hours rest, he was taken to his home at 3051 N street northwest.

Rival Treasure Expeditions May Stage Battle at Sea

Norfolk, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Despite evidences of impending hostilities between rival expeditions seeking treasure from the sunken steamer Merida, off the Virginia coast, no reports of actual combat had reached Norfolk tonight.

The trawler Sea Gull, Capt. A. F. Amory, master, and the Sea Rambler, Capt. J. R. Lawson, master, both of Hampton, are on the scene representing the expedition headed by Capt. H. L. Bowdoin, of New York, and the trawler Theresa and Dan, Capt. John Hall, master, with Klass Evarts and a crew of eight on board, represent the newest treasure-hunting outfit.

The Bowdoin expedition was organized last year and consists of the trawlers Sea Gull and Sea Rambler and the salvage vessel Salvor. This expedition claims to have found the Merida and marked her resting place with buoys.

Much Rum Aboard.

Those on board the Theresa and Dan went to sea Saturday night for the purpose of trying to recover the Merida's treasure, which is estimated to be valued at from $3,000,000 to $6,000,000. There is no available data showing just what treasure the craft has on board except some bars of silver and copper, jewels and money left in care of the purser of the ill-fated craft by passengers who were on their way to New York from Mexico when she was sunk. Two thousand barrels of rum also were lost. The vessel's manifest is said to list these things and nothing else of value except general cargo.

Capt. Bowdoin was in North Carolina today arranging to purchase a tender for the Salvor, which is at Colonna's shipyard and will proceed to the treasure hunting grounds about May 1.

John McEckeron, a diver employed by the Bowdoin expedition, says he and his shipmates will protect their rights by force if necessary.

Arms Story Denied.

It was also stated at the headquarters of the Subocean Salvage Corporation, headquarters of the Merida expedition, that the Sea Gull and Sea Rambler had a number of rifles on board and were ready to repel the rival treasure seekers with the use of arms if necessary.

Mrs. Amory, wife of Capt. Amory of the Sea Gull, says the report is untrue. She says her husband has only one gun on his ship.

Commander W. A. Benham, chief of staff at Coast Guard headquarters, said the Coast Guard would not interfere in the salvage operations being conducted by the rival treasure hunters.

"If there is any shooting at the scene, the Coast Guard will act," he said. "We are not concerned in the treasure hunt. The sunken ship lies outside the territorial waters of the United States, but American ships are American ships wherever they may be. If troubles occur on an American ship, or between American ships, those responsible must answer under American law."

frained because no agreement could be reached with the incoming administration for the length of time it should last."

The Arkansas senator said that despite criticism, the President had "led in the accomplishment of more during the four weeks he has been in office than has ever been accomplished during a comparable period."

Long undertook to attack the President's swift-moving legislative program, asserting:

"We've swallowed enough of this stuff. We've swallowed this awful banking thing they brought in here hook, line and sinker.

"We took $400,000,000 from the soldiers and spent $300,000,000 to plant saplins."

"I'm not falling out with the President, but to quote from the Bible, 'He who flattereth a friend, his eyes should fall from his head.'"

"I doubt whether any man has ever given more thought and service, drawn more on his health, for the public welfare, than has Franklin D. Roosevelt," Robinson said. "Late at night, bright and early in the morning, he is at work. He may have made mistakes, but he has done wonderful work and is doing wonderful work. For God's sake, let us uphold his hand."

Asserting that he had been drawn into the controversy between the Democratic leader and Long, Robinson, of Indiana, then launched an attack on the economy bill.

"In my opinion, and time will vindicate this judgment," he said, "the so-called economy bill passed at the instigation of the President was the cruelest and most inhumane law ever enacted by this Congress.

"Hundreds and thousands who actually saw action are being deprived of benefits Congress gave them. You've driven men, women and children into the grave. I'm glad their blood is not on my hands."

France Drawing Lines Closer on Income Tax

Paris, April 11 (A.P.).—Putting on style is going to cost the taxpayers hard cash under a measure approved today by the Chamber of Deputies to help tax officials check real incomes and to fight fraud.

Tax returns must record yachts, automobiles, hunting grounds, racing stables, the number of servants, in short, all visible signs of wealth. The declared income will have to fit the picture.

Dynamite in Coal Lump Hurled to Floor Safely

Denver, Colo., April 11 (A.P.).—When D. V. Raybourn lifted a lump of coal waist high and dashed it against the concrete floor of his bin a stick of dynamite rolled out.

Experts explained the cap on the dynamite missed the concussion and did not explode.

Bee Flying Into Auto Causes Driver's Death

Stockton, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—A bee, flying into her automobile, caused the death today of Mrs. Howard L. Olsen, 35, of Oakland.

Confused, she swerved her car off the highway and it struck a tree. Two sons, Richard, 14, and Robert, 12, were slightly injured.

Mexico Is Guarding American Embassy

Strong Force Also Placed at Japanese Legation in Secret Move.

Mexico City, April 11 (A.P.).—For unannounced reasons, strong guards of police and plain-clothes men were placed about the American Embassy and the Japanese Legation tonight.

It was learned that six secret military policemen have been assigned to duty at the railroad station when the new American Ambassador, Josephus Daniels, arrives Saturday morning.

Recently, it was recalled, a demonstration by alleged Communists occurred before the American Embassy in connection with the appointment of the new envoy and his part in the occupation of Vera Cruz.

Memorial services, meanwhile, are being planned in Vera Cruz for April 21, the nineteenth anniversary of the American occupation of the port, in honor of the Mexicans killed in the two-day engagement there.

RITES FOR 3 AKRON VICTIMS TOMORROW

Moffett and McCord to Lie at Arlington and Berry at Naval Academy.

Funeral services with full military honors will be held tomorrow, for Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Commander Frank C. McCord, captain of the Akron, and Commander Fred T. Berry, commanding officer of the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, who died in the dirigible disaster April 4.

The remains of Admiral Moffett and Commander McCord arrived in Washington yesterday afternoon under escort of Lieut T. H. Robbins, jr., aid to Admiral Moffett, who was prevented from going on the last flight of the ill-fated dirigible by the return of his mother from a European trip.

Services for Admiral Moffett will be held in Arlington National Cemetery at 1 p. m. tomorrow, Capt. Sydney K. Evans, Chaplain Corps, U. S. N., officiating. Honorary pallbearers will be Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral Frank B. Upham, chief of the Bureau of Navigation; Rear Admiral Alfred W. Johnson, assistant chief of the Bureau of Navigation; Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair; Capt. Arthur B. Cook, assistant chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, and Capt. Elwood A. Cobey, Supply Corps.

The military escort, which will form at the Fort Myer gate, Arlington Cemetery, will be composed of the Navy Band, a company of bluejackets and a company of Marines.

Commander McCord's remains were taken to a local undertaking establishment last night. Tomorrow they will be removed to the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, where services will be held at 9:45 a. m. The Rev. J. Hillman Hollister will officiate at the church. Burial will be in Arlington at 11 a. m., Capt. Sydney K. Evans officiating. Interment with full military honors will follow.

Services for Commander F. T. Berry will be conducted at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow, with interment in the Naval Academy Cemetery. Commander Frank H. Lash, of the Chaplain Corps, will officiate.

Hitler appoint Gen. Franz Ritter von Epp as governor of Bavaria.

Goering, while commissar of the Prussian ministry of interior—theoretically a post of secondary importance—recently has expanded his prerogatives so effectively that at the end of two and one-half months he has maneuvered himself into a position which has afforded him the greatest political influence in Germany, next to Hitler.

He now is expected to appoint himself Prussia's minister of interior, thereby holding more posts than any other leader, since he also is minister of aviation in the Reich cabinet.

Box Dug Up

Workmen at New Avenue Bus Site Uncover Old Coins and Newspapers.

Apparently it used to be "the ceremonies of burying the box" instead of "the ceremonies of laying the corner stone" when the construction of a building was started.

Workman excavating for a new bus terminal at Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, the former site of the Brown Hotel, yesterday unearthed a lead box filled with mementoes such as are usually placed in a corner stone.

The box contained two bricks used in the construction of the first brick building in Pennsylvania avenue, numerous oil coins, and copies of newspapers including the Southern Press and the National Intelligencer, late Washington newspapers. The box was buried in May, 1851.

FARLEY DENIES BALL HAS PARTY SUPPORT

Some of Events Have Good Motives, Others Not, He Declares.

(Associated Press.)

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, issued a statement yesterday in which he said: "I wish to impress upon all well wishers of our party and the administration that they should contribute nothing except to people properly accredited by the Democratic National Committee."

In this connection, Farley said the committee and party were not connected with a "so-called victory fund ball to be held at the Washington Auditorium on the evening of April 17."

"There have been quite a number of plans broached by people outside of the committee for the alleged purpose of raising contributions to pay off the Democratic deficit," Farley said. "Undoubtedly some of these were undertaken with the best of motives—others have been plain rackets conceived for the benefit of the promoters."

In a public statement, Howard Brent, treasurer of the local Victory Ball Committee, last night declared that while the National Democratic Committee is not connected with the sponsorship of the proposed victory ball next Monday night at the Washington Auditorium, the net proceeds from the affair are to be offered the local finance committee toward the District's $50,000 quota.

Brent's announcement was prompted by the statement issued yesterday by Farley.

2,200 FLEE THEATER FIRE; FATAL TO ONE

Times Square Pedestrians Unhurt as Signs Fall; Blaze Accidental.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Fire in a four-tory Broadway building that houses the Strand Theater today took one life, sent the audience of 2,200 scurrying to the street, paralyzed traffic in busy Times Square for an hour and sent a couple of huge electrical signs crashing to the pavement in a roar of popping light bulbs.

The body of Joseph Kraus, 30-year-old electrician, was found in a closet on the top floor, where the fire started. Apparently he had groped his way into the closet through the smoke thinking the door led to an exit.

The structure houses various shops, a restaurant, a pool room and several theatrical booking offices as well as the moving-picture theater. Actresses who had been waiting in the offices became too frightened to use the stairs. Samuel Brown and Anthony Barbegallo, elevator operators, stuck to their posts through the smoke and took them all down.

A moment after the fire broke out Patrolman Charles Kiel, across the street, saw one of the big signs, 10 by 20 feet, start to disintegrate. The letters rained down upon four women pedestrians and the shower of glass and hot metal so frightened them that they all lost their footing as they started to flee. Kiel ran across to aid them, but found that none had been injured.

Thousands gathered to watch the fire. All available patrolmen from the Forty-seventh Street Station were sent to control them. They were joined by two emergency squads and a dozen mounted policemen.

The Strand audience walked out with a minimum of disorder, although one woman fainted from the excitement. When the management became aware of the fire the lights were turned on and announcement was made that "mechanical trouble" necessitated the discontinuance of the performance. The theater was not damaged, however, and the future performances will be held as scheduled.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy, after questioning witnesses, expressed the opinion the fire started from the sparks of acetylene torches used by workmen who were dismantling a sign on the roof. It then spread to the top floor, formerly occupied by a dance hall, and was extinguished after half an hour.

Brophy said he was convinced the fire was accidental and that he had requested no arrests.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

Editor's note—For the benefit of those who want beautiful lawns the Federal Diary requested C. R. Enlow, forage crops, Plant Industry, to supply a summary of his recent talks on lawns. The summary follows:

THE proximity of Washington to the Southern growing limit of Kentucky bluegrass increases the difficulty of maintaining good bluegrass lawns. Washington is in the transition zone between the northern and southern grasses.

Maintaining a good bluegrass lawn should be based on the natural growth of Kentucky bluegrass. In the vicinity of Washington, bluegrass starts growing in March and its productivity increases until early June, when it begins to drop off rapidly. During the hot part of the summer, or from the middle of July until early September, bluegrass is practically dormant.

If bluegrass is to be encouraged, fertilizer applications should be made in early spring and early fall, in order to take advantage of the production or growth curve. This is important also from the standpoint of controlling crabgrass, which is the worst lawn pest in this vicinity.

For an average fertilizer program 25 pounds of complete fertilizer with an analysis of 6—8—4 or similar is recommended per 1,000 square feet to be applied March 15, and the same fertilizer can be applied at the rate of 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet about September 15.

IF the use of this fertilizer brings in more white clover than is desirable, it is recommended that nitrogen alone be used until the clover disappears. A mixture of three-fourths cottonseed meal and one-fourth sulphate of ammonia, applied at the rate of 15 pounds in the spring and 10 pounds in the fall, can be substituted for a year or two.

The growth curve of crabgrass is just the opposite from Kentucky bluegrass. Crabgrass starts germinating about the middle of May in the District of Columbia and reaches its peak of growth about August 15, then drops off and is killed by the first frost in the fall. If lawns are closely clipped during midsummer and watered profusely, this encourages the crabgrass which loves heat, close clipping and abundant moisture.

It is recommended that beginning May 15 the bluegrass lawn be clipped not closer than two inches, at least until September 15, and during this time the lawn should be watered only as absolutely necessary to keep the grass alive. It should be thoroughly soaked when water is applied, so that the moisture penetrates the soil to a depth of three or four inches, at least.

Such a soaking should never be needed more than once a week and if any rain falls, it is doubtful if many waterings will be needed to keep the bluegrass alive, as when allowed to make a fair growth, it is dominant to practically all grasses and weeds, particularly when well fertilized.

EARL R. (SARGE) GOODWIN (*), secretary to Gen. Charles H. Martin, Democratic representative from Oregon, discovered this week that one of those "Strange as It Seems" artists had used his name in his series about two years ago.

It happened this way: During the course of business on the Hill, Goodwin was introduced to a stranger. Imagine Goodwin's surprise when the stranger remarked, "You're the Goodwin who introduced boxers for more than 2,700 fights and never saw a fight...The artist had your picture two years ago. I recognize you from the drawings."

Goodwin spent three hours of the next day searching for the pen sketch and the explanation that he had been the announcer for the Portland (Oreg.) Boxing Commission for many years, and that although he faced the audience more than 2,700 times as he introduced fighters, he never remained at the ringside to watch the fighters.

He is, by the way, a dyed-in-the-wool "rassle" fan, and a newspaperman with 20 years' experience. Another strange fact is that although about 5 of the 20 years in newspaper work was in the sports department, he never was called upon to cover a fight card. He won't say why he doesn't watch fighters. Perhaps he feels sorry for the boys who are "in there taking it."

We, too, dreamed dreams under the cherry blossoms Sunday. We looked upon their loveliness at close range; through their softness we watched small boats float serenely across the basin; from among their smiling clusters we gazed into the heavenly blue of the sky.

Once during a lull in the conversation of passersby a bird's song reached us and peering through the blossoms to the topmost cluster on the tree we found the little brown songster. His head was lifted high and from the depths of his tiny bird heart he sang of spring and the gladness that was in him. The song of the bird, the glory of the blossoms and the peace everywhere fitted perfectly into the meaning of the day itself, and dull thoughts that had become a burden slipped away into hidden places.

EXPERIMENTS have shown that it is possible to completely eradicate crabgrass from the lawn by following the above program for a period of two years. Crabgrass is very susceptible to shade and a tall growth of bluegrass shades out the seedlings as they germinate in May. Limited watering prevents the spreading of the seedlings that do survive so that the lawn remains largely bluegrass instead of crabgrass in the summer.

The main fault in this program is that it is necessary to allow the bluegrass to become rather unsightly in hot weather, but the program is sound as it is based on the normal behavior of bluegrass. Also, it is much more satisfactory to be able to cut down on the amount of mowing and watering during hot summer weather.

Kentucky bluegrass will not stand excessively close mowing for any length of time. Such treatment practically destroys the root system, as no leaves are left on the grass to make food for the root system. Close clipping likewise exposes the soil to the sun's rays. Consequently, soil temperatures rise rapidly and what moisture is in the soil quickly evaporates. A heavy turf of grass covers the soil and acts as an insulation against the sun's rays.

THE Census Bureau lost a real benefactor in the retirement of William M. Steuart as director, after his fullness of service from the bottom to the top of the bureau ladder. Always keenly alive to the varying needs, little wonder that he was cartooned in the decentennial rush days as blithely slinging hash in the cafeteria. He leaves us hale and hearty, and with a grip that warms our hearts.

And he leaves us in the best of care. The genial statistician of the Agricultural Division, Mr. Austin, fits into his mantle as few could. But he forbids us to "say it with flowers"—his fineness of the consideration of these times spoiled our little surprise party. But it has endeared him to us in greater measure.

Evidently Mrs. Roosevelt does not share the view of Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, new prohibition director, when she says the principle of discharging married women in Government service merely because they are wedded is unfair.

The major had said marriage should be a bar not only in his bureau but in all Government departments.

* * * *

After all, that is a great victory. Any one who can win any kind of victory against the Government now with the sweep of events is indeed a victor.

WHYS AND OTHER WHYS

WHY is it that the thousands of Government employes who Sunday wanted to enjoy the cherry blossoms in full bloom were greeted by hundreds of dead fish washed up alongside the Tidal Basin rim? The fish odor was an easy winner in competition with the blossoms' fragrance. Hardly the kind of advertising Washington needs to be carried back to the States.

Various reasons are given for this slaughter of fish. One authority suggests pollution, perhaps a sewer, perhaps chemicals, perhaps the fish do not find the right kind of food. At any rate, it needs cleaning up and the trouble ended.

LAUREL HORSEMAN SLAIN BY KINSMAN

C. W. Flaig Killed After He Threatened Family; Act Is Held Justifiable.

Laurel, Md., April 11 (A.P.).—Charles W. Flaig, race horse owner of Laurel, was instantly killed by his stepson-in-law, James Truman Ballan, early today after he threatened to kill members of his family.

A verdict of "justifiable homicide" was returned by a coroner's jury at Elkridge later in the morning and Ballan was released.

The shooting occurred after Flaig and his wife had been to Baltimore. Mrs. Flaig told the coroner's jury her husband had been drinking heavily and that he became abusive as they were driving home about 4 a. m.

"He put me out of our automobile," she said. "Then he chased me and made me get in again."

When they reached the house, Flaig began to beat his stepdaughter, Ballan's wife. Ballan interfered, but was unable to stop Flaig.

A few moments later, Mrs. Flaig said, her husband seized a gun and threatened to kill the entire family. When he did, Ballan grabbed another gun and fired.

Flaig was about 40 years old and Ballan 26, according to Magistrate Gosnell.

W. A. Rowe Enters Race For Virginia Governor

Richmond, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—W. A. Rowe, of Blackwells, today announced he would be a candidate for governor, as an independent Democrat. He said his platform would be against beer and all wet legislation, and for a 50 per cent reduction in taxes, $5 automobile licenses, and $100 truck licenses.

Mr. Rowe said he would not enter the Democratic primary.

Defendants Admit Guilt In Jamaica Ginger Case

Topeka, Kans., April 11 (A.P.).—J. B. Greensburg and Harry Mandil, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., pleaded guilty in Federal District Court here today to charges of violating Federal prohibitory liquor laws in connection with transportation and sale of Jamaica ginger. Sentence was deferred.

A Jamaica ginger case against Abraham Friedland, also of Brooklyn, will be called up later in the week. Greensburg and Mandell were charged with 20 counts of liquor law violation.

Louisianans Can Ship Beer Before Sale Date

New Orleans, April 11 (A.P.).—Attorney General Gaston L. Porterie today formally ruled that 3.2 per cent beer can be shipped in Louisiana prior to noon, Thursday, when State prohibition repeal becomes effective, thus assuring beer supplies in cities and communities outside New Orleans at the hour of repeal.

Porterie's opinion authorized breweries to send out their product immediately to any section of the State on the understanding that such shipments would not be released by railroads at the destination points until noon Thursday.

DRY AGENT'S HOME WRECKED BY BOMB

Five Occupants Are Jarred From Beds and Chair by Explosion.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Department of Justice agents tonight attributed to revenge the bombing of the home of William Geisler, an agent assigned to prohibition enforcement.

Geisler was blown from a chair by the explosion, which shattered windows in adjoining houses and was heard over a wide area in Queens shortly after midnight. Mrs. Geisler and three children were jarred out of their beds.

Assistant Prohibition Administrator William C. Nolan, to whose Brooklyn office Geisler is attached, said he had "no idea what might lie behind the bombing." But from Department of Justice agents working with Queens police it was learned their investigation was based on the belief the bomb was placed in revenge by some one "turned in" by Geisler.

Geisler would throw no light publicly on the bombing. Within an hour after the explosion several Department of Justice agents visited his home and conferred with him.

The front of the Geisler home was badly damaged. Across the street the house of Police Capt. John Daly was jarred and windows broken.

Geisler said he noticed three automobiles drive past his house a few minutes before the detonation.

The agent has been working in the Prohibition Bureau since 1924 and has been closely attached to United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli, in Brooklyn.

It's like this:

There's no noise about it, no "back talk."

The Chesterfield slogan—just two words, "They Satisfy"—is a plain simple statement telling about Chesterfield's merits.

It means that Chesterfields are milder—they taste better.

Something More than Beer is back

Beer is back! In those three simple words a great American industry goes back to work. Hands long idle find new jobs. Faces empty of hope brighten to a new promise. Thousands upon thousands find honorable livelihood. A vast American market—a new frontier of industry reopens,—bringing sorely needed business to farmers, transportation and to hundreds of other industries. And with it, a new fountain head of tax revenue arises to add its dollars gladly to a nation in need.

Beer is back! But is that all? No! To cheer, to quicken American life with hospitality of old, the friendly glass of good-fellowship is back. Sociability and good living return to their own, once more to mingle with memories and sentiments of yesterday. America looks forward—and feels better.... Beer is back! Yes! But much more than that. Beer at its best is back—the brew that everybody knew best—the king of bottled beers that outsold any other bottled beer on earth.

RED CALL TO ARMS.

The Moscow leopard has not changed its spots. World revolution still is the objective of the Communist International. Its attempt to stir up revolution in Germany reaffirms before all the world that the red hierarchy has no intention of confining its operations to Russia. The manifesto, published Sunday in Moscow, is similar to those which have been addressed during the last ten years to the incendiary elements in every civilized land. It officially designated the German Communist party as the agent of the International for the execution of the Moscow program.

For America the decree presents timely evidence that Communism has not abandoned the old policy of fomenting and financing organized destruction abroad. Advocates of Russian recognition have insisted recently that Lenine's dream of world revolution was but an excess of immature Communism. It had been abandoned long since, Soviet sympathizers declared.

They have insisted that Communism had experienced a change of heart—that the Communists in Russia had become convinced that world revolution was an unattainable dream, and that Soviet Russia was gradually dropping extreme tenets of Communism. They urged recognition on the ground that if the United States would extend the right hand of fellowship, Soviet Russia would return to the family of nations as an orderly and responsible member, faithful to its obligations and peaceful in its intercourse.

The savage ferocity of the outburst from Moscow, directed against Germany, unmasks the same motives of destruction that animated Lenine and Trotzky at the height of their terrorist careers. The Third International, which rules Russia through Stalin, now strikes at a neighbor and calls for blood and terror. It is not an idle call, considering the numbers and desperate character of the reds in Germany. The Hitler government supported by the Nazi organization may have its hands full in coping with the Communists.

COPPER AND CORN.

The gradual development of the theory that the farmers' troubles are essentially problems of state, to be solved by the Federal government, is a hallmark of America's post-war politics. Prior to 1914, men went to the land, shifted for themselves, sold what they produced at the market price and ended the year with a profit or loss, as the circumstances ruled. If losses were sustained for two or three years consecutively, the farm was liquidated as a non-paying business. Never was there any suggestion that the Government should take over the defaulted mortgage, lease the non-productive marginal land, or guarantee a return equal to the cost of production. Nor was there any serious proposal that special taxes be levied on all foods for the direct benefit of farmers.

Agriculture has been rigorously deflated since the boom days of 1927-29. As a group, farm commodities are now selling at about one-third of the 1929 level. The price reduction has ranged from 50 to 65 per cent on various products. This sharp decline is, of course, the cause of the farmer's woe. It is a difficult situation which must be corrected before national economic stability can be restored. But is it a problem for the government?

If agriculture is to be regarded as the legitimate object of special economic legislation, why should not the same theory apply, for example, to the copper industry?

In 1929 copper sold at an average price of 18.23 cents a pound. In 1932 the average price for the entire domestic industry was 5.57 cents. This deflation represents an average price decline of 70 per cent in three years, a fall considerably more severe than in agricultural products. Yet no one has suggested seriously that defaulted copper securities should be guaranteed by the United States Treasury. Nor has it been urged that the value of the gold dollar be cut 70 per cent to restore the 1929 price level for copper.

Instead, the industry has faced its problems with courage and determination. It has reduced operating costs. It has attempted vigorously to balance production and consumption. It has developed new methods of marketing, and improved the processes of smelting and refining. In copper securities, the old values have been written off and the stocks and bonds are carried generally by their holders at their real worth. As a result of these steps to cope with the forces of world-wide price readjustment, the industry is today in a secure position. It is ready to resume on a profitable basis at the new price level the minute improved demand reasserts itself. A recent private survey of the American industry emphasizes that "the leading companies are now producing copper at a cost which would have seemed incredible three years ago." Thus, the slightest improvement in demand will yield profits. The industry has experienced its readjustment and is now ready to move forward.

In agriculture the situation is vastly different. Political farmers still are seeking to defend the old values, and the fantastic security structure reared upon them.

CURRENCY INFLATION AGAIN.

It is almost incredible that the Senate should waste its time talking about expansion of the currency as a means of aiding the farmer. The agriculture committee allowed Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, to include in its report on the farm relief bill all the arguments that fanatics have been able to conjure up in favor of currency inflation. This diatribe was not considered seriously. But when the Senate devotes its time to the proposition of saving the farmer by adulterating the currency it is not surprising that the public grows weary of congressional ineptitude.

It is suggested that the $2,000,000,000 in bonds to be issued by the Federal land banks to refinance mortgaged farms, providing the farm relief bill is adopted by Congress, should become available as the basis for more currency. These bonds would not even have the guarantee of the Government behind them. Sponsors of the farm mortgage scheme fear that if the Government were to issue such bonds on its own responsibility, the value of existing Government securities might be reduced. Yet it is proposed that these certificates of debt should be used as the basis for issuing currency.

This is not the most pathetic aspect of the proposal, however. Congress has been listening to pleas for more currency for several years, and it has surrendered to a number of them. First, Government bonds were made eligible to serve as collateral for Federal Reserve notes in place of commercial paper. This safeguard against a shortage of currency was thoroughly sound because it did not upset the requirement of a 40 per cent gold backing for every Federal Reserve note. Its effect was to make expansion of the currency possible, if that were necessary to meet the demand. But it did not satisfy the inflationists.

Next came the Glass-Borah nostrum, allowing bonds bearing low interest to circulate in the form of currency. This measure had the effect of driving some of the more desirable currency out of circulation, but it did not result in debasement of the dollar, which the inflationists are seeking. More recently the emergency banking act sponsored by the Roosevelt administration made it possible for sound banks to convert virtually all their assets into currency. Under this provision billions of dollars in currency were printed. But only a few millions have been used, and at present the demand for this type of paper money is negligible. Furthermore, $648,000,000 in currency has been returned to the banks and retired from circulation because there is no need for it.

In spite of this experience the fanatics in the Senate continue to demand more currency. What the inflationists really hope for is adulteration of the currency so as to debase the value of the dollar. But they don't know of any way in which that could be accomplished, except by methods too dangerous to be openly advocated. So they continue to waste the time of Congress and weary the public with absurd pleas for more currency to lie idle in bank vaults.

BRANCH BANKING.

As the Senate banking and currency committee turns again to the Glass bill, a timely report from California throws further light upon the perplexing question of branch banking. Opponents of plans to consolidate inadequate individual banks into strong branch chains already have before them the eloquent testimony of the last decade. But if further evidence on the point is needed the report on banking resumption in the twelfth Federal Reserve district (San Francisco) since March 10 brings the testimony up to the minute.

California is noted as the State in which branch banking has been developed most successfully. Branches conduct by far the greater part of all banking operations. In no other State do branches so completely cover both the agricultural and commercial territory.

As of March 30, less than 2 per cent of all bank assets in California, State and national, were under emergency restrictions. When resumption was authorized on March 13, only 43 of the 337 banking institutions chartered to operate within the State failed to open, and in the following ten days 11 of these began unrestricted operations.

In one Middlewestern State, which has about the same population as California, but which prohibits branch banking, there are still 673 closed banks, or more than twice as many as ever existed in California. Over extensive areas of this Middlewestern State, frozen bank assets today, including all deposits under restrictions as well as all those tied up in closed banks, run as high as 50 per cent of the pre-holiday total. Uniformly, the experience during March was that those States which permitted branch banking operations came off notably better than those which still cling to the old idea of many small banks.

Another striking development in the twelfth Federal Reserve district was that up to the end of March not one dollar of the new emergency currency had been placed in circulation. Small as has been the general demand for the new Federal Reserve bank notes, rare indeed is the State which has not called for so much as one small bundle.

The suggestion that California's happy position may be due to factors other than the banking system is, of course, valid. But this point, too, is covered by the March experience. There are eight States wholly or partially within the twelfth Federal Reserve district. But only one, California, permits branch banking. For the territory as a whole, 96.6 per cent of all deposits were unrestricted as of March 30, which compares with 98 per cent in California alone.

It may be a long, long time before rational banking is thoroughly established in the United States. In the meantime, however, it is not unreasonable to suspect that when the next step finally is taken, it will be generally in the direction of more liberal laws touching branch banking.

SOUTHERN NEIGHBORS.

Pan-American Day, as an annual anniversary, is only three years old today, but its observance every year has become an important event. It will be marked in Washington by the appearance of President Roosevelt before the governing board of the Pan-American Union as guest of honor to make an address. As the first expression from the Chief Executive on American relations with sister republics, his remarks are awaited with interest.

It is not difficult to forecast that the President's attitude will be one of cordial good will for these neighboring states, and a desire for closer relations and better understanding. The trend has been in this direction for several years. With the change from policies that tended to pass judgment on events in other countries, and to question the authenticity of governmental changes, there has been a lessening of suspicion on the part of Latin-American nations.

The final withdrawal of all American forces from Nicaragua in the exact manner prescribed is another factor tending to establish confidence. And for some time there has been a practical tendency to get away from the over-sentimental attempts to establish closer international relations upon a sentimental bond of common ideals which did not exist. There are many practical matters of commerce and government which form sound grounds for profitable interchange between this country and Latin America. Naturally complementary in many respects, there is every reason why intercourse should bring decided mutual benefits.

New York will be the scene of numerous celebrations of Pan-American Day. The Pan-American Society is to be host to a large assembly at luncheon, with addresses by numerous prominent speakers. In addition various schools and numerous societies will hold appropriate exercises. April 14 was selected as Pan-American Day as the date on which, in 1890, under the chairmanship of James G. Blaine, the first international conference of American states was held.

The Little Entente has let it be known that if there is any pie to be distributed in Washington, it doesn't wish to be left out. It looks as if an international patronage dispenser will be needed to pacify those who don't get invited to the bargain counter.

AIRSHIPS AND WIND

From the New York Herald Tribune.

While the outcome of official inquiries into the loss of the Akron must not be prejudged, it is significant that accounts of survivors mention deformation of the airship's structure before or during the fatal descent. This implies a cause of the disaster already to be suspected on general engineering grounds, a failure of some part of the metal frame of the craft under unusual air stresses inside a storm. There have been four previous major disasters to that type of airship since the war. In 1921 the British-built R-38 deformed in the air over the River Humber and was wrecked, almost certainly by failure of the metal frame. In 1923 the French Dixmude vanished during a storm over the Mediterranean, possibly because of lightning, but probably as a result of frame failure by unusual wind stresses in the thunderstorm. In 1925 the wreck of the Shenandoah is known to have been caused by such air stresses in a storm of the type called a line squall. Only in the final disaster before that to the Akron, the crash of the British R-101 in France in 1930, was structural failure definitely excluded.

In four of these five disasters the structure of the ship is at least suspected of having proved weaker than the stresses imposed on it, either because the metal was too weak, or the stresses too strong. There is good reason to favor the latter alternative. Like any other engineering structure subjected to forces of the wind, the frames of such aircraft are designed on assumptions concerning maximum wind pressures. Only very rarely have these pressures been measured. In violent storms the instruments for registration of air speeds and pressures commonly blow away, leaving the maxima undetermined. Wind pressures are greatly affected, furthermore, by what is called gustiness, the speed of the wind changing second by second over a wide range of velocities and a corresponding range of pressures. The plain fact is that the engineering science of today does not know what maxima of wind pressure may be experienced in a storm of even moderate violence, like that which brought the Akron's doom.

The distinguished astronomer, Prof. W. H. Pickering, now retired from his work at Harvard to his private observatory in Jamaica, emphasized this fact even before the Akron's crash. Ordinary instruments, he repeats, are unreliable. He suggests sets of cylinders having different weights and sizes, and set up beforehand to determine which cylinder will be upset by the strongest gust of the storm. There is little doubt that the provision of many such sets in different localities would yield in a few years information about air pressures significant alike for aircraft and for architecture. This is something, furthermore, well within the reach of unofficial weather observers and other amateur scientists. It is to be hoped that they will improve the opportunity.

PROPHECY.

Who looks at life with open eyes
Must know that trouble yonder lies,
But also at some future date
Some joy will make his heart elate.

The young must age, the old must die,
Gay lips in time must sadly sigh,
Yet youth is eager to grow old,
To claim the joy tomorrows hold.

We have known gladness in the past
And countless charms not meant to last,
And who dare say that it is vain
To hope that peace shall come again?

Beyond us, waiting for us now,
Are treasures we shall find somehow,
And sorrows, though the path seem fair,
Which we shall surely have to bear.

So to the future let us go,
Eager each new day's freight to know,
Certain that down that unknown lane
We shall discover peace again.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE American people have never believed in the divine right of kings.

They can be fooled or persuaded, but no sacred cow is sacred to them until they have reason to believe it sacred.

Recruits in training for the great war were told that officers were their social superiors. The idea amused or angered them. They were willing to respect an officer who proved himself worthy of respect, but they never accepted the theory that leather putties made a ribbon clerk superior to a cowhand in woolen putties.

After the war, when the land was full of violence and the spirit of rebellion, those who favored the existing rules said to the others: "All would be well if you would respect the law." But the others answered scornfully: "Then make the law respectable."

For three long years the leaders of our country have said to the people: "You must have faith in our banks. The safety of our Nation depends upon public confidence. There can be no return of prosperity until there is a return of faith."

They spoke the truth and everybody knew they spoke the truth.

But you can't create faith by edict. You can't say: "Thou shalt believe." You must give the people some reason to believe.

The leaders used the wrong method. Instead of making the banks worthy of trust, they relied on the sacred-cow plan. "Sh!" they said. "Don't say anything to disturb confidence."

But the facts spoke too loud. They howled in the night. They stank to heaven.

The people saw in their newspapers that more than eleven thousand banks had failed, tying up or forever losing over five billion dollars of deposits. Each day brought the news of another suicide—and suicides aren't caused by frozen loans.

The people hoarded the little they had left. No law or executive order could make them believe a thing obviously unworthy of belief.

They waited for safe banks. And there are but two ways to make banks wholly safe—to establish one great national system backed by the Treasury, or to guarantee deposits.

The McAdoo bill would establish the necessary guarantee fund by assessing each bank 1 per cent of its deposits. If that bill becomes law, no more banks will fail.

Public confidence will at last be won by the simple process of deserving it.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Press and President.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Still another move has been made by the Roosevelt administration to make easier the lot of the Washington correspondents, a group whose work gives them little rest these days. This latest step is to have the press contact men of the various Federal departments attend the Wednesday and Friday meetings at which President Roosevelt talks informally with the newspaper men. The value of this lies in the infinitely better coordination which will result. The State Department press chief, for example, will be able to deal more intelligently and satisfactorily with the correspondents if he knows precisely what the President had said at press meetings about State Department problems.

Thinks Seaway Is Coming.
Detroit News.

If there was in any quarter a lingering doubt of the capacity possessed by President Roosevelt to comprehend the whole national picture of needs and opportunities, that doubt vanishes with his revealed attitude toward the completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway.

Not only the lake States, to whose future this undertaking is vital, but all of the 40 States of the Union to whom the seaway will, in some measure, bring a new magnitude of prosperity, feel a deep appreciation of the President's cooperation. They look to him for that final, urging word which shall lift the treaty between Canada and this country out of the ruck of parliamentary delay and place it in the forefront of those emergent measures in which the Nation sees its early rehabilitation.

Some Swamping!
Indianapolis News.

Reciprocity Tariffs.
Kansas City Times.

In the present state of world affairs, with every country fearing a deluge of imports from its neighbors, the only possible way to get the necessary tariff reductions is through reciprocal treaties. Nations will not make blanket tariff reductions. They will be far more willing to trade reductions in various duties in return for compensating advantages. The agenda for the world economic conference recognized this fact, and while calling for lower tariffs to get international trade started, suggested that they be made by reciprocal agreements.

President Roosevelt advocated this plan during the campaign. The obvious practical difficulty so far as the United States is concerned is in persuading the Senate to ratify reciprocity treaties by a two-thirds vote.

The Democratic Party's Future.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The question of the Democratic party's future is discussed at some length by James Truslow Adams in the Yale Review, under the heading, "The Democratic Party in Office." The article contributes nothing new or original in the way of political thought; it doesn't aim to. The premises are familiar and the deductions or conclusions rather obvious; but it is, nevertheless, an interesting and realistic picture of our political and social scene.

One sentence may be quoted, somewhat paradoxical, the significance and truth of which will be conceded:

> We are entering one of those period's in a nation's history in which the most genuinely conservative guides will be found among the liberals and not among the conservatives; for, as Hobhouse well said, "To maintain an old order under changed circumstances may be in fact to initiatiate a revolution."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Maj. Lanier Points Out That "General Welfare" Clauses Do Not Confer Legislative Power.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Apropos your very excellent editorial of today on "Emergency Powers," the inference may be drawn therefrom that you consider the "general welfare" clause of the Constitution as a grant of legislative power to Congress, subject only to the limitation that Congress can not thereunder deprive the individual of his constitutional rights.

In view of much of the legislation, past and present, the old saying, "What's the Constitution between friends?" has become more than a joke. In fact, it seems futile these days to raise constitutional questions, and when we consider how it has been violated over and over again these past 70 years it would appear that the Constitution has become only an instrument of academic and antiquarian interest.

Feeling sure, however, that you never intended such a construction of your editorial, and the fact that it might mislead others I feel constrained to point out that the "general welfare" clause appears only twice in the Constitution, and that in neither instance is it a grant of legislative power. We first find it in the preamble, where the term is, "provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare," and it is found again in section 8, clause 1, article 1, conferring on Congress the taxing power to "provide for the common defense and general welfare."

The Supreme Court has frequently held that no power to enact any statute is derived from the preamble; and that the language in section 8, to "provide for the common defense and general welfare," contains no grant of power whatsoever, but is a mere expression of the ends and purposes to be effected by the preceding power of taxation, and is a limitation on the taxing power of the United States, and that only. Being therefore no grant of power, but a limitation upon the power of Congress, resort must be had to the general provisions of the Constitution to determine the subject matters embraced within the term "general welfare" upon which Congress may legislate, because the Federal Government is a government of delegated powers, set forth and defined in the Constitution, and it can legitimately exercise only such powers as are expressly delegated to it, or that are implied in the powers so conferred.

With these distinctions clearly in mind it is easy to determine the measure and limits of the legislative power of Congress under this section, and which of its acts are constitutional and which are not. If this interpretation of the Constitution is correct, and it must be because it reflects the opinions of the Supreme Court, there can be little doubt that many of the acts of the Congress, past and present, are without constitutional sanction.

ALEXANDER SIDNEY LANIER.

Opposes 30-Hour Week—Detrimental to American Industry and Labor, While Favoring Foreign Labor and Industry.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have heard of many stupid plans advocated in the last four years to solve the jobless problem, but the Black 30-hour labor bill, just passed by the Senate, has them all beaten by a mile.

Any intelligent person can see that if it were put into effect it would plunge the country deeper into the depression, because it would penalize American industry and labor. Yet there would be no restriction on foreign industrialists, who would flood our country with goods produced by labor working from 10 to 18 hours a day at pauper wages. If I thought that restricting the hours of labor would put the American unemployed back to work at good wages I would heartily support it, but the way the Black bill is drawn, Asiatic and European labor and industry would be the only ones that would benefit.

If the American statesmen really want to help restore prosperity, they had better take a correspondence school course in mind training, for during the last four years our senators and representatives in Congress have seemed to be greatly deficient in gray matter.

I believe that the reason business does not improve is that the leaders are marking time until Congress adjourns, because they do not know what tariff and tax rates Congress may be led to put into effect.

I will stand back of the Democratic administration as long as it follows a sensible course, but if we get any legislation similar to the 30-hour bill, then I will oppose it.

Sends Message of Cheer to Depositors in Closed Banks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am sending this Easter message hoping it may be a comfort to those who feel at sea in the temporary closing of their bank. Try to look at it in the light that it may be a great blessing in disguise to teach us all more patience and a truer sense of the uncertainty of the material and our reliance upon God, which we have been prone to forget in this busy world.

The Bank of God is never closed and it is from that source we receive our main substance, and even though we lose the whole world and gain our own soul, would it not be worthwhile?

Our Government and the employes of closed banks are working day and night to solve the problem, which has not arisen overnight, and, therefore, can not be adjusted immediately. Let us trust, be of good courage and prove, as usual, our good American sportsmanship. For, after all, God is in heaven and all is well with the world. BESSIE P. DUNLOP.

PAN AMERICAN DAY CELEBRATION READY

President Will Speak Today at Union Building Exercises.

Pan American Day will be celebrated today throughout the Nation and in Latin America, with President Roosevelt leading the observance.

The President will deliver an address before the governing board of the Pan American Union at 11 a. m. at the Pan American Bulding. The address and subsequent ceremonies will be broadcast by radio throughout the two continents.

The exercises will be held in the gardens of the Pan American Union after the address in delivered. A feature of the ceremony will be the presentation of a bust of Francisco de Miranda, the Venezuelean hero, by Dr. Pedro Manuel Arcaya, Minister of Venezula to the United States, on behalf of his government.

The gift will be accepted on behalf of the Pan American Union by Cordell Hull, Secretary of State and chairman of the governing board. Dr. Adrian Recinos, minister of Guatemala, vice chairman of the board, will also speak.

The ceremony will be attended by diplomatic representatives of all the republics of Latin America and students representing local public and prviate schools. Rogelio Alfaro, Western High School student, will deliver an address on behalf of the student body. George Washington University celebrated Pan American Day with a special assembly yesterday morning in Corcoran Hall. The speakers were Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, Minister of Panama; Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union, and Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the university.

Rally Slated Tonight By Young Democrats

The Young Democratic Clubs of America, District of Columbia Division, will stage a Jefferson Day rally tonight at the Mayflower Hotel in connection with the Nation-wide observance of Thomas Jefferson's birthday, which falls on April 13.

Former Gov. Robert A. Cooper of South Carolina will deliver the principal address.

Jesuit Order Lists Most Solemn Rites

Chanting of Tenebrae Will Be at St. Aloysius Church Tonight.

Marking the most solemn moments of the entire ecclesiastical year, priests and scholastics of the Jesuit Order will begin the chanting of the tenebrae, in St. Aloysius Church, North Capitol and I streets, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The Very Rev. Lawrence J. Kelly, S. J., president of Gonzaga College, will be the presiding priest. Father Kelly also will be celebrant of the solemn high mass at 8 a. m. Holy Thursday, when there will be a procession of the Blessed Sacrament. Holy Communion will be given at 6, 6:30 and 7 a. m. Thursday. The Rev. Francis E. Garner, S. J., will deliver the sermon on the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 in the evening.

The service of the "Three Hours' Agony," with sermons on the seven last words of Christ on the cross, will be conducted from 12 to 3 o'clock on Good Friday by the Rev. Charles F. Connor, and the Passion sermon will be delivered during the tenebrae services at 7:30 p. m. by the Rev. James M. Cotter.

Patriotic Society Officers Elected

Senator King Tells of U. S. Needs in Crisis; Annual Banquet Held.

The annual banquet of the District of Columbia Society of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America was held at the Army and Navy Club last night.

WOMAN KIDNAPER SANE, COURT TOLD

Erratic Gestures Described by Alienists as Effort to Feign Madness.

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Luella Pearl Hammer, 35, musician, convicted yesterday of participating in the kidnaping of Mrs. Mary Skeele, was characterized as sane by four alienists in superior court here today.

Two, Dr. Paul Bowers and Dr. Victor Parkin, expressed opinion her shrill laughter and erratic gestures during the trial of herself and E. H. Van Dorn were calculated efforts to feign madness.

Van Dorn, claiming Miss Hammer was blameless in the abduction of the 65-year-old wife of Walter F. Skeele, music dean of the University of Southern California, pleaded guilty midway in the trial last week. He was sentenced to from 10 years to life in prison.

After her conviction, Miss Hammer went immediately to trial on the insanity plea. If she is found sane she also will face a 10-year-to-life sentence, whereas an insanity verdict will mean confinement in an institution.

To counteract testimony of alienists Defense Attorney Nathan O. Freedman called three jail matrons, who testified Miss Hammer's actions appeared irrational. A brother-in-law, J. H. Reimer, Harvey, N. Dak., said she had appeared mentally unbalanced several years.

The case is expected to go to a jury tomorrow.

E. F. Morgan Will Quit As Commerce Solicitor

LEAS APPEAL CASE AS WRIT IS QUASHED

Tennessee Supreme Court to Pass on Extradition to North Carolina.

Clarksville, Tenn., April 11 (A.P.).—Their writ of habeas corpus quashed today by court order, Col. Luke Lea and Luke Lea, jr., of Nashville, turned to the Tennessee Supreme Court in their efforts to resist extradition to North Carolina, where they are under sentence on charges of bank law violations.

Criminal Court Judge John T. Cunningham, after quashing the writ, granted the Leas' appeal from his ruling to the State's court of last resort, and fixed their bonds at $15,000 each, the same amount as those under which they have been at liberty since March 20. The bonds were signed by Sam Cohen, of Nashville.

Col. Lea, former United States senator and Nashville newspaper publisher, and young Lea showed no emotion as they heard the judge read his lengthy order, sustaining the North Carolina representatives' demurrer to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The order also dismissed the petition and quashed the writ itself, which was granted March 14, the day the Leas were arrested.

Cameron and Townsend Named Civitan Envoys

See How Pottery and China Are Actually Made

Exhibition Here All This Week
9:30 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.

Through the co-operation of the United States Potters Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, we have arranged a very interesting and instructive demonstration on the actual making of pottery and china. Six demonstrators will explain each process and illustrate the various steps. We invite you to attend—any day this week—9:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

Literally a Pottery in Actual Operation
—The Exhibition Includes . . .

1. A Pug Mill (clay maker).
2. Jiggerman and Batter-Out (forming plates and flatware).
3. Thrower (demonstrating the old method of hand-potting).
4. Dishmaker and Caster (forming of hollow-ware, bakers, and dishes).
5. Decorating (transferring of decalcomania, lining, stamping).
6. Tunnel Kiln (arranged with fans and flickering lights to give the effect of a tunnel-kiln in operation). A car with saggers (fire clay box in which china and pottery are placed while being baked) goes through the tunnel automatically.

RITCHIE TOMORROW GRANTS 50 PAROLES

Former Carroll County Tax Collector and Three Boys Listed for Clemency.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 11.—McClelland C. Keefer, former tax collector for Carroll County, is listed among 50 prisoners now confined in State penal institutions, who will be paroled by Gov. Ritchie on Thursday.

Keefer has served nearly two years of a three-year term. He was convicted of defaulting after being acquitted of an embezzlement charge, and there is considerable feeling that a shortage in his accounts which an audit disclosed, was due for the most part to lax methods of tax collections.

Another case surrounded by extenuating circumstances is that of Richard Hamilton, convicted by the Circuit Court for Allegany County of forging checks aggregating $45, and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction. It developed that Hamilton was driven to desperation by the illness of his wife. Less than three months of his term remain.

The governor explained that the large number of cases contained in the parole list was due to the fact that legislative work prevented the usual monthly actions in March.

Others Receiving Clemency.

Other prisoners to receive clemency include:

Andrew B. Thomas, convicted in Montgomery County for driving an automobile while intoxicated and sentenced to six months. About one month of his term remains.

Andrew Dove, convicted in Montgomery County for stealing a battery and sentenced to six months in the "Cut." All but three weeks of his term have expired.

Vincent De P. Davis, sentenced in Montgomery County to 2½ years in the "Cut" for several burglaries. It appears nothing of value was stolen in any case. Davis is 18. He has served all but nine months of his term.

Henry S. Brooks, Negro, sentenced by the Prince Georges County Circuit Court to two years for robbing a store. Brooks, who is also 18, has served all but nine months.

Two Minors of 17.

Harry Edwards and Carl Harris, sentenced in Frederick County for larceny. These two are 17, and their offense was committed following their escape from the National Training School in Washington. They have been in the House of Correction for a year and a half and paroles are conditioned on their returning to the school.

Raymond Bowie, Negro, sentenced in Frederick County to two years for stealing several hams, has served all but four months.

James R. Steele, sentenced by the same court to one year for forging three checks to the amount of $40. Steele is 19 and has served more than half of his term.

George R. Clark, Frederick County, who has served all but seven months of a two-year sentence for stealing a watch.

Clyde Smith, Frederick County, sentenced to two and a half years for participating in a statutory breaking. Term has seven month to run.

Confession Claimed In Holdup Arrests

One of Three Jailed Says He Used Red on His Face as Disguise.

Three men were arrested yesterday in connection with investigation of chain store robberies here. Two of them, Wesely Odell Patterson, 17, formerly of Alabama, and Thomas C. Maynard, 24, of South Carolina, were arrested by Washington police. A third arrest was reported from Summit Hill, Pa., where Paul Darkes is being held for Washington police.

Police said that information obtained from Patterson and Maynard led to Darkes' arrest in the Pennsylvania city.

Maynard is said to have admitted to police that he had taken part in the holdups and that he used a red solution on his face to conceal his identity. The trio will be taken into police court this week.

Veterans' Relief Told to Lawyers

Roberts Details Measures at Meeting of Federal Bar Association.

A comprehensive discourse on veterans' relief measures was given last night by James O'Connor Roberts, solicitor of the Veterans' Administration, at a meeting of the Federal Bar Association in the auditorium of the Department of Commerce Building.

The work and functions of the United States Court of Claims was discussed by Judge Thomas S. Williams.

In executive session the following committee on nominations and elections was appointed by President William R. Vallance: Charles W. Freeman, Rowland S. H. Dyer and David D. Caldwell.

Escort Hurt

Mrs. Roosevelt Refuses to Leave Injured Policeman, in Spite of Date.

Yonkers, N. Y., April 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was an hour late for a speaking engagement today because a motorcycle policeman escorting her automobile was injured in an accident and she insisted on accompanying him to a hospital.

Police Chief George Dobbs, of Croton, her escort, caught the front wheel of his motorcycle in a street car track and was thrown. The President's wife remained with him in the emergency ward of St. Joseph's Hospital until it was ascertained he had suffered only cuts and bruises.

FOREST RECRUITING LIMITS ARE LIFTED

Men Who Have Not Obtained Aid for Families Will Be Accepted.

Lifting early restrictions on the men who may apply for admission to the Conservation Corps for work in the forests, the Emergency Relief Council yesterday announced that it would set up a register of men whose families have not received relief.

To be eligible the men must be unmarried and between 18 and 25 years old. Their families must be in needy circumstances, and they must agree to allot from $22 to $25 per month to their families. Formerly men with these qualifications were picked from the lists of households already receiving aid, but the number on these lists was insufficient. Men who can answer the requirements may register at the Emergency Relief Council at John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue between 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

About 60 Washington men were sent yesterday to Fort Washington, where they will be trained and hardened for two weeks before they move into the forests for work. They will join the 54 men already at the camp. Other men from Baltimore and Philadelphia were meanwhile moving into Fort Humphreys and Camp Meade.

Nature of Work Explained.

When the men move into the forests for their reforestation work there will be more than 250,000,000 young trees ready for them to set out, the American Forestry Association reported yesterday. Of this number 155,000,000 are in Federal and State nurseries, while about 100,000,000 seedlings are in private nurseries.

The exact nature of the work to be done in the woods by the Conservation Corps was explained yesterday by Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, as he announced the sites of the camps where the men will be based.

Mr. Fechner said:

"The work to be done in the different camp areas is relatively comparable throughout the region covered by the 50 sites announced today. It will consist of work on truck trails, trails and paths, and fire breaks. The system of fire breaks will be more intensive on plantation areas and areas planted. Timber stand improvement will also be done. This work will consist of thinning overstocked areas, and cutting or deadening old, defective or unmerchantable trees which retard the young growth. Planting operations in some forests also will be carried on. From many of the camps, timber survey work will be done, consisting of an estimate of the timber now standing on the national forests together with a collection of data from which future yield may be predicted."

Nearby Camp Sites.

Establishment of the following camps in the Washington area has been decided upon: In the George Washington forest of Virginia, Passage Creek, northwest of Luray, Page County; New River, west of Stokesville, Augusta County; near Deerfield, Augusta County; near Faulks Run, Rockingham County; in the Unaks forest of Virginia, south of Wytheville, Wythe County; south of Marion, Smyth County; Damascus, Washington County; Natural Bridge forest of Virginia, near Waynesboro, Augusta County; east of Lexington, Rockbridge County; east of Natural Bridge, Rockbridge County.

In the Monongahela forest of West Virginia, Dry Fork, Tucker County; Glady Creek, Randolph County; Laurel Fork, Randolph County; west of Circleville, Pendleton County; Thornwood, Pocahontas County.

India Drops Japan As Favored Nation

Tokyo Given Six Months' Notice of Change in Trade Status.

New Delhi, India, April 11 (A.P.).—The government of India announced today that it had given Japan six months' notice of termination of the most-favored-nation clause in the trade convention signed in 1905.

Sir Joseph Bhore, commerce member of the executive council, explained that this action was to offset dumping of Japanese goods in India.

India's greatest customer in recent years for her cotton has been Japan, but this is exported in the natural state and a great part of it is reimported in cotton piece goods. Japan has gradually increased her advantage over the United Kingdom in selling cotton goods to India.

Martin's Addition And Section 3 Vote

Chevy Chase Communities Reelect Incumbents in Quiet Ballots.

Elections were held last night by two Chevy Chase, Md., communities, Martin's Addition and Section 3. The incumbents were reelected in both instances.

Committeemen Ralph H. Chase, Fred J. Leonard and Andrew M. Newman were reelected without opposition in Martin's Addition. There were no opposing candidates. In Section 3, F. E. Meloy and Paul S. Anderson were reelected, defeating T. M. Duss and E. J. Murphy, who apparently only ran so the town election law requiring four candidates could be complied with.

ALEXANDRIA DELAYS BATHING POOL PLAN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The principal topic of discussion at the meeting of city council last night was the operation of the municipal swimming pool the coming season. Councilmen Barley and Lawler favoring leasing the property to a responsible party to operate under the supervision of the city, or with restrictions approved by the city officials, and Councilman Davison and Mayor Ticer approving its operation as a municipal project. The matter was referred to the city manager.

The rezoning of the southwest corner of Washington and Franklin streets was carried over.

The rental of the Community Hall in Potomac was discussed and action deferred until the next meeting, pending further information relative to amount of rental, and number of organizations using the hall.

Bank Committee Named.

An application received from William M. Gates for rezoning certain properties owned by him in North Patrick street, and the hearing fixed for May 9.

A report was made on negotiations with officials of the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Railway Co., relative to the right of way from King street to Four Mile Run, and Councilmen Barley, Davison and Herbert appointed a committee to confer with the proper officials.

A communication was received from L. H. Dudley, cashier of the Alexandria National Bank, relative to having the different banks in the city used as depositories of city funds, and Councilman Garrett, Cooper and Lawler were appointed to confer with the banking officials.

A hearing on the petition of Lester Myers against the city of Alexandria as the result of injuries received as a volunteer fireman will be held Tuesday night.

Truck Routing Discussed.

The ordinance relative to rerouting trucks through the city, and regarding the weight of same, after discussion, was referred to the city manager and city attorney for more intensive study.

A copy of the resolution adopted by the League of Virginia Municipalities was received. A copy will be furnished each member of the council for study before taking action.

The request of Charles and Henry Kicherer for a light to be placed at Payne and Franklin streets was granted.

The communication from the city manager for authorization to extend the construction of River road from Hume avenue, one block south to Raymond avenue, was placed on its second reading.

The Alexandria United Charities was given $1,000 to continue its relief work until May and the report of Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer, was received.

NEW REFRIGERATOR SHOWN AT DINNER

Air-Cooled Electrolux Gas Models to Go on Sale Here Tomorrow.

Introduction of the new air-cooled Electrolux gas refrigerator to Washington was celebrated last night at Wardman Park Hotel with a dinner and demonstration of the new machine at which leading architects and builders of the city were guests of the Washington Gaz Light Co.

An outstanding feature of the new refrigerator is the elimination of a water system. As pointed out by A. E. Lee, district sales manager in Philadelphia of the Electrolux Co., the new ice box has six saillent features—silence, simplicity of design and operation, safety, economy, dependability and perfect food preservation.

The new Electrolux will be placed on the market in Washington tomorrow morning.

F. E. Sellman, vice president of the Electrolux Refrigerator Sales Corporation, of New York, spoke, as did Marcy L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co.; Everett J. Boothby, vice president and general manager; Wilton J. Lambert, counsel; Henry M. Brundage, sr., senior vice president of the Consolidated Gas Co., of New York, and Henry M. Brundage, jr., his son, general sales manager of the Washington Gas Light Co., who was toastmaster.

Music was furnished by the Washington Gas Light Co. Orchestra, and handsome combination fountain pens and pencils were given as souvenirs.

Guests at the dinner were:

COUNTY FACES LACK OF FIRE PROTECTION

Arlington Liability Insurance Ruled Legally Not Necessary.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County, although having seven modern fire departments, faces possible lack of fire protection following an opinion handed down yesterday by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas. The opinion reads:

"I am of the opinion that while the county may legally carry public liability insurance on its equipment it is under no legal obligation to carry any such insurance."

This opinion came as the result of a resolution offered by Board Member John C. Gall at the March meeting, which was adopted. It follows:

"That the county manager is hereby directed to secure from the Commonwealth's attorney an opinion as to whether the county is now carrying any public liability insurance, which it is not legally obligated to carry, and if so, such insurance shall be discontinued at the expiration of the policy or policies covering same."

The resolution was adopted, 4 to 1, with Lyman M. Kelley voting negative.

The executive committee of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association has adopted the following resolution which will be submitted for adoption Tuesday. It reads:

"That if and when the county board cancels the liability insurance for the protection of volunteer drivers of fire apparatus the fire departments 'leave' the fire apparatus in their respective houses until liability insurance is again made operative."

The companies affected are Clarendon, Ballston, Arlington, Cherrydale, Virginia Highlands and Falls Church members of the association and the two colored departments not affiliated—East Arlington and Halls Hill.

According to Mr. Kelley, the liability and property damage insurance covering fire apparatus and county trucks expired March 15, and to date is only on binder pending revision of rates.

Walter U. Varney, past president of the firemen's association, declared that a committee will appear before the county board at its meeting Saturday and urged the board to rescind its action and continue to carry insurance.

Armstrong Takes All Cadet Honors

Dunbar and Cardozo High Schools Defeated in Annual Drills.

Battalion and regimental drills held yesterday in the Walker Stadium, adjacent to the Dunbar High School, were won by the Armstrong High School over Dunbar and Cardozo Business High schools. While Armstrong has often taken honors in annual competition, yesterday marked the first time that all honors have been won by that institution.

The Second Battalion of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, Maj. William Reed commanding, and the Twenty-fifth Regiment, Lieut. Col. Richard Naylor commanding, were awarded loving cups, the battalion award being made by Representative Oscar DePriest on behalf of members of the Board of Education, and the regimental award being made by Capt. Arthur C. Newman, in memory of the late Col. James E. Walker, D. C. N. G.

The Ninth Brigade was reveiwed by Representative DePriest previous to the award of prizes, and commissions were presented by him to cadet officers. Judges of the contest were Maj. Howard D. Queen, Second Lieut. William Clay and Lieut. Merrill Tomlin. The competition began at 11 a. m. and closed with the regimental review at 4 p. m.

Miss Mary C. Thomas To Marry Yale Athlete

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thomas announced today the engagement of their eldest daughter, Mary Cecil, to Herbert C. Miller, jr., of Columbus, Ohio, former Yale Varsity football player, now completing his last year at Yale Medical School.

Miss Thomas, whose father was the Socialist candidate for President in 1928 and 1932, is a student at Vassar. Known to her family and friends as "Polly," she has been a frequent exhibitor at dog shows, with entries from her mother's kennels.

ARLINGTON SECOND IN REALTY'S VALUE

Amount Put at $20,283,140, Green Shows in Review of Taxation Report.

Making a study of the report of the Department of Taxation of Virginia for the year 1932, Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue of Arlington County, gave out the following statement yesterday:

"The report reveals that the tangible and intangible values of Arlington County rank high among the counties and cities of the State. Despite the fact that Arlington County is the smallest county in Virginia with an area of only about 24 square miles, yet the taxable values compare favorably and in many cases surpass the values of other counties and many cities in the Commonwealth.

Second in State.

"In real estate values assessed the report shows one other county in the entire State ahead of Arlington, Henrico County, adjoining the city of Richmond, shows a valuation on real estate of $26,430,920, while the assessed valuation shown for Arlington County is $20,283,140. The local levies on real estate are higher in Arlington County, showing an assessed tax of $510,256.08 compared with $316,132.17, for Henrico County. The report further shows that the real estate values of Arlington County are higher than the values of seventeen of the 24 cities in the State. The total assessed valuation for real estate of the 100 counties in the State is $504,616,883, or an average of $5,046,168. This showp the real estate values for Arlington County four times as great as the average county, value throughout the entire State.

"The total values, tangible and intangible, other than income reported by the tax department for the year 1932, show values for Arlington County of $32,394,750. These values are surpassed by only two other counties in the State, namely, Henrico and Roanoke, both of which are adjacent to large cities. The intangible values for Arlington County are larger than similar values in 16 of the 24 cities within the State.

Listed at $2,967,606.

"Values on tangible personal property and machinery are listed by the tax department's report at $2,967,606. It places Arlington County sixth among the counties of the State on values of this class of taxable property. In view of the fact that Arlington County has very few manufacturing plants against which heavy machinery is assessed, its values on tangible personal property and machinery ranks high. Only five counties in the State enjoy a valuation on this class of property equal to that of Arlington County and the tax on this classification is only surpassed by Augusta County for a tax of $88,459.52, while Arlington's assessed levies for 1932 is shown at $74,498.12.

The State income values assessed for Arlington County make it second in the State and surpassed only by Henrico County. The income tax assessed for Arlington County for the year 1932 shows $17,020.77 and is more than the tax assessed against 15 of the 24 cities of the State. This showing is considered good in view of the fact that a large percentage of persons residing in Arlington County are Federal employes and consequently not subject to State income tax.

Arlington County ranks sixth in the number of capitation taxes assessed, seventh in money on deposit and fourth in capital. The valuations on capital are more than that assessed in 16 of the 24 cities of the State and are found to be larger only in the Counties of Henrico, Pittsylvania and Roanoke, all of which are adjoining large cities.

Malcolm Reintzel Final Rites Today

Prominent Fraternal Leader to Be Buried in Glenwood Cemetery.

Funeral services for Malcolm Reintzel, 40, prominent member and officer of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, who died Sunday at Walter Reed Hospital, will be held today at 1:30 p. m. at his residence, 1833 North Capitol street, followed by services at St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, Mount Rainier, Md., at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Reintzel, a native of Washington, enlisted in the Naval Reserve as a second-class seaman in May, 1917, and after the war entered the Postoffice Department, serving for a year before he was employed by Kann's Department Store.

He joined the fraternal order in 1914 and held many offices. Besides being State council press representative, he was recording secretary of J. Morgan Reed Council.

He is survived by his brothers and sisters, Cash H. Reintzel, Mrs. M. A. Clark, Mrs. H. Huffman, Mrs. R. L. Gould, Mrs. E. E. Wrenn and Mrs. B. Nebel.

J. Cudahy, Milwaukee, Confers With Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

John Cudahy, of Milwaukee, who is regarded as probably the next Ambassador to Cuba, conferred yesterday with President Roosevelt.

Senator Duffy (Democrat), Wisconsin, who accompanied Cudahy to the White House said the Cuban situation came up for discussion in the visit with President Roosevelt. Duffy said he was hopeful of the appointment of Cudahy as ambassador to Havana. Cudahy is in the real estate business in Milwaukee and is well acquainted with Latin-American affairs.

Alabama Bank Cashier Kills Youthful Robber

Ashville, Ala., April 11 (A.P.).—A cool-headed bank cashier today killed an 18-year-old youth and frustrated the second attempt within a year to hold up the Ashville Savings Bank.

Instead of complying with an order to "hold up your hands," J. C. Dubois, 58, snatched a revolver from a shelf and fired one bullet through the head of Clayton Lovejoy, Etowah County farm youth, before the other could pull the trigger of an automatic. As Lovejoy fell mortally wounded, a companion fled to an automobile and escaped.

TUBERCULOSIS FUND SLASH PROPOSAL HIT

Mrs. J. M. Wright Is Elected to Board of Visiting Nurse Society.

Mrs. John Marvin Wright was unanimously elected as a member of the board of directors of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society yesterday.

The report of the treasurer was given by Assistant Treasurer Charles W. Pimper.

Mrs. G. Howland Chase made an appeal to the board to bring friends to help in making up surgical dressings to meet the current need among the destitute patients and also to lay up a supply for the summer months, during which time the committee of volunteers does not meet.

The report of unemployment among families given care during the month for the organization as a whole was 40 per cent of all families nursed while in certain sections of the city the percentage ran as high as 51 per cent.

During March, 14,638 visits were made to 5,327 patients. Of the visits made 9,916 were free and 716 visits were made to patients able to pay only a part of the cost.

The board expressed grave concern over the cut in appropriations made for the local tuberculosis hospital. The fact that many tuberculosis patients who should be hospitalized would be left ill in their homes to infect their families was considered a great hazard to the public health of the city, particularly in regard to children who are most susceptible to this sort of contact.

The president was authorized to appoint a committee to work with other local groups toward an effort to have the reduction restored to the budget.

Those present were Mrs. Whitman Cross, presiding; Mrs. Wilder, D. Baker, Miss Elizabeth Bryan, Mrs. Dwight Clark, Mrs. G. Howland Chase, Mrs. Hutchinson Cone, Mrs. John W. Davidge, Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. Charles C. Glover, Miss Janet B. Houtz, Walter Bruce Howe, Miss Virginia Hunt, Mrs. R. M. Kauffmann, R. M. Kauffmann, Mrs. William B. Marbury, George H. Myers, Mrs. Cresson Newbold, Miss Elsa Peterson, Charles W. Pimper, Mrs. Ord Preston, Mrs. John M. Sternhagen, Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, Mrs. B. W. Thoron, Mrs. J. W. Turrentine, Mrs. Charles F. Wilson and Miss Gertrude H. Bowling, executive director.

Meanderer Finds Many Charming Costumes for Easter.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Finds Distinctive, Irresistible Spring Costumes, and Many Charming Accessories.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

A jumper skirt of gray imported tweed with its cape-like jacket of galyak in dark gray has a sophisticated, though youthful air. Worn with a white satin or a gray satin blouse and gray or white accessories, the wearer may feel that her spring costume is truly distinctive. In this suit she may well be a subject for a modish magazine sketch. The Meanderer found the gray jumper with its flat fur jacket in a big department store on Fourteenth street.

Near the jumper costume is displayed a more conservative Easter costume, also of gray. It is of silver gray silk crepe. A straight, simple, perfectly finished gray silk crepe frock has a three-quarter matching coat, with tucked shoulders and long, full sleeves gathered closely at the wrist. Gray fox trims the hemline of the silk coat only at the sides.

A linen evening dress! An exclamation only is adequate to introduce this new dress showing in the Fourteenth street shop. The heavy scarlet background of the frock is dotted with large white and black polka dots, widely spaced. A matching, carelessly worn cape makes the evening gown suitable also for a dinner gown. The linen inspiration comes from Rodier, the accommodating style-wise manager of the dress salon told the Meanderer.

Covetous, indeed, did the Meanderer feel over the clam-shell suit in the window of an F street shop. Clam shell is not beige and not brown, but an uncommonly nice color in the light-brown category. The clam-shell suit has a two-tiered shoulder cape with beige fox trimming. When the cape is removed the suit is a simply tailored garment. A printed blouse that has the special coloring also associated with the clam—and it is much more attractive than the Meanderer's descriptive adjectives—has a row of brilliant small buttons with just enough glitter to relieve the entire subdued effect of the suit.

Black chiffon, tucked in a block pattern, is made into a charming long-sleeved gown that has unusual versatility. Tailored in its general effect, but sheer of material, gracious of line, the gown is suitable for almost any daytime wear. Its neckline is becomingly finished with a crisp, flaring pleated jabot of white, fastened with a circlet pin of pearls, matching small circlet pearl buttons on the lingerie cuffs. This sheer black frock with a black coat and black or white accessories would make an irreproachable Easter frock, and for all the long, hot Washington summer its cool black, with sheer white touches would give its wearer the smartness seldom possible in clothes for the warm season. Readers may see this frock in the F street shop, where "Quality Street" fashions were featured recently.

The high-colored, pastel-colored or white bracelets with matching clips and earrings are priced most reasonably—meaning as low as 39 cents each—in a department store on Seventh at F street. This price is the lowest the Meanderer has seen for this smart costume jewelry that is playing a big part in present-day fashions. A set of three narrow bracelets, two of color one of white, is interesting at 39 cents for the three. The long arrow-shaped pins also sell for 39 cents each. Colors of this popular jewelry are so varied that readers should see them rather than depend upon the Meanderer's listings.

Washable fabric gloves with organdy cuffs, satin cuffs or pique cuffs are a high fashion arriving in time for Easter in the shop mentioned just above. Ornamental gloves were a sensation in this season's Paris displays. Many gloves to match hats or frocks were suggested. So that the organdy, satin or pique-cuffed gloves are probably only a beginning of the elaborate glove fashions to be offered Washington shoppers.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

If April 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:50 a. m. to 12 noon, from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:10 a. m. to 10:15 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Influences operating on this April 12 will tend to produce a general unwillingness on the part of people to gather harmoniously together in groups of a social or business nature. Functions of a purely social nature will fall flat on this day and in affairs of business it will be extremely difficult for more than two or three to reach an agreement.

The child born on this April 12 will be clay in the hands of mature minds and it is most essential that the right influences be brought to bear on him in the home and until he is well along in school. He will not be without fairly obvious weaknesses of character, but these can and will be overcome. Guide him with love, not fear.

If April 12 is your birthday, it is not at all unlikely that you will make your mark in the world at large and not in your own little cubby-hole of the community. You are a gregarious person, one who enjoys being one of an active group. You like to meet new people all the time, you never forget a name and seldom do you fail to place a person immediately, although you may have met him but once. These qualities or abilities of yours will stand you in good stead when you step out to take your rightful place in some great activity. You have a more than pleasing personality, you are a delightful and informed companion and you have a subtle sense of humor that would do anyone credit. Yours is an active mind, one that grasps vast problems quickly and is equally able to master the supporting detail. You appear well and fit into any company. As a leader of men, a statesman, lawyer or lecturer you will succeed.

Born on April 12, you will undoubtedly marry, and happily. Your interests outside of your home will be too vast and intricate to permit of your being an outstanding mother or father, but all in all you will do well by your children and should raise a family that will prove a credit to your community.

Successful people born on April 12: Henry Clay, statesman and orator. Charles Foster, statesman.

John S. Billings, physician and author.

Frank K. M. Rehn, artist.

Walter A. Wycoff, author and sociologist.

Grenville M. Dodge, soldier.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

The tulle scarf-capelet-boa, or name it what you will, adds loveliness and variety to any evening outfit this season. (Says Dah-ray.)

DO you neglect your corseting? It is astonishing how many women do—and the consequent expense to their figures is appalling.

Unless you are slender and youthful, and are SURE you are—you need to pay attention to your corset. And buying a corset is in the nature of an investment—a somewhat expensive one, if you would get the best results, too. Don't put yourself in the hands of any but the best corsetiers, and, above all, don't take the first corset you see! Why should you—even if the saleswoman does succeed in making you feel uncomfortable? She shouldn't—you are privileged to shop for your corset.

Because corsets differ as widely as motorcars. True, all corsets encircle you—but what of that if they don't do it the right way? Nothing can be as responsible for odd bumps, bulges and grotesque figures in general as a corset!

In general, the high corset that covers the waistline is almost a necessity of today's styles. For the figure that is inclined to bulge at the waist, nothing is nicer than the corset attached to the brassiere—all one garment. And lastex, that new synthetic material, is used in almost all corsets in panels—it has what is called a two way stretch, you see, which means that it stretches and then stretches back again—from the opposite pull.

Hundreds of fans write and ask me what price to pay for a corset. I say that it pays to buy a good one, and to stay around, one side or the other, of the $15 mark. Any corset under $5 has to be taken at its worth—and that isn't much! Better to wear a $20 corset under a $5 dress than a $5 corset under a $50 dress—unless you have a perfect figure.

And fabric and elastic combined wears better than either one alone in a corset. And tea rose is the newest color—though I love the pale blues for dressy ones— and white is nicest for summer.

• • • •

Tulle and net all over the place—and not for many a season has Miladi found anything more flattering! Especially when the boa or cape or scarf is stiffened with straw embroidery, or wax or something that makes it "cire," is it lovely—and fragile as a butterfly's wing.

I sketched one today for you—all in red, and all cire—worn over a black satin cire frock—and with black satin gloves. And this scarf-boa-cape swirls and swirls around the face—floats in wistful ends, and is in general simply delightful. Or do you think so?

• • • •

Bed scarfs are important, too—you can't imagine how important. To loveliness, that is, not to style. Bed scarfs, bed jackets, hand and foot coverings and warmers—you simply must be lovely in your boudoir. And when you can be so very reasonably, it is nothing short of naughty for you not to be—so consider yourself chastised—and hurry and send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make so many lovely bedroom things for yourself. Don't do something else now, and forget!

Au Revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATMENT OF BURNS.

TWO British physicians use the tannic acid treatment for moderately severe burns in a way that is simpler and requires less apparatus than is the case with the more widely used methods. They clean the skin around the burned area with alcohol. Probably others will prefer to paint this skin area with mercurochrome or tincture of iodine. The dead skin of blisters is cut away. None of the alcohol or other antiseptic washes is applied to the blisters or burnt surface.

A freshly made 5 per cent solution of tannic acid in water is painted over the burn. This is made by dissolving 1 level teaspoon of tannic acid in 1 ounce of warm water. This solution is to be used when freshly made, else the tannic acid will change into a form that is harmful rather than otherwise. If this solution burns add another ounce of warm water to it, thus reducing the strength one-half.

After painting, cover the burn with gauze that has been soaked in the tannic acid solution. Hold the gauze in place with a bandage. On the next day remove the gauze, if it is not tightly adherent, and give the wound another treatment of the same sort. After about three treatments of this kind, at intervals of a day, paint the burn with collodium and tannic acid dissolved in ether. This can be repeated in five days. In about two weeks the tanned, burnt tissue will come away and the wound will heal healthily and normally.

These doctors advise strongly against scrubbing a burn or manhandling it in any way. The only materials required are a soft camel's hair brush, alcohol, tannic acid, ether, collodium, gauze and bandages.

It is customary to divide burns into three types. The ordinary mild burns of the first group are generally treated in the home. In these burns the skin is red, but it is not broken, and there is nothing to indicate that tissue has been killed.

To stop the pain either grease or soda is applied. Sometimes flour is used. This was the type of burn that popularized that combination of oil and alkali that goes by the name, carron oil. This preparation has fallen into disuse—properly, because it generally was old, rancid, and full of microbes when the emergency arose, having stood in the medicine chest for years. In its stead fresh, nearly-sterile vaseline is now used, preferably pressed from a tube, though fresh, unsalted butter or clean lard, or any other clean fat will answer.

Burns of this type require no more treatment than a protective dusting or other covering and perhaps a little gauze or bandage.

Burns of the third degree are apt to develop constitutional symptoms and require skillful medical treatment to save life and to reduce to the minimum the amount of deformity from the burn.

Burns of the second degree are those for which this tannic acid treatment is especially useful. Some burns of this kind will be treated by members of the family in the home, some will be severe enough to call for the services of the family physician, but most of them will be cared for by the emergency and first aid treatment personnel of industries.

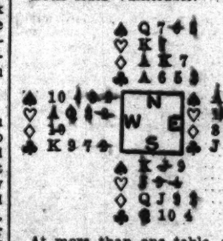
A STUDY IN DISTRIBUTION.

KNOWLEDGE of the distribution of the cards in the various suits is almost always of tremendous value to the Declarer, and quite frequently to the defending players in the play of close hands at Bridge. Beginning with the bidding and confirmed by the Opening lead, the hand patterns begin to unfold as the play proceeds, and the Bridge player who mechanically goes ahead with the play of the hand, without taking advantage of the information he obtains as to how the various suits are divided, is failing to avail himself of one of the most effective measures for the making of a doubtful contract available to Bridge players.

In the recent Eastern Championship Tournament played in New York City, the last event was that for mixed teams-of-four for the Wilbur C. Whitehead Trophy. It is particularly fitting that this event, which accentuates the social side of Bridge in tournament play, should be symbolized by a trophy in memory of Mr. Whitehead, who always placed emphasis upon this phase of Bridge. A number of unusually interesting hands were dealt, one of which particularly exemplified the principle I have stated above. The hand was:

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



At more than one table, the eventual contract was three notrump, with South the Declarer, North generally preferring to open with the slightly shaded club bid in preference to notrump, in order to facilitate the exchange of information. With this declaration, West, it must be confessed, has a rather undesirable choice of leads. The heart suit is in tenace position. To open the spade suit is probably playing the Declarer's game, and the club suit has been bid by North, so that opening will probably facilitate the making of the contract.

Faced with this choice of evils, West chose as his Opening lead the heart 2, and when South studied the situation, he realized that if the lead were "honest," indicating a four-card suit, the making of the game apparently depended upon securing 3 tricks in spades or clubs, in addition to the 4 diamond tricks and 1 trick in the heart suit, as well as one in the other black suit. Obviously, the spade suit, with only one of the four top honors missing, offers a better prospect of success. An even break makes 3 tricks certain, and, in addition, drives out an adversely held Ace. However, as there are entries in both hands, nothing is to be lost by taking a round or two of diamonds—not with the particular hope of learning anything valuable, but on the off-chance that, as Mr. Micawber used to say, "something would turn up."

The first trick was won with the heart Knave, and South then led a small diamond. The drop of the diamond Ten was revealing. One purpose of the diamond lead was to enter the Dummy so that a spade might be led from the long hand and thus permit the playing of an honor after one opponent had played, but when the diamond Ten fell, South decided that he might as well test out the distribution to see whether or not West was falsecarding. If the Ten of diamonds was not a false-card, then West probably held originally four cards in each suit except diamonds, as his Opening lead had been the heart 2. When he discarded a small club on the Ace of diamonds, this reading was confirmed. The diamond suit was abandoned and a small spade led from Dummy. East played the 8 and South went up with the King. The Knave of spades was now led and East won. He returned a heart and West cashed 3 heart tricks. However, the success of the contract was now assured if West held the club King. South knew from the fall of the cards that West still held the spade Ten guarded. Hence the spade suit would not break. West cashed his three hearts, but then was faced with an impossible situation for a saving lead. As a matter of fact, he led a club, which South permitted to run to his own hand, knowing that if East held the club King, the contract could not be made in any event, as the spade suit was "stacked" against him.

A study of distribution and hand patterns, plus a little luck in the distribution, greatly facilitated the making of the contract.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

MANY children today are still taught through every implication in the attitude of their elders and in the organization of their school life that the essence of success is chiefly to go in and win—the game, the scholarship, the highest grades.

The effects of this upon the child's intellect is perhaps too little appreciated.

If the main object is that one should be the first to win, it is important to give only such answers, write such themes, and put energy into collecting such information, or learning such sport, as will be asked for and approved of as correct by the instructor and the school authorities.

Independent thinking has no value in this scheme of things. Indeed, the child soon learns that it gets him nowhere. It is better to think only what the teacher thinks.

If you branch out on your own, pursue a new approach to a subject, or linger too long over a part of it that seems especially interesting to you, you find that somebody else won the prize, that you have rated a B instead of an A.

Many a child, possessed not only of a first-rate intelligence, but also of an eager curiosity, that native delight in understanding, thinking and discovery to which we owe all progress, has had his intellect "sterilized" of originality through being submitted to a system which both at home and at school held up no values other than learning certain set facts more quickly and accurately than anyone else.

Where children attend a school which emphasizes the deadening competitive system, parents can minimize its evils by encouraging the pursuit of hobbies, wide reading and by providing an undogmatic home atmosphere.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Rear Admiral Byrd found himself in an extremely ironic and embarrassing situation the other morning.

Although he had successfully explored the uninhabited wastes of the Antarctic, he discovered the intricate mazes of a modern office building exceptionally puzzling even to such a famous navigator as himself.

After talking with a business friend of his, he started for the elevators, but soon found himself hopelessly lost in a hodgepodge of halls. Finally, a passerby came along and directed him to his elevator.

He isn't the only explorer who becomes confused on Manhattan. Capt. Bob Bartlett, who headed several Arctic expeditions, has to inquire street directions several times as he walks about New York.

Sharing His Profits.

Encountering Robert Nathan, novelist, I inquired as to why he was inspired to hire several sandwich board men to advertise his new book.

"Well, naturally, I felt very grateful when the book became a best seller," he replied. "As you know the story concerns the adventures of a group of people who have been hit by the depression.

So, I thought I would spend some of my royalties to help fellows who have been hard hit. I hired those sandwich board men from among the jobless over around Bryant Park."

Profit In Failure.

This is the story of one show that was a failure; nevertheless, it made money for its producers.

When this certain drama opened, a percentage of the receipts went to the theater as rental money. There was a clause in the lease which said the playhouse must give two weeks' notice if it wished to evict the show.

Business during the first week was considerably less than enough to pay expenses of running the house, so the landlord gave the producers a bonus of $1,000 to tear up their lease and close the show.

Speaking of landlords, two Indians, members of a vaudeville act, were being evicted from a Times Square hotel because they didn't have the necessary wampum to skedge off their board bill.

"At that," commented the gloomy hotel manager as he watched the braves depart, "the way business is, I might as well have let them pitch their wigwams in the lobby and camp there. A least, then it wouldn't look so much like the great open spaces of the West."

Sidewalk ticket scalpers inform me that there is lean pickings in their trade these days. People are buying theater tickets, all right, but there is a determined rebellion against paying more than box-office prices.

All-Wagner Program Given This Afternoon

An all-Wagner program of music suitable to Holy Week will be played this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Universalist National Memorial Church, Sixteenth and S streets, by Dr. Albert W. Harned. It will be the final Wednesday organ recital of the season, the series having begun early in Lent.

The program for this last recital will include the Prelude to Lohengrin; "Liebestod," from "Tristan and Isolde;" "Elizabeth's Prayer," from "Tannhauser," and the Holy Grail Scene, from "Parsifal."

Meeting Is Omitted.

The regular monthly luncheon of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Military Order of the World War, scheduled for tomorrow, will be omitted this month due to the Army Day banquet which was held recently, it was announced by Col. J. Miller Kenyon, commander.

Federation Lenten Services End Today

Epiphany Episcopal Church will be the scene of the concluding Lenten service, held under the auspices of the Federation of Churches, from 1:30 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. today.

Clergymen who will take part are: The Rev. F. B. Harris, Foundry Methodist; the Rev. R. Y. Nicholson, Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant; Dr. Albert Evans, New York Avenue Presbyterian; Dr. H. W. Snyder, St. Paul's Lutheran; the Rev. Paul Sperry, Holy City New Jerusalem; Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, Columbia Heights Christian; Dr. J. J. Rives, Emory Methodist South, and Dr. A. A. Stockdale, First Congregational.

Union Service Tonight At Grace Episcopal

The Right Rev. John William Hamilton, bishop of the Methodist Church, will be one of the speakers at an interdenominational meeting to be held tonight in Grace Episcopal Church, at Ninth and D streets southwest.

Other speakers at the meeting, one of a series held in observance of Holy Week, will be the Rev. Meade Bolton, rector of Grace Church; the Rev. W. H. Tolson, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Charles H. Biggs, pastor of the Ryland M. E. Church, and the Rev. L. Stevens, pastor of the Kendall Baptist Church.

Center Dance Group Invites Mrs. Roosevelt

The Community Center Department has invited Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to be chief patroness at the spring dance concert to be given at Central High School next Wednesday at 8:45 p. m.

The concert will feature the Denishawn dancers and will be directed by Lester Shafer and Marian Chace. Thirty Washington girls will take part.

Stocks Defeated in Struggle To Maintain Monday's Rally

Fractional Loss Recorded on Lighter Sales of 1,434,500 Shares.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Stocks were worn down a bit by profit taking today, but offered good resistance and net changes were mostly of the narrow variety.

Extreme fluctuations for many leaders were small and volume was reduced to 1,434,500 shares.

Realizing in the share market seemed a logical consequence of a half-dozen consecutive advances and bullishly inclined Wall street quarters were pleased by the ready absorption of offerings, especially in the first half-hour when trading was brisk. Metals stocks turned quiet, giving up fractions here and there. Steel issues eased slightly and representatives of the commodity group generally returned small losses. Utilities were fairly firm, while rails lost a little ground.

For U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Harvester, Case, Sears Roebuck and American Tobacco "B" net declines were measured in major fractions. Union Pacific and Santa Fe dipped nearly a point, but a number of other prominent carriers were steadier. Procter & Gamble, learning of a regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents, firmed. American Telephone, whose first quarter earnings, soon to appear, are expected to be rather poor, was down 2¼. National Lead rose 2 points as lead prices were advanced ¼-cent a pound. Coppers traded briskly and at steady quotations; the foreign market for that metal was stronger. Nash Motors lost more than a point on deferment of the dividend which had long been maintained against decreasing income. General Foods had a similar setback after its quarterly payment had been cut to 40 cents from 50, although the company said the old rate had been more than earned in the first quarter.

What the Stock Market Did

	Tues.	Mon.
Advances	271	480
Declines	240	70
Unchanged	138	90
Total issues	649	640

Stocks.

Profit taking wore down prices of stocks and a loss of .2 point resulted. Fluctuations were narrow, and leading issues showed strong resistance. The turnover decreased to 1,434,500 shares.

Bonds.

Firmness of United States loans and recoveries in German obligations pushed the market .3 point higher. The volume of sales was $9,957,000.

Curb.

Considerable profit-taking was encountered and the curb lost early gains. The volume of trading dipped slightly to 199,000 shares.

Wheat.

Storms of buying sent wheat prices up. Smaller crop estimate aided advances. Corn was down. May wheat sold at 59⅞ to 60 cents.

Cotton.

Continued demand pushed cotton higher. The general market was up 10 to 11 points. July sold at 6.80; May at 6.64. Liverpool reported a firmer tone with Bombay selling absorbed.

CURB RISE TRIMMED BY PROFIT TAKING

Offerings Readily Absorbed as Trading Drops to 199,000 Shares.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The curb market encountered considerable profit taking today, after pushing a little higher at the start.

Realizing sales were readily absorbed in most instances, however, and the close was irregular. The volume approximated 199,000 shares, or close to yesterday's. Some selling appeared in raw material producing issues, such as coppers and oils, perhaps on theory that some speculators had permitted themselves to be bitten a little too severely by the inflation bug.

In the petroleum issues, Gulf lost a point, and Indiana a fraction. Newmont Mining was off a point at one time, then recovered much of its loss. Gold Mining issues were heavy, with Lake Shore off about a point.

In the utilities, American Gas and Electric lost about half of an early gain of nearly 2 points, and Electric Bond & Share and Niagara-Hudson closed with fractional losses. Columbia Gas preferred gained 5 in a small turnover.

A. O. Smith was a firm spot in the industrials, up 3 points, Aluminum advanced 2, then receded a fraction from the top. Increased speculative interest appeared in a number of low-priced industrials, selling around 1 to 2 points, several of which gained fractions.

(Associated Press.)

Production of this year's winter wheat crop, announced yesterday by the Department of Agriculture to be indicated as 334,087,000 bushels, the smallest crop since 1904, as compared with 462,151,000 bushels last year, was announced today by important producing States as follows:

Pennsylvania, April 1, condition, 78 per cent of a normal, and indicated production, 15,678,000 bushels; Ohio, condition 76, and production, 31,650,000; Indiana, 74, and 23,152,000; Illinois, 77, and 23,661,000; Michigan, 69, and 12,326,000; Missouri, 74, and 15,400,000; Nebraska, 59, and 20,230,000; Kansas, 37, and 54,747,000; Oklahoma, 49, and 21,165,000; Texas, 50, and 18,515,000; Washington, 37, and 16,317,000.

Stocks of corn on farms April 1 in important producing States were:

Pennsylvania, 11,624,000 bushels; Ohio, 39,567,000; Indiana, 71,561,000; Illinois, 216,254,000; Minnesota, 45,299,000; Iowa, 257,655,000; Missouri, 74,602,000; Nebraska, 126,563,000; Kansas, 44,409,000; Oklahoma, 17,789,000, and Texas, 30,008,000.

Stocks of wheat in important producing States were:

Ohio, 7,465,000 bushels; Indiana, 4,179,000; Illinois, 5,390,000; Michigan, 5,032,000; Minnesota, 7,022,000; Iowa, 1,469,000; Missouri, 3,134,000; North Dakota, 36,433,000; South Dakota, 18,933,000; Nebraska, 9,051,000; Kansas, 20,245,000; Oklahoma, 8,725,000; Texas, 2,958,900; Montana, 20,576,000; Idaho, 7,337,000; Washington, 4,939,000.

New Zealand Tightens Silver Export Ruling

Wellington, New Zealand, April 11 (A.P.).—Further restrictions have been imposed on the export of silver from New Zealand. Travelers to Great Britain and Ireland will be allowed to take only £5 (approximately $17.10 currently) worth of silver, instead of £10, previously allowed. Travelers to other countries will be allowed £2, instead of £5.

The restrictions followed by three weeks an announcement by the finance minister that the royal mint would supply New Zealand with her own silver coinage because the increased exchange rate made it profitable to export the existing coinage, which is identical with British silver.

SILK MARKET.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed strong; sales, 1,280 bales; *May, 1.19; July, 1.19; October, 1.17.

Open market quotations (60-day basis). Shanghai steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane, 20-30, 1.10; Canton double extra "A," 14-16s, 92. Japanese special crack double extra 81 per cent, seriplane, 13-15a, 1.32.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for April 8 were $4,155,158.27; expenditures, $22,819,695.64; balance, $326,878,871.01. Customs duties for eight days of April were $4,952,554.70.

Kansas Wheat Estimated At 54,747,000 Bushels

Topeka, April 11 (A.P.).—Kansas' winter wheat production this year, indicated by the April 1 condition and acreage abandonment, was estimated today by the State and Federal agricultural departments at 54,747,000 bushels, compared with 108,398,000 bushels last year, the record crop of 239,742,000 bushels in 1931, and the 1926-30 five-year average of 153,186,000 bushels.

The indicated production would be the smallest crop since 1917 for the country's chief wheat-producing State. Condition of the crop was rated at 37 per cent of normal, the lowest April 1 condition of record.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Transatlantic issues, improving smartly on a more hopeful view of the situation in the United States, was the feature of a cheerful session of the stock exchange today. Argentine rails and German bonds advanced, while industrials and oil shares were the best of the other sections. The market closed steady.

Paris—Encouraged by favorable Wall street advices and the continued improvement in rentes, prices on the bourse advanced generally. The closing was steady.

Berlin—Trading on the bourse was quiet and the market closed irregular.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN AS FEDERALS LEAD

Three-Tenths Rise Recorded on Sales Volume of $9,957,000.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Continued firmness of United States Government securities and further recoveries of German obligations heartened the bond market again today and prices in all categories registered moderate improvement.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans showed a gain of 3-10 of a point. This was the second average gain this month. Sales totaled $9,957,000, par value.

The majority of Federal issues, although failing to hold their top quotations of the day, advanced 1-32 to 9-32 of a point. Liberty Fourth 4¼s were the firmest and most active of this list, apparently reflecting the belief in investment circles that the Treasury would not announce the calling of this issue for October 15. If it is to be called, notification must be given on or before next Saturday.

Encouragement was given the Government list by the lowering of interest rates on clearing house bank deposits. Bankers' bill rates were also reduced to ¾ per cent and an average interest cost of .77 was obtained by the Treasury on yesterday's sale of discount bills.

German bonds led a general recovery in the foreign division with gains ranging from 1 to around 4 points. Loans of Argentina, Australia, Denmark, Italy and Japan were up a point or more.

The utilities and industrials were the best of the domestic sections. Gains of 1 to around 2 points were retained by some loans of American I. G. Chemical, American Sugar, Bethlehem Steel, Dodge Bros., Goodrich, New Orleans Public Service, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Portland General Electric, Shell Union Oil and Western Union. There were a number of small profit-taking reactions in late transactions.

Sugar Prices React On Cuban Segregation

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Conflicting reports regarding the segregation of sugar in Cuba caused irregular fluctuations in the sugar futures market here today and, after showing early advances of 1 to 4 points, prices reacted. At the beginning of the last hour they were at or a point below the previous close.

Early reports said that the Cuban Sugar Institute had resolved to segregate 700,000 tons of sugar from this year's United States quota until next year, and that the forthcoming crop would be reduced that much, although stipulating that, should the price reach 2 cents, cost and freight New York, and remain there for five days, owners would be permitted to sell provided the institute so recommended.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN IN DRIVES OF BUYING

Trading Is Buoyant With Strong Closing Tone; Corn Loses.

Chicago, April 1 (A.P.).—In storms of buying, wheat repeatedly whirled toward the zenith today, and closed buoyant at about the topmost point reached.

More than 10 cents a bushel gain in less than three weeks resulted, sweeping the wheat market above any quotations for over a year. Official crop estimates which trade experts said were suggestive that the country might be in a serious position regarding supplies took first place among reasons given for excited rushes to purchase.

Some wheat specialists figured that the United States this season would produce 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels less than the usual home requirements. Giving further stimulus to the market was a sudden expansion of overseas demand, with Europe today taking 2,000,000 bushels of wheat from North America.

Wheat Closes Strong.

Wheat closed strong, 1⅝ to 2¾ cents net higher; corn, unchanged to ⅝ off; oats, ⅛ to ¼ up, and provisions showing 7 to 17 cents advance.

Maximum prices for wheat today came right at the opening and just before the close. Late upturns were ascribed largely to a Government correction eliminating 30,000,000 bushels of seed wheat from the amount reported as part of farm reserve stocks in spring wheat States Northwest.

This correction brought the official figures on farm stocks practically into line with recent private estimates, and cut out an offset to sensationally reduced prospects for 1933 production.

Cut in Kansas.

Augmenting the late upward momentum of wheat was widespread attention given to remarkable aspects of official advices from Kansas showing that although the State had raised 240,000,000 bushels in 1931, the 1933 Kansas prospect was for only 55,000,000 bushels or less. Another notable feature was that for the first time in a longe while the Liverpool market had risen abruptly in response to news from this country. Outstanding also in today's developments was the fact that huge profit-taking sales served only as transient obstacles to higher prices.

Wheat for immediate delivery in Chicago today brought 65 cents a bushel, 5½ cents above simultaneous quotations on the nearest future delivery. Fort Worth, Tex., reported spot cash wheat there commanded 67 to 70 cents.

Corn and oats prices were held back by Government reports indicating plenty of corn in the country.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Reports to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., from 186 cities show a total expenditure for building permits in March of $18,733,942, against $15,933,279 in February. The total, however, is a decrease of 51.2 per cent from March, 1932.

Freight loadings of the Chicago & Northwestern last week amounted to 18,507 cars, compared with 19,021 in the previous week and 20,771 a year ago. The Wabash's loadings were also down, totaling 10,571, against 11,055 in the preceding week and 11,130 in the same period of 1932. Rock Island's traffic aggregated 17,763 cars, against 17,825 the previous week and 20,653 a year ago.

Dun's insolvency index for the first week of April, at 111.4, was the lowest for that period in a number of years. The five-year average from 1925-29 for April was 107.4. The improvement that was noted in March this year, says the agency, "is being fully maintained in April."

Paris, April 11 (A.P.).—A subsidy of $800,000 was voted in the Chamber of Deputies today to encourage farmers to denature wheat, making it unfit for human consumption but suitable for feeding to live stock.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON HEAVIER BUYING

July Closes at 6.80 as General Markets Gains 10 to 11 Points.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Cotton continued in demand today, rising about 50 cents a bale.

July advanced to 6.81 in the late trading and closed at 6.80. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 10 to 11 points.

Initial prices were 7 to 9 points higher. Active months sold 9 to 11 points net higher, with May advancing to 6.64 and October to 7.02 during the early trading.

Houses with both Liverpool and continental connections were buyers here and there was some broadening of commission house demand, particularly through houses with Western and Wall street connections.

Firming Follows Reaction.

After the more urgent demand had been supplied, prices reacted a few points under realizing combined with some Southern selling, but firmed later. May advanced to 6.65 and October to 7.03, and the close was within a point of the best.

Broadening of commission house interest in the early trading was attributed by local brokers to the more favorable views of commodity values generally.

Liverpool cables reported a firmer tone in the futures market with Bombay selling absorbed by a broader investment demand and said bullish sentiment had been encouraged by strength in other commodities and hopes of constructive results from international conferences.

Exports today, 8,273, making 6,313,033 so far this season. Port receipts, 14,534. U. S. Port stocks, 4,313,277.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was firmer today reflecting the firmness of grain, cotton, lard and hogs. Final prices were 12 to 15 points higher on increased covering and commission house buying.

Sales were 45 contracts, of which 30 were in the way of exchanges. The Census Bureau report on cottonseed oil consumption will be issued tomorrow at 10 and the trade anticipates a disappearance of 225,000 to 300,000 barrels. The February disappearance was 177,808 barrels and March last year 270,745 barrels. Bleachable spot closed 3.90, May 4.04, July 4.20, September 4.38, October 4.45.

Movement of American cotton into sight this week amounted to 75,000 bales against 144,000 a year ago. Forwardings to mills of the world aggregated 207,000 bales compared with 270,000 last year, while exports totaled 132,000 bales against 182,000.

VIRGINIAN RAILWAY'S DIVIDEND IS REGULAR

American Tank Car Profit May Be $250,000; Foods Return Cut.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Directors of the Virginia Railway today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock, payable May 1 to holders of record April 15.

Lester N. Selig, president of General American Tank Car Co., told stockholders at today's annual meeting that first-quarter results would probably show a net profit of between $250,000 and $300,000. In the same period of 1932 the company had net income of $379,000.

The Midcontinent Petroleum Corporation today reported 1932 net loss of $2,081,900 after all charges, including inventory adjustments. This compares with 1931 net loss of $4,963,411.

General Foods Corporation today reduced its annual dividend basis to $1.60 from $2 by declaring a quarterly payment of 40 cents a share, payable May 15 to stock of record May 1.

A statement by the company said that despite earnings "in excess of 50 cents per share in the first quarter of this year" the directors have decided to pursue a conservative policy by reducing the dividend "in view of the continuation of business uncertainty and the fact that proposed legislation has not yet been sufficiently clarified to indicate what effects it might have on future earnings."

Newark, N. J., April 11 (A.P.).—A net decline in income of more than $19,000,000 for 1932 as compared with a net balance of $115,745 in 1931 was reported today at the annual stockholders meeting of the Bethlehem Steel Co. by Eugene G. Grace, president.

Gross sales and engineering income totaled $98,467,226 for 1932, and cost of sales and operating expenses were $99,708,995, leaving a net operating loss of $1,241,769. Other income left a balance of $504,138 in the operating account as compared to a balance of $21,386,694 in 1931.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Pig iron—Some selling agents in the New York district report a slightly better volume of business. Market sentiment is more favorable, though most producers are conservative in estimating the improvement.

Crude drugs—Trade advices say that dealers are receiving a fair number of orders. The market is more active than it was earlier in the year, although manufacturing consumers are still inclined to follow a cautious policy in buying.

Flannel—It is reported that several outstanding flannel mills have withdrawn their recently announced prices in anticipation of conditions that may tend to increase manufacturing costs.

Sheets and pillow cases—With retail stores concentrating on sales of apparel and dress accessories, new business is flowing rather slowly to selling agents specializing in wide sheeting, sheets and pillow cases. More active buying is looked for later in the spring.

TEN O'CLOCK CLUB IN FINAL CONCERT

Mrs. Heinl and Mrs. Turley Feature MacDowell's Works in Program.

The less frequently played compositions of Edward Alexandre MacDowell featured the sixth and last of the Washington artists series of concerts when the Ten o'Clock Club presented Helen Corbin Heinl, former student of the composer, co-featured with Helen Turley, contralto, at the Washington Club last evening.

The program opened with MacDowell's "Keltic Sonata," of which Mrs. Heinl played the maestoso (first) and molto allegro con fuoco (third) movement. If at the end of that number there was any question as to Mrs. Heinl's virtuosity, the three of the composer's twelve "Virtuoso Studies"—"Impromptu," "Improvisation," "March Wind"—dispelled all doubts on this point. From "Sea Pieces" was selected the lugubrious but serene "In Midocean."

Mrs. Heinl's closing group was composed of "Hungarian," "Br'er Rabbit" from the "Fireside Tales," and "From a Log Cabin" from the "New England Idyls."

Like Mrs. Heinl, whose opening number represented the American master's genius at its zenith, Mrs. Turley's outstanding contribution was Penelope's "Trauer" from Max Bruch's opera "Odysseus," a pleading recitative of beauty and song with tenderest feeling.

"Stars" (Ware), "The Bird With the Broken Wing" (Golson), "The Knight of Bethlehem" (Thompson), "When Childher Plays" (Davies), and "A Song in the Night" (Loughborough) were the other numbers given by Mrs. Turley, who, for an encore sang "The Sum of Happiness," a number written by her accompanist, Mrs. Chester Adair.

Preceding the concert Helen Fetter Cook gave a brief sketch of the origin and purposes of the MacDowell colony at Peterboro, N. H., to which the proceeds of the evening's concert will be given. W. A. WHITNEY.

Band of Kentucky Raiders Is Active

"Night Riders" Reported in Several Whippings in Western Area.

Smithland, Ky., April 11 (A.P.).—Reports that "night riders" again were making raids in western Kentucky came to Livingston County authorities today and a grand jury investigation was ordered.

About 20 years ago, night riders were active in dissension over tobacco acreage, but the cause of the alleged modern raiding has not been learned.

Circuit Judge G. H. Wilson was told that a band of men had whipped several persons in Tilline, near here, during the past two weeks. Members of the band, the judge was informed, have revealed only that "certain things are going on and since the law doesn't do something about it, we intend to do something."

Denmark to Bar Nazis in Uniform

Special Bill to Be Rushed Through Parliament Before Easter.

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 11 (A.P.).—A bill designed to prevent the entry of uniformed German Nazis into Danish Slesvig will be introduced in Parliament tonight and rushed through all stages to passage.

It forbids all political uniforms and increases the number of the State police. Passage is assured and the bill will be sent by airplane to the king, on holiday at the Skaw.

This haste is due to a desire to make the law effective before the Easter holidays during which, it was said, large numbers of uniformed Nazis intended to visit Danish Slesvig.

Two Mellon Children Passengers on Majestic

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Paul Mellon and Mrs. David K. Bruce, son and daughter of Andrew W. Mellon, former American Ambassador to Great Britain, returned from London today on the liner Majestic.

They remained in England after their father's recent return to assemble and bring back some of his personal belongings.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ONE comes to the writing of a belated column after an hour and three-quarters of George Bernard Shaw, on the air, convinced that the British author, playwright, socialist, lecturer, wit, philosopher, egoist is the most maligned of men.

Speaking with the mellow friendliness that characterized much of John Barrymore's philosophizing in "Topaze"—and strangely enough this was the resemblance that was most insistently suggested by his quizzical rising inflections and the thoughtful deliberation of his remarks—Shaw not only refrained from tearing America to tatters, but actually paid the United States some very handsome compliments. These, to be sure, were more or less in the nature of introduction to the urgent behest that we cancel the European war debts, but, even so, were not hard to take.

Despite the cantankerousness of the man, this column has always been a staunch and unswerving admirer of the Shaw mind and its vast capacity for logic and analysis—prerequisites of many of his seemingly paradoxical arguments.

There is not a clearer thinker before the public. "Too True to Be Good," his last play, and "The Black Girl's Adventures in Her Search for God," his latest published work, may not have been either a good play or a good book, but they were sound sense.

The friendliness, the humor and the wisdom of much of last evening's talk from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York make it extremely difficult to dislike the old gentleman.

Much of what Shaw said had to do with the muddle in which the world at large and America in particular finds itself at the present moment. He should have been told about the situation in the local picture houses, come Friday! Talk about a muddle!

Perhaps not exactly a muddle, but certainly not the most desirable arrangement for all concerned—especially the public, torn among three desires. It is only necessary to look the line-up over to get the idea: Invitations and reserved seat tickets already are out for the Friday night premier of "Be Mine Tonight," one of the most unusual musical films the cinema has produced, at the Rialto. For the same night, according to announcement made yesterday by Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in Washington, plans are being rushed to completion for the entertainment of hundreds of persons high in official, diplomatic and society life in the Capital at a no less formal premiere of "Looking Forward," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new starring vehicle for Lionel Barrymore, at Loew's Fox, and on the same night—unless last-minute changes in plans are made—Lionel Barrymore also will be presented for the first time locally as star of "Sweepings," heralded as one of his most impressive accomplishments before the cameras and microphones, at RKO-Keith's.

"Looking Forward" will have its world premiere at Loew's Fox on Friday. It is understood that President Roosevelt, acceding to requests from the executives of M-G-M, has consented to permit the use of the title of his recent book on the film. The house will open, as usual, at 10:30 a. m., with the regular screen and stage bill, which will be presented continuously all day. The invitational audience will be at the 9 o'clock performance in the evening.

In this connection it may be noted that the Rialto premiere of "Be Mine Tonight" at 8:30 p. m. Friday will be purely an invitational showing, the regular public run of the picture beginning Saturday morning on regular house schedule.

Garrulous or utterly mute, I still think it an amusing paradox that what Joe Penner probably would call "the nasty mans" detected nothing in the slightest degree reprehensible in "Maedchen in Uniform," while their charming and brilliantly literate distaff contemporaries perceived in it cause to lift an eyebrow.

Can it be that there is no longer any such thing as loyalty among the stronger sex, or is it merely that to the pure all things are pure?

(Note to distaff contemporaries: This is all in a vein of rich sarcasm, expressed through the medium of a figure of speech known as irony, obviously conveying the implication that gentlemen are notoriously less pure of mind and heart than ladies and two times two is four!)

A long call from C. P. Greneker, general press representative of the Shubert enterprises yesterday afternoon, during which he dropped the word that the "Best Seller" company, headed by Peggy Wood and Ernest Truex, to close the season of regular road-show attractions at the National next week, will arrive in the Capital on Friday to put the finishing touches on the Edouard Bourdet play, which will be given its American premiere on Monday night.

Mr. Greneker returned to New York last night, but the Shubert high command will not be unrepresented here over the week-end. Joseph M. Gaites, Shubert general manager, will accompany the company to Washington on Friday and probably will remain through the first-night travail—if any—until Tuesday.

Mr. Greneker reports every promise of an interesting theatrical event from a Sunday rehearsal which he attended in New York. From its first week in Washington the play will move on to Brooklyn.

With the hurried announcement that the National Theater Players would begin their ninth annual season at the National on Monday, April 24, there was a proportionately hurried response from old patrons urging that their customary season reservations be made.

In this connection, Manager Stephen E. Cochran wishes to reiterate that reservations on the books of the company at the close of last year's "little season" will again be held for the loyal supporters who faithfully rally to this organization, which each spring and early summer brings the best in drama, both past and present, to the Capital at popular prices.

Failure to take up the reservation twice in succession, however, will result in its automatic cancellation.

Bet you were surprised last night to learn from G. B. S. that the widely celebrated Constitution of these United States is just a charter of anarchism!

Clement to Speak at Forum.

Henry H. Clement will be the speaker at the Forum at the Woman's City Club at 11 a. m. today His subject will be, "What Do We Mean by Wall Street?" and the general banking situation will be discussed. Mrs. Gladys B. Middlemiss will preside.

BOYS' WEEK PLANS BARED AT SESSION

Program for Celebration to Begin on April 29 and End on May 6.

Plans for a program for the celebration of National Boys Week here April 29-May 6 were outlined yesterday afternoon at a meeting of a committee of the Board of Trade, sponsoring the city-wide celebration and a committee representing the 13 organizations doing boys' work. S. Percy Thompson, chairman of the Board of Trade committee, presided and presented the plans.

Mr. Thompson pointed out that the idea of the observance of boys' week here is to focus attention on the boys into whose hands the future control of municipal affairs will pass.

It was made clear that each of the 13 organizations taking part in the celebration will be permitted to arrange its own program, adhering, however, to the general outlines of the program approved by the committee.

The general plan for the week is as follows:

Saturday, April 29, "Boys' Loyalty Day," in which connection it is planned to obtain a theater, a special film of interest to boys, and a speaker of national prominence.

Sunday, April 30, "Boys' Day in the Church."

Monday, May 1, "Boys' Day in Industry," inspection of some business or industry.

Tuesday, May 2, "Boys' Day in the Schools."

Wednesday, May 3, "Boys' Day in Athletics."

Thursday, May 4, "Boys' Health Day and Evening at Home."

Friday, May 5, "Citizenship Day."

Saturday will be "Boys' Out-of-Doors Day" and will be observed with a general field meet.

Cool Spell Is Boon To Cherry Blooms

Drop in Temperature May Prolong Life Until Easter Sunday.

The cool wave succeeding the summery spell of Monday is expected to prolong the life of the cherry blossoms fringing the Tidal Basin through Easter Sunday, when thousands of out-of-town visitors are expected to view their floral splendor.

Park officials became apprehensive Monday lest the summery weather mature the blossoms too speedily and cut short their naturally brief effulgence.

With the prevalence of cooler weather, strong optimism is felt that the Japanese blooms will last out the week.

Philip S. Henry Dies in London.

London, April 11 (A.P.).—Philip S. Henry, resident of Asheville, N. C., who was born in Australia, died last night in his London apartment. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, one of whom is a painter who recently exhibited some of her works in London.

2 CABINET MEMBERS FAVOR 5-DAY WEEK

Miss Perkins and Roper, In Parley With Black, Bare Roosevelt's Views.

(Associated Press.)

Federal legislation for a 30-hour working week in industry appeared certain last night as two administration spokesmen—Secretaries Perkins and Roper—indorsed the principle of the Senate bill.

Miss Perkins, after a conference with Secretary Roper and Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, author of the measure, announced, however, she would recommend modifications to make the legislation "more workable."

Considerable easing of the restrictions provided by the Senate is in prospect to make more elastic the administration of the six-hour day and five-day week.

Miss Perkins will go into conference today with the House Labor Committee, which has been awaiting a report from the White House before giving attention to the bill.

President Roosevelt designated Miss Perkins and Secretary Roper to present the administration viewpoint. They conferred with Senator Black after the Cabinet meeting yesterday at which the bill was believed to have been considered.

The measure, which was passed last week by the Senate, remains entangled by the motion of Senator Trammel (Democrat), Florida, for reconsideration.

Black made a futile attempt yesterday to get action on the Trammell motion and a decision went over until after the Senate completes the farm bill.

"I will predict," Black declared, "that the legislation will be passed and signed by President Roosevelt."

It is understood the modifications to be suggested by Miss Perkins will include a range of longer hours for some industries, according to necessities.

Marine Corps Affiliate Names Drewry Colonel

(Associated Press.)

A commission as colonel in the Continental Guards, a patriotic organization affiliated with the Marine Corps, was presented yesterday to Representative Drewry, of Petersburg, for his work as chairman of the House subcommittee that disapproved a proposal to reduce the corps.

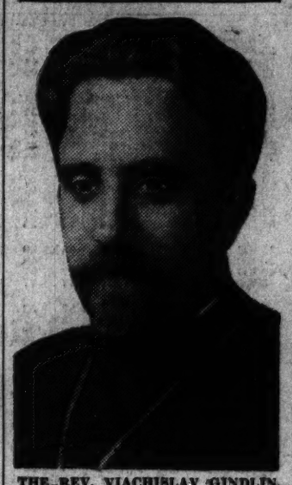
Drewry is chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee's subcommittee on the Marine Corps. The presentation was made at a brief ceremony in Drewery's office by Col. J. J. Staley, commandant of the District of Columbia division of the guard.

Lehman Will Sign Beer Control Measure Today

Albany, N. Y., April 11 (A.P.).—Gov. Lehman will send his beer bill to the law books tomorrow.

The governor, caught in an avalanche of bills from the retiring Legislature, decided to delay the signing of the beer control bill until tomorrow.

MAKES PLEA



THE REV. VIACHISLAV GINDLIN.

HOME FOR ORPHANS AND AGED PLANNED

Russian Orthodox Church of District Buys Property in Maryland.

To perserve the survivors of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church in this country, protectors of the faith in Washington are planning to finance the building and maintenance of a home for the aged and orphans through the collection and sale of picture gallery of famous personalities of the Twentieth Century.

The home will be for the aged and the clerical and laymen orphans of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church in the United States who are now said to be in a terrible state of destitution. Five hundred acres of land and several structures in nearby Maryland have been acquired for the home.

The Rev. Viachislav Gindlin, rector of the Russian Orthodox Church of Alexandria, in Washington, who made the announcement, appeals for donations of photographs of rulers, statesmen, distinguished scientists, artists, philosophers, &c.

One hundred copies of the photographs will be made and they will be sent to the donors for autographing. Fifty of the photographs of each person will be placed in museums of 50 different countries, without charge, the remaining 50 sets will be sold and the money will be used for building the home for the aged and an orphanage for the clerical and laymen orphans.

Albums will be printed containing copies of the photographs and biographies. The profits realized from sale of these albums will be used for maintenance of the home for the aged and the orphanage.

Liner Majestic Brings Shipment of British Ale

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The liner Majestic arrived today with a consignment of 120 cases of light ale, the first British beer to be imported since 3.2 brew was legalized.

The shipment was held by customs authorities pending analysis to determine if the beer was of legal alcoholic content.

Women Drys Open Convention Today

Capper and Sheppard to Address Meeting; Plan to Honor Lincoln.

(Associated Press.)

Feminine prohibition leaders gathered in the Capital last night preparatory to the opening today of their three-day annual convention under the leadership of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, general chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement.

Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, will be the principal speaker at today's session, and Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, also will address the meeting. Friday the delegates will march to the Lincoln Memorial and commemorate there the anniversary of Lincoln's death.

A two-fold aim will be discussed by the delegates. As in the past the principal objective will be retention of the eighteenth amendment, and this year there will be discussion of methods of seeking repeal of beer legislation. Reports will be submitted by State delegations on recent organization to prevent repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE GROUP IS ORGANIZED

Several Capital Leaders Will Be Asked to Rule on Admissions.

The newly set-up Wellesley Summer Institute for Social Progress, which is to hold a two-week session at Wellesley, Mass., next July, will ask a group of prominent Washingtonians to act as an admissions committee for the District of Columbia.

Mrs. W. E. Safford, president of the Wellesley College Club, has called a meeting of interested organizations for this evening to discuss the program of the institute, and the type of student who will be admitted to the institute's sessions. The meeting will be held at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Spencer Gordon, chairman of the institute's organization committee for the District, said that while the Washington admissions committee has not yet been completed, the following already have accepted membership and have indorsed the program of the Wellesley Summer Institute for Social Progress: Miss Bell Sherwin, Dr. Mary Dabney Davis, Mrs. Josephine P. January, Dr. Isadore Lubin, Miss Elizabeth Christman, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy and Mrs. Lyman B. Swormstedt.

Theme of Conference.

The theme of the institute conference will be "What Are the Fundamentals of a Good Social Order, and How Can They Be Realized?"

Among the subjects already announced are: "Methods of Dealing With Unemployment," "Political Action and Economic Issues," "Our Money and Its Behavior," "New Systems on Trial," "International Aspects of Our Economic Life."

The purpose of the institute is to assemble about 130 men and women from different fields of activity—business and the professions, industry, clerical work, teaching, banking, engineering, homemaking, farming—for two weeks' study and discussion of social and economic problems in the light of their various vocations and experiences.

Institute Is Separate.

To select several well-qualified Washington men and women to attend the institute will be the work of the local committee.

Although the institute is entirely separate from Wellesley College, both in finances and control, members will live in a large college dormitory and be given the use of college facilities for study and recreation.

Veteran's Plunge Declared Suicide

Coroner Issues Certificate on J. A. Linam's Leap Into Potomac.

A certificate of suicide was issued by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday in the death of James A. Linam, 37-year-old war veteran, who leaped to his death in the waters of the Potomac River Monday night.

Linam jumped from the south rail of the Pennsylvania avenue bridge while a score of persons looked on, powerless to stop him. Harbor police fished his body from the stream a short time later and rushed him to Casualty Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Linam is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mollie Linam, of Daleville, Ala., and three sisters and two brothers, one of whom is in the United States Navy. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

GRIFFITH AND CRONIN VOICE CONFIDENCE IN NATS

Major Games May Draw 185,000

Beer and Baseball to Mix at New York and St. Louis.

Ruth, Throat Sore, to Play; Chiefs Order Fighting Spirit.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, April 11 (A.P.). Shorn of its boom-time opulence and featuring instead a return of the old-time fighting spirit, by official request, the uniformed ranks of major league baseball will march into action tomorrow in a campaign deftly calculated to recapture national popularity and, incidentally, to end the domination of the New York Yankees.

The return of one of America's greatest and most colorful sporting institutions to its old familiar battlegrounds, scattered from the shores of the Potomac to the banks of the Mississippi, will be celebrated, weather permitting, with a display of old-time enthusiasm, gala ceremonies and beer on sale, 'neath the stands, in four of the eight opening day parks.

Despite an undesirable wave of chilly weather and a prospect of showers in at least three big league cities, the eight American and National League openers, based on predictions tonight, will draw 185,000 spectators.

Yanks and Red Sox May Draw 40,000.

The poor weather outlook was concentrated in the East, but in spite of this and opposition only from the tail-end Boston Red Sox, the Yankees' management predicted a crowd of 40,000, largest of the day, for the opener in the big Bronx ball park. It was chilly but clearing in the West.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Nation's first fan, will throw out the first ball for the getaway game between two of the American League's foremost championship challengers, Washington's Nationals and Philadelphia's Athletics.

Of baseball's official family, Commissioner K. M. Landis will witness the Detroit-Cleveland game at Detroit, President William Harridge, of the American League, will attend the Browns-White Sox game in St. Louis and President John Arnold Heydler, of the National League, will be a guest of honor for the Brooklyn-Phillies contest, at Philadelphia, where a capacity turnout of 18,000 fans was forecast.

The two league presidents have joined in appealing to the players to employ a maximum of aggressiveness, minus rowdiness, into the competition and avoid fraternizing on or about the fields.

Beer to Flow in Four Parks.

Beer will flow, at concession stands only, in the New York and St. Louis American League parks, also the Cincinnati and Chicago National League stadiums tomorrow. Only the failure to get a license in time will keep the 3.2 per cent brew from being sold by the Boston Nationals. No beer will be sold at Washington, Detroit or by the Philadelphia Nationals.

The Yankees' $52,000 piece of baseball bric-a-brac, Babe Ruth, may be a trifle pale and weak from a sore throat, but he will take his accustomed place in right field tomorrow and no doubt rise to the emergency with his usual flair for showmanship. The Babe is never more dangerous as a batsman than when just emerging from the doctor's care, and he is himself confident he will defy his critics by playing regularly through most of his twentieth big league season.

Less fortunate are such other veterans as Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals; Kiki Cuyler, of the Cubs; Travis Jackson, of the Giants, and a number of others, all casualties for the time being.

Although no developments of the past few days have altered the widespread view of experts that the Yankees and Pirates are the two clubs to beat, surprises are looked for in both pennant races. It is apparent anything may happen in the National League, with five teams—Pittsburgh, Chicago, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Philadelphia—all conceded to have real pennant chances.

American League Aims To Stop Yanks.

American League rivals will shoulder a tougher task in trying to dislodge the opulent Yankees, but at least three of them—Washington, Philadelphia and Cleveland—think

13,000 Opening Game Tickets Available

Although most of the choice seats for this afternoon's 1933 baseball opener with the Philadelphia Athletics have been sold, approximately 13,000 who have not yet bought their tickets can be accommodated at Griffith Stadium today.

Besides 3,000 reserved seats which are still available, 10,000 bleacher seats at 55 cents each will be put on sale this morning at 9 o'clock on the first-come-first-served basis.

Should rain interfere with today's game, by the way, the opening day ceremonies will be held over until tomorrow.

PRENN DRAWS NET BAN IN GERMANY

Former Captain of Cup Team Through Because of Race.

BERLIN, April 11 (A.P.).—The Davis Cup hopes of Germany today were wrecked by the Hitler government's ban on Jews as the cup committee dropped its leading player and former captain, Daniel Prenn, because of his race.

The disbarment left Germany with only Baron von Cramm to renew the campaign which twice in four years had carried her to the interzone final against the United States. Her third and fourth ranking players—G. Jaenecke and E. Nourney—are not considered in the same class with the baron and Prenn.

Germany faced a difficult Davis Cup campaign even with Prenn, being drawn in the lower half of the European zone with Japan, Ireland, Australia and South Africa. Without him they face almost certain elimination.

Prenn has been Germany's leading player for several years and in 1932 was one of the 10 or 15 best in the world. He first headed the German list in 1928, repeated in 1929 and 1930 and in 1931 shared the place with Von Cramm. He again was ranked No. 1 in 1932.

He was in difficulties with the German Tennis Federation in 1931, being suspended for a year for alleged indorsement of a tennis racquet. He won vindication in the courts, however, and was restored to good standing in time to lead Germany's sensational international campaign last year.

Even if Prenn chose to leave Germany, he would not be eligible to represent his adopted country for three years, the Davis Cup committee some time ago raising the limit from two to three years.

The disbarment of Prenn was expected to be followed by similar action against other German sports figures who carry Jewish blood in their veins. Theodore Lewald, chairman of the German sports federations, and one-quarter Jewish, is expected to resign.

Shekeetski and Locke Holy Cross Grid Aids

Worcester, Mass., April 11 (A.P.). Dr. Edward N. Anderson, of Chicago, new football coach at Holy Cross College, announced today that his assistants will be Joe Shekeetski, who played in Notre Dame's back field in 1932, and Joe Locke, who played guard on the Notre Dame team three years ago. Locke will look after the linesmen and Shekeetski the back field. Locke has been coach at Wichita University since leaving Notre Dame. Their appointment means the passing of the veteran Holy Cross assistant coaches, Arthur Corcoran and Gus Cervini.

Ryerson Advances In Mason-Dixon Golf

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 11 (A.P.).—John B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., twice winner of the Mason and Dixon golf tournament and qualifying medalist this year, led the way into the second round of match play in the tourney today with a 2-up victory over Robert E. Barbour, of Paterson, N. J. Ryerson had a medal score of 73 to Barbour's 75.

Dougan Again Victor Over Landers

Swetnam, Kirkwood, Davis and Grove Other Winners.

By DAVE HERMAN.

WITH success or failure hinging on the final round, Leroy Dougan, a roaring fistic machine from Blytheville, Ark., crashed through with a burst of speed and punching power to conquer Billy Landers, the blond, Norfolk, Va., buzz saw, last night at Portner's Arena in a blood-tingling encounter that had 1,300 spectators hanging on with bated breath until the very last blow was landed.

Fighting in the feature eight-round match, Dougan and Landers put on a tussle that will go down as one of the most exciting between bantamweights in Alexandria ring history.

It was Dougan's second straight triumph over the Old Dominion battler, and left no doubt in the minds of the patrons that the better man won.

The decision was not unanimous. Referee Charlie Short and Judge Denny Hughes cast their ballots in favor of Dougan, but Ed Thomas, of Baltimore, who went to bat for Judge George King, favored Landers by a shade.

Dougan Takes Four Rounds.

There was none of that boisterous demonstration that greeted the finish of the last Dougan-Landers battle two weeks ago, for the Arkansas flash demonstrated his superiority in four of the rounds. Landers took three and they traded on even terms in another round.

Dougan's vaunted left jab and uppercut, slow in gathering momentum, were propelled at top speed in the seventh and eighth rounds, but it was in the final three minutes that Dougan blasted out his most terrific punches. Told that he needed the final round to win, Dougan, recklessly aggressive, answered his manager's pleas with a thunderous volley of lefts and rights to Landers' face and body, chasing the blond boxer from post to post, and throwing more punches than he had unleashed in any of the eight rounds. Landers appeared worn out, and his right hand that had worked so nicely in giving him the margin on points in first, third and sixth failed to respond.

Dougan's Eye Is Cut.

One of Landers' looping rights caught Leroy underneath his right eye and renewed an old wound in the fifth, but even in the face of this cut, the little Arkansas bulldog rammed his left and right into Lander's face to take the round.

Roddy Davis, in the eight-round semi-windup, was out in front all the way. The victim was Tex Mills, of Norfolk, who proved a grinning clown, and not a particularly good boxer. He grinned and talked more than he fought.

Doug Swetnam took a unanimous decision from Calvin Salp, of Baltimore; Walter Kirkwood won a technical knockout over Spike Kelley, of Flordia, when Referee Short stopped the match in the second round because of a deep cut over the invader's left eye, and Baltimore Harry Groves disposed of Jimmy Gallo, of Panama, in a four-rounder.

Argentina May Default In Davis Cup Tennis

Buenos Aires, April 11 (A.P.).—Argentina, which won the right to represent South America in the American zone finals of the 1933 Davis Cup competition, may not be able to send a team to the United States for the final matches in June.

Three of the five members of the squad today informed the Argentine Tennis Association that they will not be able to spare two months from work for the trip.

BELL UPSET BY FLORIDA YOUTH

Seeded Star's Defeat Feature of North-South Tennis.

PINEHURST, April 11 (A.P.).—Berkeley Bell, of New York, seeded eighth and ranked sixteenth nationally, was eliminated from the North and South tennis tournament today by Charles Harris, of Palm Beach, Fla., a 19-year-old Duke University freshman, who coolly stroked his way to a 3—6, 9—7, 6—4 victory.

Bell's downfall was the only upset in the second day of the tournament that saw all of the other seeded stars, headed by Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, advance through the third round of men's singles play.

The first round of women's singles was also run off with the favored players advancing easily.

Playing in his first major tournament, Harris placed his shots like a veteran and came from behind to win after dropping the first set and finding himself trailing 5—3 in the second.

Sutter Turns in 2 Victories.

Sutter advanced with victories over W. P. Johnson, of Wilmington, Del., 6—1, 6—3, and Charles Kunkle, 6—1, 6—2.

George M. Lott and Lester Stoeffen, who came here from the Houston tournament, will not go into action until tomorrow. J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., and Frank X. Shields, of New York, reached the fourth round yesterday.

Marcel Rainville, the Canadian Davis Cup player, defeated Z. V. Linker, of the University of North Carolina, 6—2, 6—1, and Gregory Mangin, national indoor champion, stroked out a 6—2, 6—1, victory over Bernard Friedman, of Philadelphia.

In the first-round feature matches in the women's single, Miss Eliza Coxe, of Asheville, turned back Mrs. T. H. Avery, of New York, 6—0, 6—1, and Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, scored a 6—2, 6—1, win over Mrs. Cyrus Clark, of Great Neck, Long Island.

YANK ROOKIE IN NO-HIT CONTEST

Devens Sets Yale Nine Down Hitless and Wins, 6-0.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 11 (U.P.).—Charley Devens, former Harvard University right-hander, turned in a no-run, no-hit victory for the New York Yankees over the Yale University team in an exhibition game today. The score was 6 to 0. It was the Yankee's final game of the training series.

Devens struck out fourteen batters.

Babe Ruth again was out of the line-up with a sore throat. The home-run hitter and Bill Dickey, regular catcher, apparently were resting for the opening game of the season.

Corbett and McLarnin To Clash on May 20

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Young Corbett, welterweight champion of the world, will defend his title against Jimmy McLarnin in a 10-round bout at Wrigley Field the night of May 20.

Promoter Jack Doyle made the announcement late today after a conference with Charles (Pop) Foster, the challenger's manager. He said he would learn from Larry White, Corbett's manager, tomorrow when the actual signing would take place.

DODGERS "FARM" THREE.

New York, April 11 (U.P.).—Outfielders Charley Sheerin and Al Cohen and Infielder Dick Siebert have been optioned to the York Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League, Business Manager Dave Driscoll, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, announced today. Outfielder Charley Clements also was sent to York, but with no strings attached.

WILSON BACK TO BISONS.

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox today returned John Wilson, a pitcher, to the Buffalo Club of the International League.

The assault on the peanuts and pop will commence promptly at 11 a. m., when the gates of Griffith Stadium will be flung open for the early customers seeking the pick of the unreserved seats. Four hours later the Nats launch their assault on the American League pennant with the Washington forces commanded by Field Marshal Joe Cronin, the 26-year-old Californian, who is Clark Griffith's own noble experiment of 1933.

When the pomp and panoply is routed off the playing field after Old Glory is duly hoisted to the top of the center-field pole by Vice President Garner, Al Crowder will be sent to the firing line for the Nats to start the real excuse for the whole shebang—the opening ball game.

Even the intrepid baseball reporters, who are given to predictions like a duck is given to water, are a bit timid in forecasting the pitching nominee of Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics, who delights in crossing the pitching dope. In the opening game four years ago, when all the signs including the horoscope pointed to Lefty Grove as the man who would face the Nats, Mack calmly opened fire with a raw recruit since lost in the baseball limbo by the name of Carroll Yerkes. Mr. Yerkes did not start another game for Mack until September.

The name of the great Grove is heard most frequently as the opening selection of Mack, but with the A's manager as silent on the subject as a clam with the lockjaw there are reports that the diminutive left-hander, Tony Freitas, who on occasion has tamed the Nats, is the best bet of all of the A's pitching staff, with nine scoreless innings as his farewell effort of the training season.

Experts Have Nats Second.

Hopes beat high within the eager breasts of Joe Cronin and his new deal Nats on the eve of the annual pennant scramble. Expert opinion throughout the baseball world have consigned them to second place, behind the Yankees. The team that beats the Yankees will win the pennant, is the popular saying, but deep down in his modesty Joe Cronin has paraphrased that statement to read that the team that beats Washington will win the flag.

Owner Griffith and Manager Cronin came out of last winter's trading market with a collection of talent that has stirred fond hopes among Washington fandom which is forced to hark back to the golden days of 1924 and 1925 to gain any pennant balm.

In the pitcher's box and in the outfield Griffith has dealt a new hand to his young manager. When the outfield takes up its posts today at 3 p. m. it will bear all the earmarks of a Dutch treat for Washington fans, who will be confronted with the pleasing view of Herr Heinie Manush, Herr Fred Schulte and Herr Goose Goslin, all very much Dutch and all wielders of potent war clubs.

Marberry and Brown Missing.

Gone are Fred Marberry and Lloyd Brown from the pitching staff that betrayed the hopes of Walter Johnson last season, but in their stead are the two southpaws, Earl Whitehill and Walter Stewart, who with Schulte, Luke Sewell and Goslin represent the meat of the trading that saw Griffith shuffle no less than eight of his players during the off season.

But the man on the spot will be Cronin, youngest manager in the big leageus, who has been intrusted with the direction of a team that has serious designs on the pennant.

Cronin, as playing manager, is a member of the holdover infield of Joe Kuhel, Buddy Myer, Ossie Bluege and Cronin himself, which has repelled the bids of ambitious rookies and is the only stand-pat department on the club.

Cronin, the symbol of flaming youth in baseball, whose career in the big leagues has made the speed of the traditional meteor seem poky, meets in his first managerial test the sagacity of the 70-year-old Connie Mack and his half century in baseball. But Clark Griffith, the man who heads the million-dollar investment here, is willing to gamble on the Golden Gate boy as his directing genius. Shades of Bucky Harris.

Athletics Without Simmons.

When the Athletics take the field it will be a strange formation that will greet the eyes of Washington fans. Al Simmons will be missing from left field. Mule Haas is no more in center and Jimmy Dykes is an absentee at third base. They will be in the uniforms of the Chicago White Sox at St. Louis, sold last winter by Connie Mack for that great all-around performer, Hard Cash.

Mack's outfield line-up is further evidence of the renovation of his championship A's of 1931. In left will be Lou Finney, another Coast League product who bears Mack's emphatic stamp of approval. In center, the vaguely familiar Roger Cramer, who ousted Haas from a regular job late last season, and in right, one Johnson, a Cherokee Injun who hit two homers in the A's last exhibition game and who is keeping Ed Coleman, the spring flash of 1933 out of the line-up.

Okay, Mr. President—and no wild pitches.

Griffith Says Team Is Not Flashy, But Steady; Counts on Improved Play by Young Infielders and Fred Schulte; Outfield Packs Big Punch.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WASHINGTON starts its 1933 American League pennant race this afternoon with both Manager Joe Cronin and President Clark Griffith confident that the Nats will be there or thereabouts at its conclusion. The young pilot has suddenly become ultraconservative and will not admit what probably are his real thoughts. As far as he will go for publication is to say that he regards the season confidently and expects his team to be a flag contender.

President Griffith, however, has gone out on a limb and indicated that he will be greatly disappointed if his boys are not leading the procession at the finish. There is, however, an "if" attached to his prediction—and a necessary one—as it calls for the Nats to have no serious injuries or illness among any of their regulars.

As Griffith views things, the present Washington team has a great mound staff, more punch than in past years, and just as good a defense.

"It's not a flashy team," he says, "but one of those that will go out there and play a steady game day after day, never giving up until the end.

Expects Much From Youngsters.

"What I believe will put us over," he continued, "is that I look for four comparative youngsters — Cronin, Myer, Kuhel and Schulte—to find themselves this season and play their top games. It was having several members reach their peak at one and the same time which gave us our pennants in 1924 and 1925 and I have a hunch this will be the case this year.

"Yes, I know that Cronin was voted 'most valuable' in 1930, but he is still young and can be even better than he was then. Schulte never developed properly with the Browns and still can be classed as a youngster. As to Myer and Kuhel, I predict that they will be the most improved players in the league this year. Let this four travel on high throughout and we'll be having a world's series here next October."

In case rain prevents today's game, the entire opening day program will be held over until tomorrow, the Washington Club announces.

Every possible effort will be made to play today. The infield covering was spread out last night, and, if it is not actually raining at game time, the contest will be staged.

"Hard times have reduced a lot o' things, but they haven't taken any ounces out of them bats," remarked General Alvin Crowder yesterday as he warmed up in preparation for his start this afternoon against the Athletics.

This comment should not be taken as a sign that the good general has cold feet or anything like that, but it was merely his way of saying that pitchers have got to pitch to win ball games. "I'm ready, though," he declared.

Crowder Confident Pitcher.

Crowder, who won more games last season than any other flinger in the junior circuit, did not fare exceptionally well against his foes of today, winning but two of six decisions, but he is chock full of confidence that this is another year and that things will be different. And, needless to say, with President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and other leaders of the Nation on hand—not to mention about 29,000 cash customers—he'll be out there battling.

Behind him, Crowder will have what many, including President Clark Griffith, think is the best team—on paper, at least—that Washington has ever had. Although two members of the infield will be slightly handicapped by injuries, Manager-Shortstop Joe Cronin sporting a stiffened finger on his left hand and Third Baseman Ossie Bluege being slightly slowed up because of a bunged-up left ankle, the infield still is a great one. Buddy Myer, at second, and Joe Kuhel, at first, give indications of being on the way to really great seasons.

And that outfield of Heinie Manush, Fred Schulte and Goose Goslin promises plenty of punch and good fielding, although, perhaps, not up to the standard of the past few seasons when Sammy West almost daily contributed the kind of catches that fans in other cities read about but very seldom saw.

Behind the bat is Luke Sewell, undoubtedly just as good a catcher as was Roy Spencer and perhaps just as good a hitter.

Add to this talent the fact that Cronin has his men eating, sleeping and thinking baseball, that there is a spirit of friendship and cooperation among the players, with not a grouch among a carload, and that all are keyed to a fighting pitch, and one easily can see that the Nats are going to be a mighty hard team to stop, barring too frequent visits of the injury jinx.

Players Do Not Fear Yankees.

The fact that all of the scribes are picking the Yankees to repeat is not worrying the Nats any and Al Schacht voiced the general feeling among the players yesterday by saying: "This scrap is going to be fought

Mat Body to Recognize Savoldi-George Victor

Boston, April 11 (A.P.).—After indorsing the Illinois Athletic Association's moratorium on wrestling, President Thomas Reardon of the American Wrestling Association tonight said his organization would recognize the winner of an Ed George-Joe Savoldi match as the world champion.

Pennsylvania Body To Name Mat Champ

Philadelphia, April 11 (A.P.).—The State Athletic Commission today announced a hearing would be held next Wednesday to decide who is to be recognized in Pennsylvania as the world's champion wrestler.

Both Jim Londos, who has been recognized in Pennsylvania as the titleholder, and Joe Savoldi, of Chicago, who claims the championship as a result of their Chicago encounter, have been requested to attend.

The Pennsylvania Commission has asked the Illinois Commission for a transcript of the testimony of the hearing held in Chicago on the Londos-Savoldi bout.

DERBY PREP AT LEXINGTON IS CAPTURED BY WARREN JR.

Calumet Colt 4-Length Winner

Rewards at $35.80; Red Whisk, 3 to 5, Is Second.

Jockey McCrossen Is Banned After Second Race.

LEXINGTON RACE TRACK, Ky., April 11 (A.P.).—Five Kentucky Derby candidates paraded for their first appearance under silks this year in the Strollers Purse, run over the Futurity Course here today. It was a prep for the big race on May 6, and while the colts were not ready for a long journey they gave plenty of evidence that they will be in fit condition when the big race is run.

The Calumet Farm's Warren, jr., who has not performed since July 1 last year, returned to the races in splendid condition and he simply tow-roped his field for speed, leading home Charley Van Meter's Red Whisk, which is one of the well-played horses in future book. Red Roamer finished third.

Foul Claim Not Allowed.

Red Whisk has been working well and was made a favorite at 3 to 5, but he never really threatened at any part of the journey. Willie Garner, who rode Red Whisk, lodged a claim of foul against the winner, but the stewards quickly O. K'd the result.

Warren, jr., got away flying with Red Whisk, and the crowd thought it would be a head-and-head race, but they were quickly disappointed, for Warren, jr., taking the bit in his teeth, opened a two-length lead. Both colts were going easy as they swung around the turn and in the run up the hill McCrossen eased back Warren, jr., giving him a breathing spell, and then Red Whisk closed some ground on the leader. However, when the field straightened out for the run to the wire, Warren, jr., easily drew out again to win by four lengths in 1:13 2-5. Red Whisk beat Red Roamer half a length for place. The winner paid $35.80.

First Race Easy for Jacobs Ladder.

Mud larks had their inning here today. The heavy rain of early morning converted the track into a sea of mud. Jacob's Ladder, by St. James, simply made a show of his field in the opening event, a dash over the Futurity Course. He got away on top and R. Finnerty, who had the mount, let his horse breeze along, but in the final three-sixteenths Jacob's Ladder drew out and won galloping by five lengths. Jim Macaw, who tired chasing the pace maker, lasted to save the place money by a head over Southland Toy. The winner paid $6.08.

Hug Again, a fine looking miss by Stimulus—Affection, proved a real mud runner by copping the baby race, second on the card. It was a dash of 4 furlongs and the little lady just towroped her field and paid her backers $11.54 for a $2 ticket. The Greentree Stable's Courland finished second, three lengths back of the winner. Betty Rejoice was third. The time was 0:51.

McCrossen Draws Ban Of Five Days.

There was considerable rough riding in this race, in which Panorama was bothered and lost his rider. Jockey C. McCrossen, who had the mount on Hug Again, the winner, was suspended for five days by the stewards for crossing the field too sharply just after the start.

Chiclero, the 7-year-old son of Chicle, was in a running mood today and copped the long end of the purse in the seventh race. He paid $12.74 for a $2 ticket. Chiclero lay off the early speed to the last half mile and then rushed into lead, winning by two lengths. Oggyia beat Drastic Water three lengths for the place.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: LEXINGTON, KY., APRIL 12.

Only three more days here and then I shift up to the Graw. Sent Mike up tonight and he promises to dig me up some hot things which I will pass along to you. Despite the change in track conditions, my selections didn't do so bad today. Jacobs Ladder and Chiclero were the ones to step down for the Bennings interests and the $12.74 mutuel on the latter was indeed surprising. Save the main dough for Maryland, but don't let these get away from you. BILL.

FIRST RACE—LOYAL LOUISE was fairly reliable in Florida. Struck a mean stride near the final days of the campaign and seems as good a pick as anything that goes postward in this field. SCOTLAND BEAUTY to place. The off track may make JEFF O'NEIL a surprise money proposition.

SECOND RACE—FIRE NECK ran here the other day and showed a good effort. Did fair in Florida and may use this race to escape the maiden ranks. COTTON CLUB and BRAEDEL for the place and show.

THIRD RACE—RUCKUS will be at home in the going and, with a race here under the saddle cloth, might be hard to beat. PRINCESS PERI will be the one to cause trouble, if any. IL TROVATORE for the show end.

FOURTH RACE—ABE FURST shipped well from New Orleans where his form was excellent. See no reason why the stable should make mistakes. IRFANEH and LONELL for the other money positions.

FIFTH RACE—GENTEEL LADY did so well the other day that I don't see how she can miss in a field of this sort. Looks like a winning favorite. LUSTY is on edge and dangerous. BETTY WEE to show.

SIXTH RACE—LITTLE CONNELLY turned in one victory at this course and will be suited by conditions tomorrow. May be sent right back for the big dough. If he misses, the purse may go to FLYING DERE with NITUMA a possibility.

SEVENTH RACE—The mud moves HAMBURGER JIM up several notches and I look for him to take care of these. UNCLE MATT is capable of pressing the top fellow. The secret in the race may be SALLY IRENE.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Girls Present Trophy

Claire Boekmoff, captain of the girls' basket ball team at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, will present the A. A. U. silver trophy won by the team in The Washington Post basket ball tournament last week to the school, at assembly tomorrow morning. Principal Thomas W. Pyle will receive the cup.

Margaret Courtney, who managed the team for two years, will preside and give a resume of the season's work. Each member of the team has already received a medal from the A. A. U. and will receive a certificate and letter tomorrow. Members of the team are Elsie Winkler, Lois Molyneaux, Lillian Lee, Rosemary Hazzard, Norma Curtis, Helen Wallace, Joan Daskam, Doris Ryon and Margaret Springer.

Manor Club Women List 12 Golf Events

An attractive list of twelve events are on the spring and early summer schedule for women at Manor Club, which was announced yesterday by Mrs. L. G. Pray, charman of the tournament committee. The schedule carries through until the last of June.

Events listed are as follows: April 13, miniature tournament; 20, White Elephant; 27, Dirty Dozen; May 4, miniature tournament; 11, lame duck; 18, medal handicap tournament; 25, minature tournament; June 1, blind bogey; 8, medal handicap tournament; 15; miniature; 22, Scotch foursome; 29, hens and chickens tournament.

EPISCOPAL NETMEN WIN.

Episcopal High School defeated St. Alban's by a score of 6-1 in its first tennis match of the season yesterday at St. Alban's. A. Henderson's victory over Swift in the No. 1 singles saved the losers from a shutout. All of the matches were closely contested, several going to deuce before a decision was reached.

A. Henderson (S. A.) defeated Swift, 4—6, 6—0, 6—3; Lay defeated C. Carver, 6—3, 6—0; Williams defeated McGee, 6—6, 6—3, 6—0; Basnin defeated Carver, 6—3, 6—1, 6—3; Christian defeated Pretleigh, 5—7, 6—4, 6—2; Swift and Lay defeated A. Carver and C. Carver, 6—3, 6—2; Williams and Dawson defeated Phillips and Brand, 6—1, 6—2.

they have a chance to do it. Meanwhile improvement has been manifest by all the other clubs, notably the Chicago White Sox, whose one-man wrecking crew—Aloysius Simmons—is genuinely feared by one and all.

Two of the best prospects for sensational pitching duels tomorrow will pit Dizzy Dean, of the Cardinals, against Lon Warneke, of the Cubs, at Chicago, while Al Crowder, of the Nationals, tackles either George Earnshaw or Lefty Grove, of the Athletics, in Washington.

The Yankees will start their talented southpaw, Vernon Gomes, against the Red Sox for the opening move of their campaign for pennant No. 8 of the postwar era. The world champions may be creaking in some spots, but they still have baseball's biggest and best showman, the greatest of all slugging duets in Ruth and Gehrig and an extraordinary wealth of reserve power.

Let the welkin and the basehits ring out!

UNIONISTS PLAY SUNDAY.

Defeated in their opening two games, the Federal Unionists will strive to enter the 1933 win column Sunday at 3 p. m. when they meet the Fairfax Station Diamonders on the latter's field. Manager Mattare has ordered a general practice for all candidates tomorrow at 5 p. m. on the East Ellipse Field.

POST NINE WINNER.

GAITHERSBURG SCHEDULED.

The Gaithersburg Aces will meet the Soldier's nine Sunday on the former's field. The Aces have booked a game with the Bethesda Firemen for April 23.

FREDERICK NINE BOOKING.

The Frederick A. C. is anxious to arrange a game with a strong unlimited team for Sunday. Call manager Geis, at Georgia 0661, between 7 and 8 o'clock.

BOWIE A. C. IN FIELD.

Bowie A. C., former champion of Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, has reorganized for the season and is seeking games with strong unlimited teams. Call Manager Ed Dorsey at Bowie 55.

DIXIE JUNIORS PRACTICE.

Dixie Polish Juniors will drill today at 3:30 o'clock on Diamond No. 4 in preparation for Sunday's doubleheader. The Park A. C. will be met at 1 o'clock and Maryland Aces at 3 o'clock. Both games will be played at Camp Meigs.

Marcey, Wilson, Terry, Wise, Roper and Watts will roll for the Lumbermen, while Star's line-up will comprise Hurd, Hoffman, Davidson, Shanklin, Atwood and Park.

Edith Orpin gathered in the individual honors in the Internal Revenue Ladies League at Columbia with a game of 132 and 368 set. Stenographic rolled a 552 game and 1,638 set.

In the Washington Ladies League at Columbia, Catherine Hiser shared honors with Ruth Rothgeb, the former turning in a 358 set and the latter a 132 game. Bee Ques 540 and 1,550 were high.

Sholl's and Grays Play For Community Crown

Sholl's Cafe, recently crowned District A. A. U. champions in The Washington Post tournament, will open a three-game series with the United Typewriter Grays for the championship of the Community Center League tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Central High School.

Sholl's won the honors in section A, and the Grays finished second to Delaware and Hudson in section B, but managed to win the odd-game in a sectional play-off for the title.

A. A. U. Ring and Mat Entry Blanks Ready

Entry blanks for both the District A. A. U. wrestling championships and Junior Golden Glove boxing tournament have been distributed to the playground department, high schools, and various boys clubs of the city, Charles Fyfe, director of the boys club which will be the scene of the contests, announced last night.

Eight titles will be awarded in wrestling and as many more in the boxing tournament. An entrance fee of 50 cents is exacted of mat performers, but there is none for the boxing. Wrestling will be held at the club April 18 and 20, and boxing, May 3 and 5.

Easter Luck, 104-1, Winner at Tanforan

San Bruno, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—Easter Luck, 3-year-old filly, a 104-to-1 shot, won the first race at Tanforan today. Holders of $2 first-place options received $209.

It was Easter Luck's first victory in seventeen starts. She is owned by M J. Haynes and was ridden by J. Flynn. Taking an early lead, she never was in danger.

Another long shot registered in the second race when Fuss Budget, finishing second, paid $81.40 on place tickets and $38.60 for show. Choice Caller won.

The feature race, the Richmond purse for $500, was won by Cold Wave, an R. Buck entry ridden by W. D. Wright. Lamp Black was second, and Tom Proctor third. The time was 1:11 for the A. B. Spreckles course.

MERRICK BOXERS SCORE.

League Plans For Season Opening

Walter Johnson Aids Capital City Loop at First Game.

WALTER JOHNSON, former manager of the Washington team and idol of thousands of baseball players, will be on hand to help the Capital City League officially inaugurate its 1933 pennant race, President Richard S. Tennyson announced last night. The opening game will be played at Griffith Stadium under the lights the night of May 10. The following Sunday the remainder of the unlimited teams swing into action.

Departing from the usual custom of throwing out the first ball, Johnson will get out on the mound and heave the first pitch of the game.

Much interest is manifest in the loop this season. Both The Post and Municipal Playground Department, cosponsors of the organization, are doing everything within their power to assure a successful year.

Many Features Planned.

The opening game will be played in conjunction with the George Washington-Salem College game. An evening crowded with entertainment is planned. The George Washington University Band will lead the march to the flagpole for flag-raising ceremonies and render music between innings.

A rapidly diminishing supply of player contracts is assurance that team managers are losing no time in lining up their clubs. Contracts and franchise fee must be submitted to Bernard J. McCarthy, secretary, at the meeting on May 1.

Teams in the younger classes, from senior on down, are urged to procure blanks from McCarthy at Room 313, District Building, which will save them the trouble of presenting birth certificates in verifying players' ages. The league will check up on players' ages through the medium of its new plan.

Swinhaven in Trial For Derby at Graw

Havre de Grace, Md., April 11 (U. P.).—A practice run of 6 furlongs in 1:21 made by P. A. Markey's Swinhaven was the best of the workouts made by Kentucky Derby candidates today. Swinhaven made the fractions evenly and was breezing at the end.

Adolphe Pons' Swivel covered a mile in 1:42 3-5 handily. The Swift and Sure filly has grown considerably over the winter and was eager to run at the end of her eight-panel trial.

The Glen Riddle Farm's War Glory and War Stripes were both sent a mile, which they covered in 1:42 2-5, together. The Man o' War colts were breezing at the finish and will be seen under silks early in the meeting.

The track was lightning fast.

Fine Derby Workout Shown by Charley O.

Louisville, Ky., April 11 (A.P.).—Training activities at Churchill Downs were given another setback today as a cold rain fell throughout the morning.

The adverse conditions, however, failed to interfere with the Derby prep of Charley O., the R. M. Eastman Estate's hope for the Kentucky Derby to be run here May 6. Charley O. showed a pronounced liking for the sloppy going and stepped a quarter in 0:25, three-eighths in 0:38 1-5, half in 0:51 3-5, five-eighths in 1:04 2-5 and three-quarters in 1:18 2-5.

Head Play, another Derby eligible, galloped 2 miles. Flying Cadet and Shepherd Boy also were limited to long gallops. Fair Rochester, Lon Jones & Son candidate, took his exercise under the sheds.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT will be in front of the microphone twice today. His first appearance will be this morning, when he will speak on the Pan-American program (11 o'clock, WJSV and WMAL).

The President is also expected to throw out the first ball at the opening baseball game this afternoon between Washington and Philadelphia. (WJSV, 2:45 o'clock). The entire game will be broadcast.

The Rollickers' Quartet had a difficult time getting into the studio on Tuesday for their usual broadcast. They all had a two-days' growth of beard and were not recognized by the man who guards the entrance on the ground floor. "Scram," said the attendant. "No panhandlers allowed in the studios."

It took Victor Hall, the manager of the Rollickers, some time to explain that they were letting their beards grow for a motion picture short they are making, entitled, "Two Thousand Cheers in the Chain Gang."

Allyn Joslyn admits he is a tippler. That is because he plays the tipple, "a sort of ukulele."

The Federal Radio Commission yesterday granted Station WJSV an experimental license to test out the new antenna with which it is hoped interference may be prevented with the Naval Research Laboratory. This includes the hours from midnight to 6:30 o'clock in the morning in addition to the regular broadcasting hours.

Station WJSV applied for a 60-day permit, but the commission only allowed them until 3 a. m. May 1, which is the day the station has been ordered off the air.

THE following explanation is made by Paul White, general press representative of Columbia, with regard to the discrepancy between programs sent out by Columbia from New York and WJSV in Washington:

"The undersigned, whether or not a resourceful individual, has checked into both complaints made in your recent column regarding misinformation on Columbia programs.

"You understand, of course, that the publicity department is always restricted by information supplied it either through the commercial program or sustaining program channels. In the case of "The Inside Story" of last night we first were told some three weeks ago that Ringling and Fellows would be the guests. Ten days ago, however, we were advised that Weber and Fields would supplant them. Accordingly, we sent a correction at that time and I am at a loss to understand why this correction was overlooked.

"In the other case, much the same thing happened. Our first word from Eugene Clute, who has arranged the Architectural Series, was that Joseph Urban would speak. He later informed us that the speaker would be Ezra Winter, but this second bit of information probably reached WJSV too late for correction. As you know, however, Mr. Winter disappointed us and the period was taken over by Mr. Clute himself. We had not been advised of this sufficiently far in advance to send a correction to the papers.

"As a matter of fact, considering the number of programs broadcast from here daily—and you probably know we frequently have three or four programs going over as many different networks at the same time—I believe our record of accuracy is very high. I doubt whether there is even as much as a 1 per cent margin of error."

Phillips H. Lord, "Seth Parker" of Jonesport, Me., is going to abandon the radio studios for twelve months of blue waters.

Lord will head for Morocco from New York by way of the Azores. Other stops are planned in Cairo, Ceylon, Rangoon, Siam, Nicobar Island, Singapore, Borneo, Island of Bali, Solomon Islands and Fiji Islands.

Radio Joe's program tonight will be dedicated to the National Symphony Orchestra (WMAL, 7:30 o'clock). Dr. Hans Kindler will speak and Michael Weiner, violinist, and Sol Sax, pianist, will participate in the program.

Robert McCoy, appearing in "The Desert Song" at Loew's Fox Theater this week, will be guest star.

"THE GONDOLIERS," one of the most famous of Gilbert and Sullivan light operas, will be presented by Channon Collinge as the first in a new series of weekly light opera gems tonight (WJSV, 8 o'clock). . . . Dr. Harlan True Stetson, director of the Perkins Observatory, will describe the sun's effect upon radio reception, the weather, plant and animal life, and its possible ultimate effect on the economic cycle, when he speaks over a WJZ network (but not WMAL) at 7:45 o'clock tonight. . . . Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Century of Progress Exposition, speaking in the first of a series of Wednesday programs dealing with the fair to open in Chicago on June 1, will be heard tonight at 10:30 o'clock over WMAL. . . . Rosina Lhevinne, pianist, and her husband, Josef Lhevinne, will play Mozart's Concerto for two pianos in E flat major. A symphony orchestra conducted by Frank Black will play a selection from Handel's "Fireworks" suite (WRC, 9:30 p. m.). . . . A dramatization of Thomas Bailey Aldrich's autobiographical novel, "The Story of a Bad Boy," will bring the American School of the Air history class to its conclusion for the present term today (WJSV, 2:15 p. m.) . . . A program of Easter music features the Westminster Choir's weekly concert over WMAL today at 2:30 p. m.

Rose McClendon, negro actress, now costarred with Juano Hernandez in Sunday night "John Henry" broadcasts, made her theatrical debut in one of New York's oldest and strangest institutions—Butler Davenport's Bramhall Theater.

Because no admission is charged at the Bramhall, the salaries of the players remain in a high state of uncertainty through the run of any play, but Miss McClendon made out pretty well for her first engagement. She received $10 a week.

BERNICE CLAIRE, motion picture and musical comedy star, will be heard in a new series of programs. Miss Claire, who made her Broadway debut in "The Desert Song," and later carried the leading feminine role in the film production of the stage show, will be heard over WJZ networks (but not WMAL) at 11:15 o'clock tonight.

A native of Oakland, Calif., where she was educated, Miss Claire began her theatrical and movie career while still in her 'teens.

Connie, Martha and Vet Boswell are back in New York after a nine-weeks' theater tour, which covered 6,000 miles, 126 appearances and 600 songs. It included, of course, "Noo Awlins" and a Gulf Coast sun-tan.

Back in Manhattan, Vet succumbed to a cold, and Connie did a solo for their network return. She recalled their New York debut, when, after touring cross-country for a guest appearance, the trio was stricken with the flu. They met their microphone engagement with high temperatures, went tearfully to bed for two weeks, and woke up to find themselves stars.

The 150th anniversary of the proclamation of peace which formally ended the American Revolution in 1783 will be observed with an address by Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., of New York, this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock (WMAL).

Representative Kent E. Keller, of Illinois, will speak on the subject of unemployment. The title of his address is "The Right to Work" (WRC), 4:30 p. m.

Lewis T. Tune, 70, Wed to Widow in St. Louis

The marriage of Lewis T. Tune, 70, a former employe of the seed loan division, Agriculture Department, to Mrs. Ruth Waldeck, of St. Louis, a widow, on Monday, was revealed yesterday in an Associated Press dispatch.

Mr. Tune served as a confidential agent in the seed loan office from March, 1931, until January of this year. Prior to this position, Mr. Tune was the St. Louis manager for a national credit rating organization. He had recently recovered from an infected foot. He was a lifelong bachelor until his marriage.

Atlas Producers Get Loubat Prize

Drs. Paullin and Wright Receive $1,000 Award for History Work.

Dr. Charles O. Paullin, of 1718 N street northwest, historical research worker at the Carnegie Institution, and Dr. John Kirtland Wright, of New York, have been awarded the Loubat prize of $1,000 by Columbia University for their production of the "Atlas of Historical Geography of the United States."

The prize is conferred at the end of every succeeding five-year period for "the best work printed and published in the English language in the history, geography, ethnology, philology or numismatics of North America."

The work of Dr. Paullin and Dr. Wright, issued jointly by the Carnegie Institution and the National Geographic Society in 1932, is described by the jury of award as "the first major historical atlas of the United States and probably the most comprehensive study of its kind yet published for any country."

Mercersburg Academy Honors 2 Capital Boys

Two Washington boys were among ten members of the graduating class of Mercersburg Academy who have been initiated into the Cum Laude Society, honorary preparatory school scholastic society.

They are Henry F. Broadbent, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Broadbent, of 2107 G street northwest, and Joseph Kiernan, son of Mrs. Helen C. Kiernan-Vasa, of 1213 Michigan avenue northeast.

Portrait Is Presented Of Julia C. Lathrop

A portrait of Julia C. Lathrop, first chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, was presented to the bureau Monday afternoon by Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, wife of Justice Brandeis, of the Supreme Court.

The informal ceremony was attended by members of the bureau staff and friends of Miss Lathrop and was held in commemoration of the twenty-first anniversary of the creation of the bureau. Miss Grace Abbott, who succeeded Miss Lathrop as chief of the bureau in 1921, presided.

Fire Beside His Head Fails to Wake Sleeper

Clovis, N. Mex., April 11 (A.P.).—Roscoe Starners is a sound sleeper.

Flames burned a hole in a wall only a few feet from his head without awakening him. He was still asleep when firemen entered his house and brought the blaze under control.

Zunis Ask Beer Ban, Fearing Wrath of Gods

Gallup, N. Mex., April 11 (A.P.).—Old tribesmen of the Zunis fear beer might arouse the wrath of the Zuni gods.

Today they asked G. A. Trotter, superintendent, to keep the new 3.2 beer off the reservation. Zuni religion bans the drinking of alcohol in any form.

Capital Postoffice Business Booms

Receipts 53.65 Per Cent Up Over '32 Period; Leads 50 Cities.

(Associated Press.)

Business boomed in the Washington postoffice last month as a result of the banking situation. A 53.65 per cent increase in receipts over March, 1932, was attributed yesterday by officials to mail shipments of money by the Treasury to supply banks which needed currency. The Capital led a list of 50 selected cities in the rate of gain.

Richmond, Va., was next, with 9.67 per cent.

The 50 cities aggregated $24,421,916, compared with $22,559,308 the previous month, and $26,676,802 for March, 1932.

Baltimore's receipts were $423,834, a decrease of 6.78 per cent; Atlanta's $297,936, a decrease of 3.43 per cent; New Orleans' $172,089, a decrease of 11.30 per cent; Richmond's $164,686, an increase of 9.67 per cent, the second largest of the six increases; Memphis' $140,744, a decrease of 7.02 per cent; Nashville's $125,373, a decrease of 7.18 per cent, and Jacksonville's $76,702, an increase of 3.98 per cent.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

YOUNG flatfish look much like other small fish, their eyes and mouth being in the orthodox positions. It swims in ordinary fashion for a time, but later develops a tendency to swim on one side. At this point in its development the eye on the under side begins to move around to the top side, giving finally a fish with both eyes on th same side of its head. The movement of the eye is astounding in its speed, one observer finding that in three days the eye of a winter flounder moved 90 degrees from its original position—which in a human would be comparable to one eye or the other moving to a point just behind the ear.

For purposes of measuring Federal highways, the granite stone at Washington, D. C., on the south front of the White House grounds is simply nowhere. It is the place used as a starting point for measuring highway distances from Washington.

The St. Augustine house shown above is the only building that was not destroyed when Drake sacked the city in 1586. As the sole surviving structure, it has been under four flags—the Spanish, French, English and American.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

LETTERS FROM A GOVERNMENT FORESTRY CAMP.

(No. 1)

DEAR GUS:

Well, here I am in President Roosevelt's First Aid to the Jobless Army, otherwise known as the Tree Chopping Zouaves, and I thought I would drop you a few lines to let all the folks know how goes it. We are in a camp here just like we was rehearsing for another war, only the second lieutenants are scarcer. I would be suspicious that we was going to be sent to France again if it wasn't for the rising hours. They get us up at 5 a. m., which is a violation of war hours.

• • • •

Just now they are teaching us to eat regularly. This is pretty hard, after you have been out of practice so long. Tomorrow they begin training us not to faint when somebody comes along and says, "Hey, you! I got a job for you do do."

• • • •

A little later they will give us educational talks on hatchets, to be followed by instructions in manicuring our standing forests, and then we will, as I understand it, be sent into the woods and told not to shirk on our back swing.

• • • •

WELL, as long as they don't put me to work weeding out California redwoods I will try not to squawk, but something tells me that this job is not going to be any too soft. The Government promised to put us to work, and before we have been in the woods very long I guess we will know it wasn't fooling.

• • • •

Personally, the only time I ever had an ax in my hand was in an Indian massacre tableau in a parish entertainment. My tree-cutting experience is strictly zero and all I hope is that they give me a big handicap.

• • • •

Most of the boys here are like me, and all we are hoping is that we will be sent to some forest where the trees are young and tender, and we can do the work quickly. It would be just my luck, though, to find myself in a squad sent to a forest full of full-grown sweet gum.

• • • •

THE pay here is only $1 a day, which is not so bad when you stop to think that it is the same as a raise of $6 a week over what I have been getting. Out of that we are supposed to care for our dependents. I figure that we will be lucky at the end of each week if we don't owe the Government money on the hatchets.

• • • •

Still I am not kicking. It gives me a place to sleep, regular meals, a lot of fresh air and a swell chance to study up on the habits of tree toads and chickadees. It will also give me a chance to get a sun tan that those Palm Beach millionaires would have to pay a few thousand dollars for and still not get their money's worth.

• • • •

Well, I will write you again in a day or two and keep you informed. Watch for my letters.

Yours truly, EDDIE.

P. S.—I just seen a lot of funny looking things, which they say is bucksaws. I wonder what they are going to do with them.

SIMPLIFYING BASEBALL.

Beer will be sold in the baseball parks this year, and when an umpire gets struck by something he will know it is not a soda pop bottle.

Well, President Roosevelt has made good on his promise of a two-keg garage.

NAMING OF 2 LOCAL COMMISSIONERS IS SEEN WITHIN WEEK

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

President Roosevelt is expected to name within a week two of the three new men he will appoint as District Commissioners. The third man will be selected soon thereafter, unless present plans are unexpectedly changed.

The President has not, it was said on good authority yesterday, made his selections for the posts of civilian Commissioners but the extraordinary field of candidates has been steadily cut down in the last few weeks until at present only three or four persons are believed to be in the running.

Of those whose names have been mentioned Malcolm McConihe, Melvin C. Hazen and Ernest G. Walker are regarded in local political circles as remaining outstanding candidates, although there are some nationally influential persons who are working desperately to persuade the Chief Executive to name one or two others whose names they have been trying hard to keep carefully under cover.

Costello Is Summoned.

Imminence of action in the local situation was indicated yesterday when President Roosevelt called John F. Costello, District Democratic national committeeman, and John B. Colpoys, chairman of the District Democratic central committee, into conference at the White House. It was the first time the President has dealt directly with local political matters, although these questions have frequently been advanced to his attention by national figures who have called on him ostensibly for other purposes.

Postmaster General James Farley undoubtedly will be consulted by the President about selections, as will also Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee. Senator King has refused to forward the candidacy of any individual.

Apparently some of those whose supporters had high hopes for them are absolutely out of the picture. Among these is said to be Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, retired, formerly chief of police of the District. Gen. Glassford's supporters apparently recently gave up hopes of having him named Commiaisoner and since have been advancing his name for various national jobs.

Glassford Seems Out.

One of those for which he was put forward by an important newspaper publisher was command of the reforestation army which the Government now is enlisting, but that "boom" was short-lived because the President almost immediately picked another for the post.

Another post which admirers of the popular retired general have sought for him has been command of a Nation-wide series of camps for unemployed youths who would be maintained at Government expense. His name also has been suggested for an important post in connection with development of the Tennessee Valley, although for none of these posts has Gen. Glassford been an avowed candidate.

Another who seems definitely to have been eliminated is Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, District Democratic national committeewoman. Mrs. Harriman's name was actively advanced by several of her influential friends. Her opponents, however, protested that she had deserted the prosaic District job in the heat of the campaign to indulge in the more spectacular activity of trying to elect "Sonny" Whitney, Long Island millionaire horseman, to the seat in the House to which Representative Robert Low Bacon, Republican, was reelected. Mrs. Harriman, who is popular in the National Capital, also has been accused of having been unfriendly to Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy both before and after he was nominated at Chicago.

Women's Chances Fade.

Elimination of Mrs. Harriman from the list of likely candidates would seem also to eliminate from consideration other women whose names have been taken to the White House by friends.

Several senators are actively at work in behalf of one or another candidate for Commissioner or some other local post. Among these is said to be Senator Huey Long (Democrat), of Louisiana, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader.

There has been some discussion in the past of a thorough-going reorganization of the District government, but the decision of the President to name new Commissioners at this time indicates that the reorganization program will be laid aside for awhile, although there are indications that the President has been deeply impressed by the advice of some of those close to him who are thoroughly familiar with the unwieldy present arrangement. When he will name a new Engineer Commissioner, to fill in pending reorganization, has not been indicated so far as can be learned.

Aid at Soldiers Home Injured in Auto Crash

Injured when his car was struck by an oil truck on the Baltimore pike, near Beltsville, Md., early yesterday, William H. Wheeler, 63-year-old employe of Soldiers Home, is in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital, with a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

He was brought to the hospital by a passing motorist, who extricated him from his wrecked machine. His condition last night was said to be "about the same."

Woman Asks Release Of $48,000 Rum Ship

MRS. EDWARDO BALTUFF HARRIS, with her three children, Florence, 10; Catherine, 15; and Sarah Jane, 13; here to petition the courts to release the 48-foot sloop Zev confiscated by Federal authorities.

Mother and Three Girls Picked Beans in West to Finance Fight.

A feminine quartet whose eyes are as blue as the Pacific from whose shores they hail put before the District court yesterday one of the few admiralty questions it has faced in decades.

Plucking beans underneath a broiling sun in the Pacific Northwest, the quartet gathered money enough to buy a discarded auto and trekked across the continent to go to the mat with the Government for the release of the $48,000 rum yacht Zev, impounded in Puget Sound.

Seated at her portable typewriter, Mrs. Edwardo Baltuff Harris, former wife of John Baltuff, told a Post reporter of her hopes to get back the expensive boat so that her three healthy and pretty girls may be educated.

Mrs. Harris is locking legal horns with the Government without benefit of attorney. She spent long hours in a Tacoma, Wash., public library scanning tomes on admiralty and says that law is "simple if you look at it just as common sense and justice."

The little woman is the leader of her brood not only through love, but through admiration. As she recites impressive legal phrases, Catherine, 15; Sarah Jane, 13, and Florence, 10, look on with health-flushed faces and register enthusiastic approval.

Mrs. Harris said she was divorced from Baltuff in 1926. A spirit of amity exists between herself and her former mate, she says, and he is anxious that she and their children be provided for.

In 1931, Mrs. Harris said she married her present husband here in the District. He is a member of a "well known Southern family," she declared, but severed company from her when his health made it impracticable for economic reasons to try to support his acquired family.

The presence of Mrs. Harris and her aims become known only yesterday when she presented herself at the courthouse, but the quartet has been here six weeks. They are living in quarters at 620 Sixth street northwest and the three girls are already getting "high marks" in nearby schools, though they were behind their classes when they arrived in the Capital.

Mrs. Harris filed her brief in District Supreme Court yesterday. Preliminary action on her appeal for release of the impounded vessel is not expected before next week.

CITY HEADS ORDER 2 STREET PROJECTS

Three Sewer Contracts Let; School Work Is Provided at Blue Plains.

Improvement of two streets was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners upon petition of abutting property owners. Concrete curbing and gutters and asphaltic surface were ordered on Delafield place northwest, Fourteenth street to Piney Branch road, and on Gallatin street northwest, between Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road.

A contract for the construction of additional school facilities at the Industrial Home School for Colored Children at Blue Plains, D. C., was awarded to John Hunt, of Washington, on a low bid of $3,940.

Three sewer contracts were awarded to the J. B. McCrary Co., Atlanta. They are: New York avenue replacement sewer, between North Capitol and First street northwest, $3,795.92; South Dakota avenue stormwater sewer, between Webster and Allison streets northeast, $1,523.47; Michigan avenue valley stormwater sewer, section 9, $40,912.87.

The Potomac Construction Co., Washington, was awarded a contract to build a steel girder bridge in line with Deane avenue northeast, at Forty-ninth street, on a low bid of $6,334.60.

WHITE HOUSE CALLS YOUTH TO EGG FETE

Easter Monday to Be Gala Day for Children Guests of Roosevelts.

The click of brilliantly colored eggs, propelled by thousands of exuberant children, will again be heard on the White House lawn on Easter Monday.

From 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. the bowery grounds of the Executive Mansion will echo to the joyous shouts of youngsters going through the egg-rolling rites and generally celebrating the advent of the Easter Bunny.

Youth will be the only Annie Oakley for admission to the White House grounds during the Easter cavorting. Children 10 years and under will be admitted without questions, but adults must accompany a child to enter.

At 3:30 the ban on unaccompanied adults will be lifted and the Marine Band will give an hour-and-a-half concert. After the band performance, the grounds will be cleared and the gates closed.

Cowles to Address New York Masons.

BEER DEMAND FALLS; OFF-SALE APPLICANT TAKES COURT ACTION

More Than 900 Licenses Now Granted; Walter Reed Permit Given.

A lessening in the feverish demand for beer yesterday brought the brew situation toward normalcy, although the bulk of expected shipments from Milwaukee, St. Louis and other distant brewing points did not materialize.

The beverage permits board caught up with the superintendent of licenses' office for the first time since the city's beer act became effective. More than 900 licenses had been granted out of about 1,500 applications.

Complaints as to the permissibility of selling beer in residential sections were heard in one applicant's going to court and drew comment from District committee members.

Palmisano Gives View.

Representative Palmisano, of Maryland, author of the District beer bill, wrote the District Commissioners that he thought no restrictions should be placed on the purveying of lager in residential sections.

This view was echoed by Representatives Black, of New York, and Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, the latter chairman of the House District Committee. Senator King, of Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, also said he saw no objections to residential beer sale.

Draft beer was obtainable practically everywhere through the downtown section yesterday and in most of the community business districts. Bottled beer was becoming easier to get, but was still much scarcer than the other variety.

Takes Case to Court.

Samuel Wertlieb, delicatessen proprietor of 1400 C street southeast, yesterday took steps in District Supreme Court to compel the District Commissioners and the superintendent of licenses to issue him an "off sale" beer permit.

Wertlieb pointed out a license was denied him on the grounds that he is in a residential neighborhood. He said he had complied with the law in asking for a permit.

The beer board moved yesterday from the corporation counsel's suite to the office of Capt. Hugh P. Oram, a member of the board, so its operations would no longer interfere with the work of William W. Bride and his assistants.

Among the temporary permits issued yesterday were an on-sale license to the post exchange and an off-sale license to the post market at Walter Reed Hospital.

Payne Announces Work For Idle District Women

Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross announced yesterday that the $6,874.50 proceeds from the recent Paderewski concert will be used to give about 100 unemployed women ten weeks' work in the District of Columbia Chapter production rooms, in line with the request of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt that the fund be used in unemployment relief in Washington.

The women, equally divided between white and colored, will make garments from Government cotton cloth to be given to Washington's needy.

The candidacy of Arthur Clarendon Smith for District Commissioner was indorsed last night by the Lions Club of Silver Spring, Md., which held its meeting in Takoma Park, D. C.

House Beer Sale Waits on License

Another Day's Delay Denies Beverage to Thirsty Members.

Thirsty members of the House will have to wait at least another day before they quench that thirst on 3.2 per cent brew in the House restaurant, it became apparent yesterday, when members of a House accounts subcommittee delayed application for a license.

Representative Kramer (Democrat), California, and Representative Wolfenden (Republican) Pennsylvania, who comprise the subcommittee, are not at all certain the restaurant has to go to the Commissioners for a license.

Frank Verdi, manager of the House restaurant, is ready to order beer to the taste of members as soon as they reach their decision. He is now in hopes it can be placed on sale by tomorrow. Speaker Rainey decided against sale of beer in the cloakrooms after he found he would have to pay the license fees out of his own pockets.

Boyer Today Expected To Answer Indictment

Charles D. Boyer, former cashier of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., is expected to appear in the District Supreme Court today to answer an indictment charging him with embezzling several thousands of dollars of the bank's money.

Mr. Boyer was arraigned a week ago, at which time, through his attorney, Lucien Vandoren, he entered a plea of not guilty.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

With the arrival of warmer weather, Washington becomes a focal point for vacationers from all parts of the Nation. Since these transients are unfamiliar with the city and its traffic code, every consideration and aid should be given them by motorists, police and public carriers.

The accident figures to date are:

MANCHESTER SEIZED IN 'DURKEE' INQUIRY

Chevy Chase Man Accused of Fraud Arrested on Writ; Held in $5,000 Bond.

George R. Manchester, 67, of Chevy Chase, Md., was arrested yesterday on a warrant alleging that he was a fugitive from Massachusetts, sworn out in Rockville, Md., by State Policeman John F. Stokes, of Massachusetts. The fugitive warrant was issued on the basis of an indictment returned by the Middlesex County (Mass.) grand jury, charging Manchester with being one of the perpetrators of the alleged "Durkee Estate" swindle.

Manchester, who formerly was a prominent Republican leader in New York State, a close personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt, and an organizer of the National Progressive Party, was given a hearing before Judge Charles W. Woodward, in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville yesterday and held on bond of $5,000.

Middlesex authorities charge that Manchester was one of a group which tried to get the public to invest in a plan to recover some $64,000,000 in bonds, alleged to have been posted with the Federal Government to guarantee completion of the Transcontinental Railroad by a former Governor of Utah, Durkee.

The warrant specifically charges Manchester and three companions with conspiracy between September 1, 1928, and April 1, 1933, to "commit the crime of stealing from the general public."

Both Federal and State officials say that the story is fictitious and that the bonds never were posted.

District Attorney Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex County has been in Washington several days conferring with officials of the Treasury and Justice Departments and has secured their promise to send representatives to aid in prosecution of the cases in Middlesex County.

U. S. Quiz of Shootings By Policemen Is Urged

A Federal investigation of every case of shooting by policemen resulting in death was requested of the District attorney by the Bloomingdale Civic Association at a meeting last night at Tabor Presbyterian Church. The resolution grew out of the killing of a colored man Monday, who was shot while fleeing from a policeman in the Northeast section.

The committee on legislation of the association was directed to investigate issuance of beer licenses within a radius of 200 feet of neighborhood schools and churches. The association also voiced opposition to all budget slashes affecting public schools.

D. C. Rent Probers To Meet This Morning

A meeting of the special House District subcommittee named to investigate District taxes, rents, fiscal relations and real estate transactions, was tentatively set for this morning by Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, chairman.

Chairman Mary T. Norton of the House District Committee said full committee action on a resolution empowering the subcommittee to subpena witnesses will be delayed until after the Easter holidays.

PATRONS BUY STOCK IN NORTHEAST BANK

Reopening of Savings House Believed Fixed as 270 Depositors Meet.

The depositors of the Northeast Savings Bank met last night in the bank and more than half of those who attended subscribed to stock, which will be used to place the bank in a position where it may resume full operations, according to G. F. Hoover, the conservator.

The depositors met in the lobby of the bank. About 270 were in attendance. Mr. Hoover presided at the meeting. The program for reopening calls for application by depositors of 25 per cent of their deposits toward purchase of stock in the bank at the rate of $25 a share.

The stock would have a par value of $10 a share, the other $15 being applied to cancel depreciated value in securities held by the bank toward the building up of a reserve. The plan is for the sale of $100,000 in capital stock.

7 Chinese Arraigned After Narcotic Raid

Arrested when police and narcotic agents raided a house near Fourth and H streets northwest, seven Chinese yesterday were arraigned on charges of violating the narcotic act, before United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage, who continued their preliminary hearing for one week.

In the meantime, he said bonds totaling $14,500 would have to be placed by the men if they wished to escape waiting in jail until their cases could be disposed of.

Woman Reports Loss Of Watch Worth $450

A diamond-set platinum wrist watch, valued at $450, was reported lost yesterday by Mrs. Cora Baker, of 1816 Jefferson street northwest.

She told police the watch was lost between her home and Connecticut avenue and Q street. She said it was set with ten diamonds, five at each end.

Woman Is Attacked And Robbed by Girl

Victim in Serious Condition at Hospital After Being Beaten in Alley.

Assaulted by a young colored girl, who robbed her of $6.50, Mrs. Kate Gallagher, 50, of 205 E street northeast, is in a serious condition in Casualty Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and possible fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Gallagher told police the girl accosted her in an alley and struck her several times, knocking her to the ground. Mrs. Gallagher was taken to the hospital in a police car.

Later in the day police arrested Naomi Johnson, 15, colored, of 914 Third street northeast, for investigation.

DISSATISFIED, BAKER TO TAKE CHARGE OF REPAIR SHOP TODAY

Denies General Furloughing Plan, but Says Some Changes Are Due.

Harold W. Baker, director of construction, will take personal charge of the District Repair Shop today for an indefinite period to see that the remaining $67,500 is expended efficiently in order to provide as much work as possible for the 267 per diem employes now on the rolls.

While Mr. Baker had no comment to make about the move, it was understood that he is not satisfied with the shop's administration. L. C. Wormington is superintendent. Mr. Baker will continue in charge of the municipal architect's office and as supervisor of all municipal construction.

While denying published reports that there would be any general furloughing of repair shop employes on account of a shortage of funds, Mr. Baker said there would have to be some adjustments. Some workmen may be furloughed and others may be put on a part-time basis, but no such order has yet been issued.

Not Unusual Procedure.

Mr. Baker pointed out that it is not unsual for the repair shop to furlough its per diem employes. The list of employes fluctuates with the varying appropriations and with the work available. A number of workmen were dismissed several months ago following the completion of the repairing of Wilson Teachers College.

As the estimate for the repair shop in the 1934 bill has been cut to $325,000, as against $467,000 for this year, more furloughs probably will have to be made, Mr. Baker said, although the further cuts in wages will take up part of this difference. In addition, the shop has about $50,000 worth of material on hand.

Is Held Justified.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, yesterday held justified the expenditure of approximately $18,000 from the general fund for the painting and general repair of Wilson Teachers College, although $55,000 remains unexpended from the specific $120,000 appropriated to make the school structurally safe. He interpreted the appropriation as being for necessary work only, he said.

The anticipated $20,000 expenditure for installing new heating plants in four schools was in no way a surprise, it was said, as the plan had been fully explained in hearings on the 1933 bill.

Second $1,000 Gift To Orchestra Here

Capital Donor Also Asks That Name Be Kept From Public.

The first offer by a Washingtonian to match the anonymous $1,000 conditional gift to the sustaining fund of the National Symphony Orchestra has been received, Manager C. C. Cappel announced yesterday.

The original $1,000 was received Monday from a New Yorker and was given with the proviso that five other persons subscribe like amounts to the fund which are necessary if the orchestra is to go forward with plans for a concert season next fall.

For the present, the person who made the original offer and the first District resident to match the gift have both asked that their names not be made public. If four others can be found who will subscribe a like amount, the sum needed for next season will be reduced to $19,000 and possibly less, as several smaller subscriptions also have been received.

Five Persons Are Hurt In Downtown Car Crash

Gertrude Henderson, 29, of Baltimore, was injured internally, and four other persons suffered minor cuts and bruises early yesterday when a car driven by Charles Fisher, 36, of Mexico City, collided with another at Fifteenth and K streets northwest.

Fisher was treated at Emergency Hospital, where he was taken with Miss Henderson, for lacerations of the tongue. Miss Henderson remained at the hospital. Others treated for cuts and bruises were Mrs. Louise Fisher, 25, and Jack Fisher, 7, of Baltimore, and Ruth Philfer, 31, 2000 I street northwest.
